Workmen inspect damage after 50 feet of Goodhill Road in Kentfield buckled about dawn today in the wake of recent rains. The collapse apparently snapped a water pipe as a woman who lives across the street, Mrs. Wellington Henderson Jr. of 635 Goodhill, reported: "The noise was like Niagara Falls." Collegiate Fee Increase, Gas Tax Moratorium Proposed

Student Bite $24 To $798

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, proposed today a fee increase ranging from $24 to $798 for University of California and State College students who can afford to pay for their education.

The new increase would raise up to $37 million a year — money that is needed to expand the state's higher education system, Monagan said in unveiling the plan at a news conference.

The fee, if approved by the Legislature and the U.C.regents, would be based on a family's or student's gross income and would apply to about 70 per cent of the students now attending the university and 60 per cent at the state colleges.

AVERAGE HIKE $150

The hike for most students would run about $150 a year.

There would be no increase over the present fee — $300 a year at U.C. and $86 at the colleges — for students who come from families with less than $10,000 a year gross income.

His proposal of a graduated scale of increases, depending on the ability to pay, "is more equitable and practical than an across-the-board fee increase," Monagan said. "It eliminates the need to take money from one pocket of a poor student as a fee and return it to the other pocket as student aid.

PLAN A REVIVAL

The plan is similar to one Monagan proposed last year, when he was Assembly minority leader. Now, as speaker, he is a U.C. regent and state college trustee. The plan would not go into effect at the colleges unless it was adopted by the U.C. regents.

Monagan also noted that his proposal "does not increase the burden of that beleaguered lower-middle income group which has been described as too rich for special financial assistance, but too poor to finance a college education."

Monagan said the bulk of students who would pay the fee hike come from the $10,000 to $13,000-a-year income bracket. The fee increase starts at $24 for $10,000 families and goes to $150 for $13,000 families.

The money will go into a special fund for specific purposes which haven't yet been spelled out, Monagan said.

But the basic aim, he added, is construction of new facilities to allow the higher education system to handle more students. Many state colleges had to turn away qualified applicants this spring because of overenrollment.

"We're reaching the maximum capacity to handle any more students at all," Monagan said.

Pro-Ferry Labor Speaker Blasts Span Bus Proposal

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

A plan for the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District to go into the commute bus business was blasted last night by a labor leader as a plot to revive the proposed second deck on the bridge.

But most of the 100 or more persons attending the public hearing in Marin Civic Center strongly endorsed development of such a bus system, with about 20 persons, representing homeowners associations, taxpayer and commuter groups, speaking in favor.

"The second deck still is the ultimate goal of many people on the bridge board," charged Louis Goldblatt of Mill Valley in the hearing on the plan by bridge board committees.

Second deck plans were shelved last year by bridge directors, but Goldblatt declared "there's a very substantial section of San Francisco that feels that the plans were only put aside temporarily."

Goldblatt was one of the few persons to speak against the plan, but as secretary-treasurer of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, he is known to have considerable political power — especially with the San Francisco Board of Supervisors, which now appoints eight of the bridge board's 16 members.

The San Francisco supervisors favor ferry boats over buses as a solution to the commuter logjam, and appointed Goldblatt as one of their six representatives on the nine-member San Francisco-Marin Water Transportation Study Committee.

The committee last month contracted with consultants to do a $45,000 feasibility study of ferries, Goldblatt noted last night, and no action should be

Transit Solution Claimed

SACRAMENTO (UPI)— The chairman of the Assembly Transportation Committee today proposed cutting the tax on gasoline and substituting the sales tax for one year to provide more money for rapid transit and other local uses.

Assemblyman John F. Foran, D-San Francisco, proposed legislation cutting the 7-cent a gallon gas tax 5 cents and adding the 5 per cent sales tax to gasoline and diesel fuel.

Foran, noting that the Department of Public Works "hoards" millions of surplus dollars each year and does not spend them on highway construction, said the cost of gasoline to the motorist would be slightly lower under his plan.

TO FREE SURPLUS

He said the measure would immediately free on a one-time basis about $224.4 million in surplus funds.

He said by clamping a one-year moratorium on collection of the gasoline tax, which must be spent for highway construction, $180 million in tax relief would be provided.

Foran estimated the sales tax on gasoline would raise $140 million during the year and would be returned to local government for repair of flood-damaged roads and for construction of rapid transit, mass transit and operation of public transit.

Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan told reporters he "disagreed" on some aspects of Foran's plan. He added, "the first consideration I would have to use any excess gas tax money would be for a total transportation system" such as rapid transit.

OBSTACLES SEEN

Foran, acknowledging that the bill is certain to encounter resistance in the Senate and from the Highway Commission, said $112 million would be earmarked for local transportation purposes and $28 million would be given directly to counties for general support.

At a news conference outlining his bill, Foran told reporters he was, in effect, providing tax relief and that the plan "should fall within the governor's mandate of new taxes."

He said the measure would be in effect only one year and that it would take additional legislation next year to extend it.

Foran's bill, which he said he hopes will be supported by his committee, was based generally upon recommendations of a report prepared by the Assembly Office of Research for the committee.

N.Y. Governor Seeks Tax Use For Education, Local Affairs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York unveiled at the White House a plan to continue the "temporary" 10 per cent federal income tax surcharge and use the proceeds to help finance state and local programs, particularly for education to the tune of $2.75 billion next year and $14 billion by 1973.

In a presentation made before President Richard M. Nixon's Urban Affairs Council, Rockefeller also suggested that 25 per cent of future growth in other federal revenues be earmarked to underwrite new nationwide welfare standards which, he urged, should be paid in full by the federal government.

Nixon presided at the opening of the Urban Council meeting but turned over the chair to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew because a National Security Council session began 15 minutes later.

"A serious imbalance has been developing within the federal system," Rockefeller said. "State and local expenditures to meet human needs have been rising much more rapidly than federal expenditures for domestic purposes.

However, the federal government collects two-thirds of all the taxes whereas state and local governments collect only one-third, and this is inadequate to meet the people's needs."

The governor also called for creation of a national contributory health insurance system and an overhaul in the method of calculating and granting federal aid to the states and localities.

The National Security Council meeting came a day earlier than expected but White House spokesmen said the change indicated no emergency. The meeting's topics were not revealed.

Earlier President Nixon today formally named James Farmer, a founder of the Congress of Racial Equality, as an assistant secretary of health, education and welfare.

Farmer, 49, told newsmen at the White House, "it was a very easy decision" to join the Nixon administration and declared his support for policies announced to date by HEW Secretary Robert H. Finch.

Finch said Farmer would have a "considerably upgraded status" as assistant secretary for administration and would have a powerful voice in plans to reorganize the department.

Farmer, acknowledging Nixon received a small minority of Negro votes in the November election, said, "I suspect that their attitude will change considerably in the next four years."

Farmer campaigned last year for Nixon's Democratic opponent, former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Attempts To Bomb Buses Stopped By GIs

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist terror bombers tried today to blow up two buses carrying about 100 American servicemen in Saigon but the GI passengers thwarted both attempts.

The terrorists attached one bomb to a protective screen on a bus window but a soldier cut it loose before it exploded. The other bomb, placed against the wheel of a bus, was discovered and disarmed before it detonated.

In northern South Vietnam, 7,000 U.S. and Allied troops drove into the A Shau Valley area to break up what American commanders said was a Communist buildup threatening the cities of Da Nang, Hue and Quang Tri. In that drive U.S. Marines today threw back a counterattack, killing 12 Communists.

The bus bomb incidents came shortly after U.S. aircraft and artillery killed 50 guerrillas apparently trying to rocket the U.S. Army's Vietnam headquarters in nearby Long Binh. Elsewhere U.S. helicopter gunships killed 59 guerrillas in smashing two Viet Cong sampan convoys in the Mekong Delta below Saigon. GIs in the Central Highlands killed another 17 Communists.

Near the abandoned Marine base of Khe Sanh, in South Vietnam's northwestern corner, Communists shot down a U.S. CH47 helicopter, killing one American soldier and wounding eight more. It was the 1,006th U.S. chopper downed in South Vietnam.

The terrorism and the battling appeared to fit a pattern of U.S. and Allied efforts to break up Communist plans—documented in captured Viet Cong papers—for a major offensive this month.

NIXON MARKS BIRTHDAY OF LINCOLN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon placed a wreath at the base of the statue in the Lincoln Memorial today at ceremonies marking the 160th birthday of the martyred Civil War president.

The chief executive approached the memorial through a double line of military flag bearers and mounted the steep steps at a fast pace set by the United States Army band playing the Battle Hymn of the Republic.

The President placed the wreath of red and white carnations and stood in bowed silence during three slow rolls of muffled drums and the sounding of taps by an Army trumpeter.

A New Warning On Birth Issue

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI, in an obvious allusion to the controversy over birth control, warned Roman Catholics today against relying only on their own consciences.

The Pope in effect disputed those in the church who insist that Catholic couples, despite the ban on birth control, are still free to follow their consciences on whether to practice contraception.

The Pope, addressing thousands at his weekly general audience, sounded a warning carried in months past by the Vatican press—that the conscience alone is not enough.

Leftwing Students Warned On Anti-Nixon Visit Plan

BERLIN (UPI)—West Berlin authorities today threatened police action against dissident leftwing students who said they would ruin the Feb. 27 visit by President Nixon with huge demonstrations. Rumblings of a possible new Berlin crisis were heard again today.

The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia repeated previous Soviet charges the West German government is endangering European peace by holding presidential elections in West Berlin, and there were reports of forthcoming Warsaw Pact war games on the border of West Germany at an unspecified date.

Izvestia did not publish any editorial comment of its own but it printed criticism of the West Berlin election moves from the East European Communist bloc countries and headlined it: "Bonn's Provocations Fan Tensions In Europe."

In Bonn, more than 200 student demonstrators hurled red ink-filled plastic bags at British Prime Minister Harold Wilson's motorcade today in protest against British policy on the Nigerian Civil War. Wilson is in Germany for talks with Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger and plans to visit Berlin.

West German authorities today spurned Communist warnings of a new Berlin crisis by formally ordering the election of the country's president in West Berlin, March 5, a week after Nixon arrives.

That order defies East German threats to prevent Federal Assembly members from reaching the isolated city by overland travel. The Communists declared that the use of Berlin for the election is illegal. The travel ban is to begin Saturday.

Weapon Exploded At Nevada Site

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission announced today its fourth weapons-related nuclear test explosion of the year, set off underground at its Nevada test site.

The blast was of low yield, meaning it had a blast equivalent of less than 20,000 tons of TNT.

Israel Downs Syrian MIG; Eshkol Backed

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli jets shot down a Syrian air force MIG21 today.

A Syrian military spokesman in Damascus said the plane was on a training mission with an other Soviet-built MIG21 near the cease-fire line when they were attacked by four French-made Mirage 3 jets of the Israeli air force. He accused the Israelis of violating Syrian air space.

In Tel Aviv, an Israeli spokesman claimed two Syrian jets were over Israeli territory and that one was shot down and the other chased off.

It was the first air battle between Syria and Israel in more than a year. No Israeli losses were reported.

An Israeli spokesman said the two Soviet-built jets crossed the border over the Golan Heights, which Israel seized from Syria during the 1967 war.

He said one of the MIG pilots bailed out and his plane was seen to crash in Syrian territory.

In Jerusalem, meanwhile, Premier Levi Eshkol's government won an overwhelming vote of confidence last night from the Knesset, Israel's parliament, but the premier still was threatened with the defection of one party in his coalition Cabinet.

A no-confidence motion put forward by the nationalist Free Center party was defeated 74-5, but Haim Landau said he and other leaders of the rightist Gahal party would meet to decide whether to withdraw from the government. The withdrawal would not rob the government of its majority.

The threat to the government resulted from Eshkol's interview with Newsweek magazine in which he said Israel is deter-

He said one of the MIG pilots bailed out and his plane was seen to crash in Syrian territory.

In Jerusalem, meanwhile, Premier Levi Eshkol's government won an overwhelming vote of confidence last night from the Knesset, Israel's parliament, but the premier still was threatened with the defection of one party in his coalition Cabinet.

A no-confidence motion put forward by the nationalist Free Center party was defeated 74-5, but Haim Landau said he and other leaders of the rightist Gahal party would meet to decide whether to withdraw from the government. The withdrawal would not rob the government of its majority.

The threat to the government resulted from Eshkol's interview with Newsweek magazine in which he said Israel is deter-

Northeast Crawls Out Of Snowdrifts

NEW YORK (AP) — The Northeast was still shaking off the effects of its surprise snowstorm today with commuters, school children and cleanup crews continuing to meet occasional drifts of resistence.

The death toll attributed to the Sunday storm had climbed past 100 for the stricken New Jersey-to-Maine area. Most of the victims were felled by heart attacks while shoveling snow.

Airline traffic was still curtailed yesterday but officials at metropolitan New York's Kennedy, LaGuardia and Newark airports expected flight operation to be "at or near normal" by this morning.

From Boston to New York the story was much the same for commuters yesterday — buses and trains crept along and trips usually measured in minutes were prolonged into hours.

In New York City many side streets and even some parkways were not yet plowed and the city's handling of the snow removal operation was suddenly a political controversy, with criticism of Mayor John V. Lindsay, who may seek re-election in November.

70 Miles Of Coast In Oil Slick Path

SANTA BARBARA (AP)--An oil spill smeared petroleum for 70 miles along the California coast today and hovered off barricaded harbors.

Crude oil was found yesterday as far south as Point Dume in Los Angeles County and as far north as Goleta, just above Santa Barbara.

At Oxnard, one of three log booms was removed from the Channel Islands harbor and harbor patrolman Bob Wallen said there appeared to be only a thin film of oil against th outer boom. The harbor remained closed last night, however.

Men used bundles of straw yesterday to soak up oil which had penetrated into the harbor.

The oil continued to cause worry two weeks after an undersea leak developed at a Union Oil Co. offshore drilling rig. The leak was plugged Saturday but left an estimated quarter of a million gallons of crude bobbing across 800 square miles of the Pacific Ocean.

The heaviest concentration appeared to be in a 35-mile stretch between Santa Barbara and Port Hueneme in Ventura County.

Nixon's Consumer Adviser Is Good Housekeeping Aide

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has named Willie Mae Rogers, director of the Good Housekeeping Institute, to advise the government on ways to expand its consumer-protecting activities.

Miss Rogers reports to the White House today to become a special consultant to the President.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said her task will be to "evaluate the efforts taking place within the government on consumer problems and affairs and to make recommendations to the President on how this administration can best expand these programs."

She is not a replacement for Betty Furness, the former television personality who was President Johnson's special assistant for consumer affairs.

Miss Rogers will keep her Good Housekeeping post in New York which she has held since 1953 and will be paid by the government on a per diem basis.

Ziegler said he saw no conflict of interest between Miss Rogers' dual jobs with Good Housekeeping and the Government. Her institute selects and guarantees advertised products it considers worthy of a seal of approval and evaluates numerous consumer items.

Wiretapping Authorized

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell has authorized federal agents to use wiretaps in the fight against authorized crime, ending a three and one-half year ban on their use for anything but national security cases.

But, it was learned yesterday, the Republican administration has made no use of the wiretaps —which can be established for 48 hours without a court order —since Congress authorized the last year. Mitchell has retained will be used.

Justice Department officials are reviewing whether FBI director J. Edgar Hoover will be delegated the power to decide when wiretaps should be installed. However, he has not sought the power.

Former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark is known to have authorized about 40 taps for investigations related to national security, which require a prior court order.

Mitchell is said to be moving slowly on the 48-hour wiretaps while his aides work on guidelines spelling out how the new authority will be used.

Suharto Resting

JAKARTA (AP) — President Suharto was resting at home today suffering from fatigue after complaining of severe headaches, palace officials said.

I. W. ABEL
Expected to keep job

Steelworkers' Chief Leading In Vote Contest

PITTSBURGH (AP) — I. W. Abel, who climbed from the mill floor to the top of organized labor, took a commanding lead and appeared bound for victory today in his battle to keep the presidency of the powerful United Steelworkers Union.

Unofficial returns compiled by Abel's campaign aides gave the incumbent a 129,868 to 66,431 lead over challenger Emil Narick, a relatively unknown union lawyer. Abel's committee said it tally included 2,225 of the union's 3,700 locals.

An Associated Press survey had Abel ahead by a similar 2-1 margin. The voting won't be official until all ballots are certified by union tellers. This could take until May 1.

Narick, a handsome 52-year-old former Pitt football player, was trying to become the second man in the 26-year-history of the 1.2 million member union to defeat an incumbent president.

Abel was the first. Four years ago, after a bitter campaign, the 60-year-old leader brought a sudden end to the colorful 12-year reign of David J. McDonald.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Borman In Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Astronaut Frank Borman returned to West Berlin today after 20 years. He explained that his last visit was during the Berlin Airlift.

"I was here before amid many bags of coal," Col. Borman told newsmen at Tempelhof Airport. "There have been many space advances in the past two decades, yet we have so many troubles here on earth."

Borman, his wife and two sons flew to Berlin from Bonn at a time of new Communist pressure on the surrounded city.

Moving Along

PEARL HARBOR (AP) — Repair work on the nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise is ahead of schedule and she may be able to leave by mid-March for the western Pacific, the Navy reports.

The Big E was knocked out of service Jan. 14 by a series of explosions in her fantail section that left 27 dead and 85 injured. She was 70 miles southwest of Honolulu conducting training exercises at the time.

Rejects Statue

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson rejected a parliamentary suggestion yesterday that the government erect a statue to the late Sir Winston Churchill in London. Wilson said there has been no indication of "broad support" in the country for such a statue.

Token Strike

ROME (UPI)—Italy's major unions today began their second nationwide token strike in eight days although industry leaders were reported ready to discuss union demands to abolish pay differences between north and south Italy.

A great contribution of the Romans to world culture was the pantomine, first performed in 22 B.C., says Collier's Encyclopedia.

Anti-ROTC Move

STANFORD (UPI) — A student-faculty committee has recommended that Stanford University no longer give academic credit for military training in the Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC).

The action, recommended by a 6-3 vote of the committee yesterday, would become effective in 1973 if adopted by the Stanford faculty.

Similar action has been taken at Harvard, Yale, Cornell, the University of Pennsylvania and Cal Poly at Pomona.

Computer Reducing Medical Exam Costs

BERKELEY (AP) — Alta Bates Hospital, using computer programming, is offering private patients 35 separate medical tests for $35.

The hospital said yesterday that without automation the test series would cost $150 or more.

Halt Students

LAHORE, Pakistan (AP) — Police charged with steel-tipped staves today as thousands of students tried to march on the house where President Mohammed Ayub Khan was conferring on the nation's political troubles.

At least six students were injured.

More than 15,000 students had Lahore's fashionable Mall district under their control, directing all traffic. They chanted anti-Ayub slogans and demanded governmental and educational reforms.

Drink Fatal

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A 17-year-old boy died and 12 other youths — none older than 14 — were hospitalized after they drank nearly a gallon of antifreeze they thought was wine.

The youths found the antifreeze in a discarded wine jug, under a tree, police said Tuesday.

Donald Summers of Coraopolis died in Allegheny General Hospital of poisoning.

Cuba Holds Jet Until Fuel Arrives

MIAMI (AP) — A hijacked airliner from Venezuela will be held in Cuba until jet fuel is delivered from South America as retaliation for last year's seizure of a Cuban fishing boat by the Venezuelan Navy, the Cuban radio said today.

The DC9 yet, owned by the Venezuelan government-run airline, Aeropostal, was hijacked yesterday by three Venezuelan passengers wielding two pistols and a hand grenade, the broadcast said.

The Cuban fishing boat, Alecrin, was seized by Venezuela last Nov. 20 and later released.

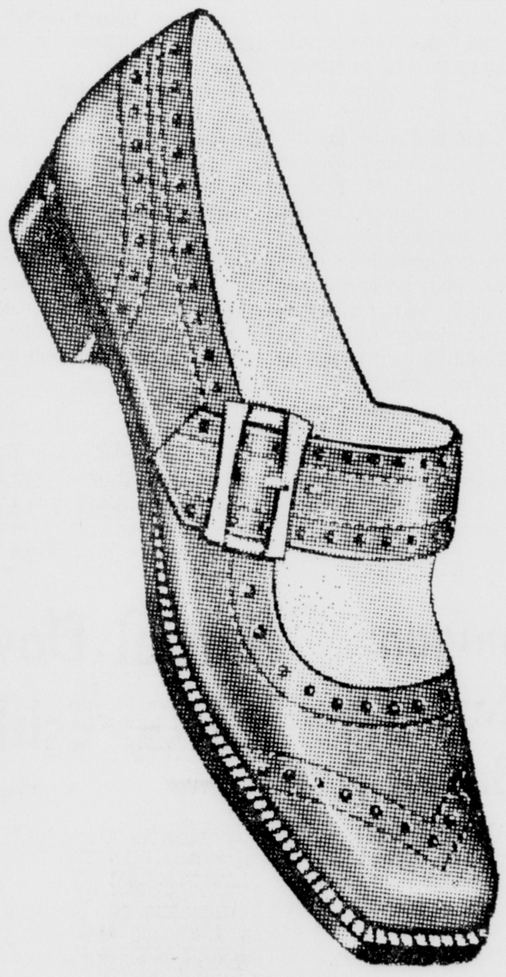

Details of the hijack were given in a daybreak broadcast by the Cuban government's station called Radio Liberacion monitored in Miami. It is unusual for the Cuban radio to give any details of a hijack; the announcer emphasized that the hijackers were Venezuelan.

The plane's 68 passengers and crew of five were housed at Versalles Hotel in Santiago, according to the Cuban information.

Although two other Venezuelan airliners have been hijacked to Cuba and released, this was the first from that country since the boat seizure.

Ferry Advocate Raps Span Commute Buses

taken by the bridge board on the bus plan until the ferry study is done. It is due to be completed June 30. (See also story on the ferry study, page 10.)

It would be "a most drastic error" if the bridge board were to act on the bus plan before the ferry study is done, he cautioned. "The atmosphere among many, many people of influence in San Francisco, if you don't wait, would be that a pet project was rammed through to get a first claim on the bridge funds," said Goldblatt.

Arguing for the need for cooperation between San Francisco and the bridge board, he likened the dispute between ferry and bus advocates to "heirs arguing about an inheritance — by the time they finish arguing, the attorneys have picked up all the money."

Goldblatt, conceded that commuters were anxious for action immediately, but blamed years of inaction on "people who where hung up on the idea that the commuter couldn't be uncoupled from his car, and that a second deck was the answer.

"For a long time, there has been a bit of fetishism over a second deck by a number of bridge directors," he asserted.

Bridge director Lowell Edgington of Napa County observed that the bridge district has no authority to subsidize ferries, and that one of San Francisco's own state senators, Republican Milton Marks, had deleted this authority from a bill before the 1968 Legislature.

If the ferry study shows water transportation will work, replied Goldblatt, "then you'll get the power, I can assure you."

In any event, said Goldblatt, the district's funds must be reserved for use in the Golden Gate corridor, "otherwise they'll end up in a branch of the Santa Ana Freeway."

Bridge director Edwin M. Fraser of Del Norte County noted that Goldblatt was one of the few opponents to the plan to speak at the hearing, but Goldblatt retorted "there have been lone voices in the world's history that turned out to be right."

Edgington also questioned Goldblatt about the San Francisco supervisors' standing policy that the bridge district should be dissolved after its bonds are retired in 1871. "It bothers me," said Edgington.

Goldblatt said he disagreed with the policy, and director Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco added that the policy may be changed because the new board, new general manager and new relations with San Francisco "brings new confidence" in the district. Leonoudakis represents the San Francisco supervisors both on the bridge board and on the ferry study committee.

Leonoudakis also insisted that the plan "leads to a second deck."

The plan, drawn by the district's former engineer, Arthur C. Jenkins, calls for the district to operate a system of 150 new buses. To get it started would cost $8.5 million, and the annual subsidy from bridge funds would be $1,411,000, Jenkins estimated.

It would operate in Marin, San Francisco, Sonoma and Napa counties, and could be in operation within seven months, according to Jenkins.

The commuters' affairs and finance committees' joint hearing last night was the second on the plan, and a third is to be set in San Francisco. It was the first meeting of bridge directors in Marin in many years.

Of the more than 100 persons attended the hearing, about 20 spoke, many of them reiterating positions taken last week before the Marin County Transit District board, which unanimously endorsed the Jenkins plan.

Among those favoring the plan, and urging its prompt implementation, were the San Anselmo City Council, the Marin Council for Civic Affairs, the San Anselmo Homes Association, the North Marin Federation of Homeowners Associations, the Novato Commuters Club, the Fairfax Taxpayers for Planned Development and the Marin County Real Estate Board.

The district's general manager, Dale W. Luehring of Mill Valley, testified that a "severe transportation crisis" has struck the bridge despite the expenditure of more than $1.6 million on 30 studies of the problem in the past 10 years.

Traffic last year totaled some 31 million vehicles, and is shooting up at the rate of two million more a year. Bus traffic, he noted, has not increased in the past 20 years.

"We're not about to act hastily," commented the chairman of the joint committee, Joseph E. Sheeks of Belvedere.

After the San Francisco hearing on the plan, he said, another hearing will be held in district offices to try to decide what action to take on it.

Teeners Still Looking For Place For Ark

The Belvedere teen-agers' ark is still looking for a home, the Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission learned yesterday.

The commission was told a Northwestern Pacific Railroad site proposed for the ark is not available, and the teen-agers are now looking for another. The ark was given to the young people several weeks ago for use as a teen center.

The commission also agreed to write state authorities to protest a recently published development plan for Angel Island as "overdevelopment." The plan has been opposed by conservation groups.

After a long discussion with the commission on a development plan for Belvedere open spaces, landscape architect Carlisle Becker said he may have a formal presentation ready by September. He will give the commission a further report in March.

Teen Dashes From Chair Of Dentist

About to have an infected tooth examined, a 15-year-old youth in juvenile custody escaped both his probation officer and a dentist yesterday.

James C. Kisling of 325 Ironstone Court, Terra Linda, being held on suspicion of attempted rape and car theft, turned himself into juvenile authorities this morning.

Probation Officer J. F. Cronin escorted Kisling from Juvenile Hall to a dentist in the Northgate Shopping Center after the youth complained of a tooth ache. Just before the dentist was to examine the tooth, Kisling dashed out of the office with Cronin giving chase.

Kisling told probation officers he just wandered around for the nine hours of his freedom.

Kisling and his 13-year-old brother, Richard, were booked into Juvenile Hall on Saturday on suspicion of stealing a car from the Northgate Shopping Center parking lot.

A 26-year-old San Francisco woman reported to police that the two boys had picked her up in Tamalpais Valley and later attempted to rape her, but she managed to escape.

Following a high-speed chase on Nicasio Road, sheriff's deputies reported capturing the two youths.

Trustees Cut Reed School Plan

Reed School District trustees last night eliminated the administration and unified arts buildings from Reedland Woods School plans and will ask for new bids for the proposed school, chairman K. L. Rice Jr. reported today.

Trustees rejected four bids for the school last Thursday, all over the engineering estimate of $870,000.

Rice said that the eliminated space will be incorporated into the multi-media center and classroom building, bringing down costs.

The board also asked the administration for a master plan for building and site improvements at Reed School and set a meeting for 8 p.m. Feb. 25 at Reed School to consider the plan.

This action followed a request from the Parent-Teacher Club at Reed School, asking that about $100,000 left from the 1967 bond issue be used for improvements. The $100,000, Rice said, is bond funds, not part of the operating budget.

Letter To FCC Will Seek End Of TV Deadlock

The Gnoss Estates Association will write the Federal Communication Commission asking it to break the deadlock on television cable in Novato, according to John Schoonover association president.

The FCC froze new installations to the cable owned by Western California Telephone Co. on June 26, and the association wants this lifted so that residents east of Highway 101 can hook onto the cable, Schoonover said. The action was taken at the quarterly meeting of the association Monday night at Olive School, he said.

Schoonover reported on the formation of the North Marin Federation of Homeowners Associations.

George A. Amoroli of 11 Rebecca Way, Novato, spoke in favor of merging the Novato Sanitary District with the North Marin County Water District, according to Schoonover.

Mrs. Hier said the items were gift-wrapped and had been taken some time last week. No reason was given for the delay in reporting the theft.

Movie Projectors Taken From School

All of the office equipment and two movie projectors were taken from West End School, Fifth Avenue and H Street, San Rafael, in a break-in Monday night, police said.

A janitor reported a window had been pried open and the building entered and all of the typewriters, a copying machine, a phonograph and other equipment taken, police said.

of debate and argument and discussion," Monagan said.

But he added: "I do not condone any action by any legislative committee that involves taking action on specific bills in executive session. I will not permit it wherever I have any authority to do so in this house and do not believe it's the right thing to do."

Monagan was asked if he had any plan to combat the past practice of the Senate Governmental Efficiency Committee of meeting at times in closed session on bills.

"I have no plan," he said. "I would kind of like to encourage the smaller body of the legislature to emulate our fair, square approach." He admitted, however, it would be impractical to try to ban all executive committee sessions because "it's so easy to circumvent it."

Meanwhile, Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, introduced a bill to extend the Brown Act to committees and subcommittees of both local and state agencies.

He also indicated Israel would relinquish the Sinai Desert, taken from Egypt, although it would keep troops at the southeast corner of the peninsula overlooking the Gulf of Aqaba, the southern water route to Israel.

At the United Nations, U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost said he expected to begin bilateral talks on the Middle East with the Soviet, British and French U.N. delegates "very shortly."

Boat Holding Tanks Backed

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — State legislation to require holding tanks on boats with toilets and pumping facilities at marinas to empty the tanks will be recommended to the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board by its staff when the board meets here at 10 a.m. tomorrow in the State Building, 1111 Jackson Street.

A study committee of the state Water Resources Control Board has recommended holding tanks be required on all houseboats, but the staff of the regional board wants the proposal extended to general boating, reported Fred H. Dierker, executive officer of the regional board.

He said the staff would not propose that all boats and all marinas fall under the regulation at present, but that it apply only to marinas designated by the board as posing a pollution hazard.

Goldblatt, conceded that commuters were anxious for action immediately, but blamed years of inaction on "people who where hung up on the idea that the commuter couldn't be uncoupled from his car, and that a second deck was the answer.

"For a long time, there has been a bit of fetishism over a second deck by a number of bridge directors," he asserted.

Bridge director Lowell Edgington of Napa County observed that the bridge district has no authority to subsidize ferries, and that one of San Francisco's own state senators, Republican Milton Marks, had deleted this authority from a bili before the 1968 Legislature.

If the ferry study shows water transportation will work, replied Goldblatt, "then you'll get the power, I can assure you."

In any event, said Goldblatt, the district's funds must be reserved for use in the Golden Gate corridor, "otherwise they'll end up in a branch of the Santa Ana Freeway."

Bridge director Edwin M. Fraser of Del Norte County noted that Goldblatt was one of the few opponents to the plan to speak at the hearing, but Goldblatt retorted "there have been lone voices in the world's history that turned out to be right."

Edgington also questioned Goldblatt about the San Francisco supervisors' standing policy that the bridge district should be dissolved after its bonds are retired in 1871. "It bothers me," said Edgington.

Goldblatt said he disagreed with the policy, and director Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco added that the policy may be changed because the new board, new general manager and new relations with San Francisco "brings new confidence" in the district. Leonoudakis represents the San Francisco supervisors both on the bridge board and on the ferry study committee.

Leonoudakis also insisted that the plan "leads to a second deck."

The plan, drawn by the district's former engineer, Arthur C. Jenkins, calls for the district to operate a system of 150 new buses. To get it started would cost $8.5 million, and the annual subsidy from bridge funds would be $1,411,000, Jenkins estimated.

It would operate in Marin, San Francisco, Sonoma and Napa counties, and could be in operation within seven months, according to Jenkins.

The commuters' affairs and finance committees' joint hearing last night was the second on the plan, and a third is to be set in San Francisco. It was the first meeting of bridge directors in Marin in many years.

Of the more than 100 persons attended the hearing, about 20 spoke, many of them reiterating positions taken last week before the Marin County Transit District board, which unanimously endorsed the Jenkins plan.

Among those favoring the plan, and urging its prompt implementation, were the San Anselmo City Council, the Marin Council for Civic Affairs, the San Anselmo Homes Association, the North Marin Federation of Homeowners Associations, the Novato Commuters Club, the Fairfax Taxpayers for Planned Development and the Marin County Real Estate Board.

The district's general manager, Dale W. Luehring of Mill Valley, testified that a "severe transportation crisis" has struck the bridge despite the expenditure of more than $1.6 million on 30 studies of the problem in the past 10 years.

Traffic last year totaled some 31 million vehicles, and is shooting up at the rate of two million more a year. Bus traffic, he noted, has not increased in the past 20 years.

"We're not about to act hastily," commented the chairman of the joint committee, Joseph E. Sheeks of Belvedere.

After the San Francisco hearing on the plan, he said, another hearing will be held in district offices to try to decide what action to take on it.

Teeners Still Looking For Place For Ark

The Belvedere teen-agers' ark is still looking for a home, the Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission learned yesterday.

The commission was told a Northwestern Pacific Railroad site proposed for the ark is not available, and the teen-agers are now looking for another. The ark was given to the young people several weeks ago for use as a teen center.

The commission also agreed to write state authorities to protest a recently published development plan for Angel Island as "overdevelopment." The plan has been opposed by conservation groups.

After a long discussion with the commission on a development plan for Belvedere open spaces, landscape architect Carlisle Becker said he may have a formal presentation ready by September. He will give the commission a further report in March.

Teen Dashes From Chair Of Dentist

About to have an infected tooth examined, a 15-year-old youth in juvenile custody escaped both his probation officer and a dentist yesterday.

James C. Kisling of 325 Ironstone Court, Terra Linda, being held on suspicion of attempted rape and car theft, turned himself into juvenile authorities this morning.

Probation Officer J. F. Cronin escorted Kisling from Juvenile Hall to a dentist in the Northgate Shopping Center after the youth complained of a tooth ache. Just before the dentist was to examine the tooth, Kisling dashed out of the office with Cronin giving chase.

Kisling told probation officers he just wandered around for the nine hours of his freedom.

Kisling and his 13-year-old brother, Richard, were booked into Juvenile Hall on Saturday on suspicion of stealing a car from the Northgate Shopping Center parking lot.

A 26-year-old San Francisco woman reported to police that the two boys had picked her up in Tamalpais Valley and later attempted to rape her, but she managed to escape.

Following a high-speed chase on Nicasio Road, sheriff's deputies reported capturing the two youths.

Trustees Cut Reed School Plan

Reed School District trustees last night eliminated the administration and unified arts buildings from Reedland Woods School plans and will ask for new bids for the proposed school, chairman K. L. Rice Jr. reported today.

Trustees rejected four bids for the school last Thursday, all over the engineering estimate of $870,000.

Rice said that the eliminated space will be incorporated into the multi-media center and classroom building, bringing down costs.

The board also asked the administration for a master plan for building and site improvements at Reed School and set a meeting for 8 p.m. Feb. 25 at Reed School to consider the plan.

This action followed a request from the Parent-Teacher Club at Reed School, asking that about $100,000 left from the 1967 bond issue be used for improvements. The $100,000, Rice said, is bond funds, not part of the operating budget.

Letter To FCC Will Seek End Of TV Deadlock

The Gnoss Estates Association will write the Federal Communication Commission asking it to break the deadlock on television cable in Novato, according to John Schoonover association president.

The FCC froze new installations to the cable owned by Western California Telephone Co. on June 26, and the association wants this lifted so that residents east of Highway 101 can hook onto the cable, Schoonover said. The action was taken at the quarterly meeting of the association Monday night at Olive School, he said.

Schoonover reported on the formation of the North Marin Federation of Homeowners Associations.

George A. Amoroli of 11 Rebecca Way, Novato, spoke in favor of merging the Novato Sanitary District with the North Marin County Water District, according to Schoonover.

of debate and argument and discussion," Monagan said.

But he added: "I do not condone any action by any legislative committee that involves taking action on specific bills in executive session. I will not permit it wherever I have any authority to do so in this house and do not believe it's the right thing to do."

Monagan was asked if he had any plan to combat the past practice of the Senate Governmental Efficiency Committee of meeting at times in closed session on bills.

"I have no plan," he said. "I would kind of like to encourage the smaller body of the legislature to emulate our fair, square approach." He admitted, however, it would be impractical to try to ban all executive committee sessions because "it's so easy to circumvent it."

Meanwhile, Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, introduced a bill to extend the Brown Act to committees and subcommittees of both local and state agencies.

At the United Nations, U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost said he expected to begin bilateral talks on the Middle East with the Soviet, British and French U.N. delegates "very shortly."

Boat Holding Tanks Backed

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — State legislation to require holding tanks on boats with toilets and pumping facilities at marinas to empty the tanks will be recommended to the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board by its staff when the board meets here at 10 a.m. tomorrow in the State Building, 1111 Jackson Street.

A study committee of the state Water Resources Control Board has recommended holding tanks be required on all houseboats, but the staff of the regional board wants the proposal extended to general boating, reported Fred H. Dierker, executive officer of the regional board.

He said the staff would not propose that all boats and all marinas fall under the regulation at present, but that it apply only to marinas designated by the board as posing a pollution hazard.

Weary Board Hears Waldo Protests, Banishes Boats

By WATT TAKESHITA

Waldo Point property owner Donlan J. Arques made a rare personal appearance at the Civic Center yesterday and raised the dander of the board of supervisors with one brief comment.

"I'm going to leave it there, said Arques, referring to his sunken pile driver which is resting squarely in the middle of an underwater county street, Humboldt.

"It's used as a means of access," said Arques' attorney David B. Gold. "We won't move the pile driver; we'll litigate it."

"If you're going to litigate, lets litigate," snapped Supervisor Chairman John F. McInnis, displaying his first sign of temper after a 10-hour day.

Enforcement of houseboat violations in Richardson Bay was the final item in a long session that wound up at 7:30 p.m.

The discussion between Arques and the supervisors opened in a friendly vein, with talk of possible settlement without going to court.

Deputy County Counsel Joseph A. Forest outlined several points of disagreement, including who would pay the cost of removing noncomplying structures from Arques' Yacht Harbor. Building Inspector Richard Larsen estimated the cost of removing structures from private property would be about $10,000.

Attorney Gold contended the county should pay for it.

"We'll be glad to do it and charge it to the owner," replied McInnis.

Forest said electricity in most of the houseboats is improperly supplied and must be abated.

That would wipe out most of the houseboats, complained Gold.

Disagreement also arose as to which gangplanks would be allowed to remain as access to various blocks of underwater property which Arques owns.

But it was when the county threatened abatement of Arques' piledriver that Arques spoke up for the first time. "It's not floating, but I'm going to leave it there," said Arques with finality.

The supervisors agreed that improper electrical wiring and noncomplying structures on Arques' property, as well as the piledriver, would be abated in 45 days. They instructed the county counsel and public works director to confer with attorney Gold on any agreements that can be reached and report back on Feb. 25.

Over loud protests by other houseboat dwellers, the supervisors then proceeded to order the abatement of individual structures on county streets within 45 days.

These include Peter Day's houseboat on Sonoma Street; Arques' sunken barge at Sonoma and Humboldt; Mary Van Anda's houseboat on Sonoma; Milo Ardison's sailing sloop on Waldo Street; Wilbur Carlson's houseboat on Sonoma; and Steve Martin's houseboat at Humboldt and Sonoma.

Day, who had been waiting from 3 p.m. until after 7 p.m. finally walked out of the supervisors chambers, declaring he had to leave to pump water out of his houseboat in order to save it from sinking. He asked the supervisors for another chance to plead his case and walked out, just before the supervisors ordered abatement.

On the vote to abate Day's houseboat, Supervisor Michael Wornum was the lone dissenter, explaining he wanted Day to have a chance to argue his case.

Henry Jefferson Sudduth IV, known as Buddha, also pleaded for continuance for Day. "I know it's gone away for repairs. It's in the city of Sausalito."

And when supervisors voted for abatement, Buddha declared: "Have you grown so high that you will recognize only one way of life? Then the youth of this country will pull you down!"

Snickers swept across the audience on two occasions.

When Ardison's sailing sloop came up for discussion, several voices from the audience yelled: "It's gone out to sea. The nuisance has sailed away."

"Well, it might come back," observed Supervisor William A. Gnoss, as the supervisors voted for abatement.

Forest told the supervisors that the ferryboat "San Rafael," which is partially on Sonoma Street near Humboldt, posed a problem because no one would claim it.

Up popped white-haired Piro Caro, landscape architect: "I live on the San Rafael and I claim ownership." He declared he is willing to talk to county inspectors to bring everything up to standard. On his plea, the supervisors put off abatement action on the "San Rafael" for two weeks.

2-Year-Old Sanity Report In Shaw Case

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The prosecution read to the Clay L. Shaw jury today the opinion of a former coroner, now dead, that star witness Perry Raymond Russo was legally sane in September 1963, when he allegedly witnessed a plot to kill President John F. Kennedy.

Dist. Judge Edward A. Haggerty Jr. permitted the reading of testimony by Dr. Nicholas J. Chetta, who died since he testified in a preliminary hearing in March 1967. The testimony was read over vigorous objections by the defense that a 2-year-old medical opinion does not apply today.

Russo, the state's top witness, testified Monday that he attended a meeting in which plans for killing Kennedy were discussed.

But yesterday, under cross examination, he said the talks could have been "a bull session" and that he never heard Shaw agree to any killing.

Shaw is charged with conspiring with Lee Harvey Oswald and David W. Ferrie, 40, a flying instructor, to assassinate Kennedy.

Asst. Dist. Atty. James L. Alcock told the court the state was not submitting Dr. Chetta's 1967 testimony to buttress Russo's credibility, but to rebut defense efforts to question Russo's stability. Yesterday the defense asked Russo whether he had attempted suicide and brought out he had been under psychiatric treatment in the late 1950s and psychiatric consultation by telephone as late as 1965.

Unification Points Win Support

An audience of 50 persons last night supported the Bolinas-Stinson School District board on a two-point stand on school unification.

The board requested any unification election be delayed until 1972, the latest legal election date, and reaffirmed its 1967 position that the district should stay in the Tamalpais High School attendance area.

All the unification proposals aired to date are definitely not to the district's advantage, Supt. Clarence B. Larison said.

Both board positions will be sent to the Tamalpais Union High School District board and to the unification committee.

Recent proposals have tentatively put Bolinas-Stinson in the Sir Francis Drake High School attendance area or in the Shoreline School District.

The board ordered county counsel to pursue arbitration of a board dispute with architect George Quesada of San Francisco over deficiencies in design of a new building at Bolinas School.

Larison said the board is withholding $875 owed Quesada until settlement. Larison said six windows on one wall will not open because light fixtures are in the way and that design of a covered walk gives no protection from rain.

The Bolinas-Stinson Union School District board also:

TAX RATE — Ratified Larison's action to raise the district tax rate 2 per cent in accordance with notice from the county education office that such a raise was permissible because personal property has been stricken from tax rolls, lessening districts' income. The raise will be approximately 2 cents on the tax rate, Larison said. Deadline for the raise passed before the board met, so Larison acted first and then got board approval.

APPRAISAL — Authorized hiring appraiser David G. Cohn of San Rafael to appraise the Stinson Beach School site for possible sale and two parcels adjoining Bolinas School for possible purchase.

PARKING — Was told parking is now banned on the Bolinas School grounds to increase safety and provide more playground area.

INSURANCE — Agreed to study at budget time a request that the district furnish medical and dental insurance for all full-time employees.

TRANSFER — Authorized a transfer to Edna Maguire School in Mill Valley for two sons of Eileen Storach, who will drive the children to Edna Maguire.

CLOSED SESSION — Held a closed session, with Peter Nelson, president of the Marin Rural Teachers Association, present, to hear complaints about a probationary employee, whose rehiring was under consideration.

Fire District To Name Chief

Marinwood Community Services District directors said last night they will name a new fire chief for the district at their meeting next Wednesday at 8 p.m.

The board met in closed session last night to review applications and interview an applicant but announced at the public meeting which followed that no decision has yet been made.

There have been 34 applicants for the fire chief's job, according to the board's business manager and secretary, Mrs. Fred Bolding.

Discussion of possible areas of cooperation with adjacent governments and provision of fire protection services was also put over from last night's meeting until next week.

'Oakland 7' Police Film Causes Furor

OAKLAND (UPI) — The prosecution in the conspiracy trial of the "Oakland Seven" introduced photographs yesterday as evidence that two of the accused had directed demonstrators at 1967 antidraft protests in Oakland.

But the defense offset the impact of the evidence by picking out some of the photos, taken by a police cameraman, to introduce as evidence of police brutality during the demonstrations.

The seven young men, including Michael J. Smith, formerly of Corte Madera, are charged with felony conspiracy in allegedly getting others to commit misdemeanors of trespassing and obstructing police at the demonstrations during Stop-the-Draft Week.

Lt. Ernest Smith, the police photographer, said he took about five rolls of film during a demonstration on Oct. 17. He picked out two of the defendants — one of them Smith — from the photos and said they were "giving orders" to the demonstrators.

Defense attorney Malcolm Burnstein, in cross-examination, questioned the photographer on whether he had seen any police brutality during the demonstration. Smith said he had not.

"Well," said Burnstein, "did you not see any policemen hit anybody?"

After a long pause, Smith replied, "I believe I saw some clubs being raised in the air."

Burnstein asked, "Did you see any of them landing?"

"No, sir," Smith replied emphatically.

The trial was in recess today for Lincoln's birthday and testimony will resume Monday. The judge will hear motions from both sides in the case tomorrow.

Pueblo Espionage Unit Destruct Action Told

CORONADO (UPI) — An enlisted man on the USS Pueblo gave orders to begin destruction of secret papers when the head of the espionage unit failed to act as North Korea seized the ship, Navy testimony revealed yesterday.

The testimony made public showed an enlisted man under Lt. Stephen Harris assumed the responsibility for disposing of secret documents because Harris did not issue such orders.

Chief Communications Technician James F. Kell told a court of inquiry into the Pueblo's capture by North Korea he passed the word to "commence emergency destruction" in the absence of orders from Harris.

Kell's testimony was given in secret Monday. He described Harris as "an average officer—nothing outstanding and nothing bad." He said that Harris, a Harvard graduate with Russian language training, appeared nervous during the Pueblo's capture but was not confused.

Kell, 32, of Hayward, (Alameda County), told the board of five admirals conducting the inquiry he first tried to have secret papers thrown out of a porthole, but the one he wanted to use could not be opened.

Communications Technician 2 C Peter M. Langenberg tried to go on deck to throw a bag of papers over the side, and was wounded by North Korean gunfire.

The Navy quoted Kell as saying that after Langenberg was wounded he did not send another man on deck because it would have meant "certain death."

Kell said the burning of classified publications lasted only 10 to 15 minutes, but that destruction of the equipment in the "spook unit" where the espionage activies were housed went well.

The court is in recess today, while the admirals consider its future direction. Public testimony of the mistreatment of the Pueblo crew during its 11-month captivity in North Korea is expected to begin tomorrow.

Woman Tells Of Repeat Kidnaping

A Novato woman reported to police she was kidnaped and assaulted last night for the second time in three days by a six-foot gunman.

Patricia G. Halloran, 22, of 10 Gustafson Court, said the man surprised her for the second time at 11:30 p.m. after he had hidden in the back of her car in the Mayfair parking lot at Grant Avenue and Seventh Street.

She said the man — also described as Caucasian, about 30, medium build, weighing about 150 pounds and wearing dungarees and a red sweater — told her at gunpoint that "I am going to get you this time" because she went to the police to report the alleged kidnaping Sunday.

On Sunday, the man stopped her westbound car, she reported, at Novato Boulevard and Tamalpais Avenue, and made her drive around at gunpoint, struck her, ripped her blouse and rummaged through her purse before abandoning the car on Sutro Avenue.

Last night, the woman reported, the assailant took over the wheel, struck her on the back of the head and tore her dress before he drove to Stinson Beach.

She said he backed up the car to a cliff as if to drive off the ledge, but left the vehicle. She said she then halted the car of Ralph Giacomini Jr. of Olema. She was taken to Novato police headquarters.

Her car was later found in a ditch about three-quarters of a mile west of Novato Boulevard and the Point Reyes-Petaluma Road.

Court Defendant Is Still At Large

Marin Municipal Court's walkaway defendant, Robert Bruce Jones, a transient with no known address, was still at large today sheriff's deputies reported.

The 18-year-old prisoner simply walked out of the San Rafael courthouse Monday after pleading innocent to a car theft charge and before bail could be set, leaving behind an embarrassed bailiff, who was stuck with three other prisoners to guard.

Student's Long Locks Upheld By Appeal Court

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Court of Appeal has been lauded for "the first favorable long-hair decision by a higher court, certainly in California, and possibly in the nation."

The high praise came yesterday from Ernest Besig, executive director of the Northern California chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union, after the court struck a blow for lengthy locks in a 2-1 decision.

The court upheld a ruling by a Eureka Superior Court judge that Arcata High School student Gregor Myers should never have been suspended for wearing long hair because a pertinent school district's regulation was "vague and indefinite."

Myers' parents sought relief in courts after the youth was briefly suspended from school for refusing to cut his collar-length hair in 1966, when he was 15.

Appellate justices declared the school district's regulation prohibiting "extremes of hair styles" was "unconstitutional and unenforceable" due to its vagueness.

Delegates Get Session Role

Ten San Rafael High School students will represent Sierra Leone at the three-day Model United Nations beginning tomorrow at the University of California at Berkeley.

Heading the five-member delegation and five observers to the mock General Assembly session is senior Steve Bacon. Other delegates representing the West African nation are Jeff Godwin, Jon Marlowe and Reagon Wilson, all seniors, and Lee Harris, a junior.

The five observers are seniors Bob Jones and Joe Ward, junior Bebe Anderson, and sophomores Gary Nelson and Steve Nickerson.

The delegation's adviser is social studies instructor Virginia Franklin.

Special Meeting

The Gallinas Village Community Service District board will hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at Santa Venetia Presbyterian Church to discuss the purchase of property for a recreation center.

San Rafael Resident Is Discovered Dead In Car

Gilbert Harold Schott, 30-year-old San Rafael butcher, was found dead in his car in his wife's garage at 366 Irwin Street last night, San Rafael police reported.

Police said a garden hose was attached to the exhaust pipe and run through the left rear window. Air spaces around the hose had been stuffed with rags, police said.

Police said the motor was off but very hot and there was a strong smell of exhaust fumes in the garage.

Schott was found slumped in the driver's seat and the drivers door was slightly ajar, police said.

Rose Marie Schott told police she was separated from her husband and that she had last spoken to him at 11:30 a.m. yesterday. She reported finding him at 8:19 p.m. yesterday.

Attempts to revive Schott by the San Rafael Fire Department failed. The coroner's office said today it had no report of the death.

Ex-Salesman Found Dead In Motel

A 64-year-old retired salesman was found dead yesterday in room at the Rancho Rafael, 6045 Redwood Highway, Ignacio.

Theodore Turnvoll Carr was found on the floor by Max Key, the manager of the motel. Key told coroner's deputies that he found Carr in the same position on Monday, but since he was apparently asleep, the manager put a blanket over him and left.

The coroner's office said there was no evidence of foul play, but the cause of death is still under investigation.

Coroner's deputies said they found several empty bottle of vodka in his room.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael.

Weather Posts In Cemeteries?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A veteran forecaster suggests putting weather-watching stations in places like cemeteries, zoos, small parks and college campuses within cities.

Dr. Helmut E. Landsberg, formerly of the U.S. Weather Bureau, said weather records for most of America's urban areas are based primarily on observations at airports.

Since airports may be up to more than 20 miles from the city, he said, such observations often do not accurately represent conditions within the city itself.

MARIN LOSES PERSONNEL CHIEF ELLIOTT

Robert D. Elliott, Marin County personnel director for six and one-half years, announced yesterday he will resign to join a private firm in San Francisco next month.

Eliott told County Administrator Alan Bruce he enjoyed working in Marin, but he could not turn down the increase in pay offered by the private firm.

Elliott will join the consulting staff of Lybrand, Ross Brothers and Montgomery, San Francisco certified public accountants.

Next in line for the personnel director's post is Mrs. Maren Rinne, classification and salary analyst.

Robert Waldron Quits As Cotati School Trustee

Robert W. Waldron, long-time trustee for the Cotati School District, last night resigned from the board, but gave no reason.

A member of the board for 13 years, Waldron's term does not expire until June 1971. In his letter of resignation, he recommended that in considering a replacement for him, the board seek candidates from the "A" section of Rohnert Park. Waldron lives in Cotati.

In accepting his resignation, the board will have 60 days in which to appoint his successor.

The Cotati School District board also:

ABSENCE — Approved a maternity leave for Mrs. Pamela Dawson, a teacher at the Waldo Rohnert School, from April through the remainder of the school year.

NEW SITE — Heard report from Coleman that the Sonoma County Planning Department will assist in the selection of a school site in the "B" section of Rohnert Park, but will not make any specific recommendations.

CONSTRUCTION — Heard report that construction is progressing well on the new Thomas Page School in Cotati, scheduled to open in September. Coleman said the architect is currently preparing specifications for the water line.

Park Vandalism

Vandals sprayed paint throughout the rest rooms of McNear Park in Petaluma late Monday night police reported. No estimate of damage was given.

Baar, Zucker Aide Tangle Over Slide

Supervisor Louis H. Baar, who had declared during his election campaign he would seek the ouster of Planning Director Paul C. Zucker, tool on one of Zucker's lieutenants yesterday.

Baar told Werner Von Gundell, chief of current planning, he did not like the attitude of the planning staff in dealing with a slide problem near Tamalpais Junction.

A slide exists on the property of Frank M. Gelardi at the corner of Shoreline Highway and Almonte Boulevard. A neighbor, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bassett, of 167 Lovell Avenue, complained that the slide was endangering their property.

Gelardi said he had taken out an excavation permit in 1965 or 1966 with hope of putting up some kind of building. He charged he had been thwarted by various conditions imposed by the planning staff.

Public Works Director Donald R. Frost reported that Gelardi had excavated more than the permit allowed, and that contributed to the slide.

'It's hard to believe that a man with property started out in 1965, and here it's 1969," said Baar. "The attitude of the county departments should be to serve the people." He said he cannot understand why the county departments cannot sit down with Gelardi and work out an agreement.

Von Gundell protested that Gelardi's application was processed no differently from other applications.

Supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and Michael Wornum pointed out that Gelardi had created the problem by excavating more than he should have.

Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

ANGEL ISLAND — Decided not to issue a policy statement on the state's proposed development of Angel Island until after the City of Tiburon had taken a stand. "It's within the Tiburon city limits," said Chairman John F. McInnis. "I think we should first request action from Tiburon as a matter of common courtesy."

BOLINAS STUDY — Approved a 10 per cent county share for a one-year wave gauge study of Bolinas Lagoon. The county share comes to $644.

OIL DRILLING — Heard a complaint from Asst. Administrator John F. Barrows that a state Lands Commission official, who conducted a hearing on oil drilling at Martinez on Feb. 5, showed bias in favor of oil and gas exploration. Supervisors asked the county counsel to investigate the rules under which the commission operates but declined to criticize the hearing officer.

HEARINGS — Set the following hearing dates: Tiburon trails Feb. 25, proposed ordinance controlling marina construction March 11, and West Marin Master Plan density amendments March 4.

TOUR — Visited Marin Juvenile Hall, where Chief Probation Officer Walter H. Busher explained new facilities are needed to house the youngsters.

STUDENTS — Asked the California Department of Social Welfare to increase transportation allowances to teen-agers who are members of families receiving dependent children aid and requested the Tamalpais High School District board to review bus transportation policies. The Aid to Families with Dependent Children task force said the monthly transportation allowance for students was only $1. The Tam district, the task force said, should be urged to provide free transportation to students living more than two miles from schools.

PATIENTS — Transferred $3,000 from reserves to handle continued costs of transporting mentally ill patients to Napa State Hospital for 72-hour commitments. Opening of the new Community Mental Health Center was delayed and the facility is not yet prepared to handle these patients, according to Timothy M. Jackson, county administrative analyst.

CLERKS — Voted to delay until budget time this spring consideration of hiring additional Municipal Court clerks, but decided to introduce in the Legislature a skeleton bill for extra positions, as required by state law. Marin County is now authorized up to 44 clerks, but the three judges have asked for 58 positions.

COMMUNICATIONS — Delayed a week action on a request by John H. Atkinson, communications director, to reorganize his staff.

PERSONNEL — Authorized hiring of Gary T. Ragghianti as an assistant district attorney at $779 a month and David K. Turk as a group counselor at Juvenile Hall at $735 monthly.

CRIME — Was told by Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos that one burglary was reported in the month after James L. Current was placed in West Marin in October as a resident deputy, as compared with 18 burglaries reported in a previous 30-day period.

Weary Board Hears Waldo Protests, Banishes Boats

By WATT TAKESHITA

Waldo Point property owner Donlan J. Arques made a rare personal appearance at the Civic Center yesterday and raised the dander of the board of supervisors with one brief comment.

"I'm going to leave it there, said Arques, referring to his sunken pile driver which is resting squarely in the middle of an underwater county street, Humboldt.

"It's used as a means of access," said Arques' attorney David B. Gold. "We won't move the pile driver; we'll litigate it."

"If you're going to litigate, lets litigate," snapped Supervisor Chairman John F. McInnis, displaying his first sign of temper after a 10-hour day.

Enforcement of houseboat violations in Richardson Bay was the final item in a long session that wound up at 7:30 p.m.

The discussion between Arques and the supervisors opened in a friendly vein, with talk of possible settlement without going to court.

Deputy County Counsel Joseph A. Forest outlined several points of disagreement, including who would pay the cost of removing noncomplying structures from Arques' Yacht Harbor. Building Inspector Richard Larsen estimated the cost of removing structures from private property would be about $10,000.

Attorney Gold contended the county should pay for it.

"We'll be glad to do it and charge it to the owner," replied McInnis.

Forest said electricity in most of the houseboats is improperly supplied and must be abated.

That would wipe out most of the houseboats, complained Gold.

Disagreement also arose as to which gangplanks would be allowed to remain as access to various blocks of underwater property which Arques owns.

But it was when the county threatened abatement of Arques' piledriver that Arques spoke up for the first time. "It's not floating, but I'm going to leave it there," said Arques with finality.

The supervisors agreed that improper electrical wiring and noncomplying structures on Arques' property, as well as the piledriver, would be abated in 45 days. They instructed the county counsel and public works director to confer with attorney Gold on any agreements that can be reached and report back on Feb. 25.

Over loud protests by other houseboat dwellers, the supervisors then proceeded to order the abatement of individual structures on county streets within 45 days.

These include Peter Day's houseboat on Sonoma Street; Arques' sunken barge at Sonoma and Humboldt; Mary Van Anda's houseboat on Sonoma; Milo Ardison's sailing sloop on Waldo Street; Wilbur Carlson's houseboat on Sonoma; and Steve Martin's houseboat at Humboldt and Sonoma.

Day, who had been waiting from 3 p.m. until after 7 p.m. finally walked out of the supervisors chambers, declaring he had to leave to pump water out of his houseboat in order to save it from sinking. He asked the supervisors for another chance to plead his case and walked out, just before the supervisors ordered abatement.

On the vote to abate Day's houseboat, Supervisor Michael Wornum was the lone dissenter, explaining he wanted Day to have a chance to argue his case.

Henry Jefferson Sudduth IV, known as Buddha, also pleaded for continuance for Day. "I know it's gone away for repairs. It's in the city of Sausalito."

And when supervisors voted for abatement, Buddha declared: "Have you grown so high that you will recognize only one way of life? Then the youth of this country will pull you down!"

Snickers swept across the audience on two occasions.

When Ardison's sailing sloop came up for discussion, several voices from the audience yelled: "It's gone out to sea. The nuisance has sailed away."

"Well, it might come back," observed Supervisor William A. Gnoss, as the supervisors voted for abatement.

Forest told the supervisors that the ferryboat "San Rafael," which is partially on Sonoma Street near Humboldt, posed a problem because no one would claim it.

Up popped white-haired Piro Caro, landscape architect:: "I live on the San Rafael and I claim ownership." He declared he is willing to talk to county inspectors to bring everything up to standard. On his plea, the supervisors put off abatement action on the "San Rafael" for two weeks.

2-Year-Old Sanity Report In Shaw Case

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The prosecution read to the Clay L. Shaw jury today the opinion of a former coroner, now dead, that star witness Perry Raymond Russo was legally sane in September 1963, when he allegedly witnessed a plot to kill President John F. Kennedy.

Dist. Judge Edward A. Haggerty Jr. permitted the reading of testimony by Dr. Nicholas J. Chetta, who died since he testified in a preliminary hearing in March 1967. The testimony was read over vigorous objections by the defense that a 2-year-old medical opinion does not apply today.

Russo, the state's top witness, testified Monday that he attended a meeting in which plans for killing Kennedy were discussed.

But yesterday, under cross examination, he said the talks could have been "a bull session" and that he never heard Shaw agree to any killing.

Shaw is charged with conspiring with Lee Harvey Oswald and David W. Ferrie, 40, a flying instructor, to assassinate Kennedy.

Asst. Dist. Atty. James L. Alcock told the court the state was not submitting Dr. Chetta's 1967 testimony to buttress Russo's credibility, but to rebut defense efforts to question Russo's stability. Yesterday the defense asked Russo whether he had attempted suicide and brought out he had been under psychiatric treatment in the late 1950s and psychiatric consultation by telephone as late as 1965.

Pueblo Espionage Unit Destruct Action Told

CORONADO (UPI) — An enlisted man on the USS Pueblo gave orders to begin destruction of secret papers when the head of the espionage unit failed to act as North Korea seized the ship, Navy testimony revealed yesterday.

The testimony made public showed an enlisted man under Lt. Stephen Harris assumed the responsibility for disposing of secret documents because Harris did not issue such orders.

Unification Points Win Support

An audience of 50 persons last night supported the Bolinas-Stinson School District board on a two-point stand on school unification.

The board requested any unification election be delayed until 1972, the latest legal election date, and reaffirmed its 1967 position that the district should stay in the Tamalpais High School attendance area.

All the unification proposals aired to date are definitely not to the district's advantage, Supt. Clarence B. Larison said.

Both board positions will be sent to the Tamalpais Union High School District board and to the unification committee.

Recent proposals have tentatively put Bolinas-Stinson in the Sir Francis Drake High School attendance area or in the Shoreline School District.

The board ordered county counsel to pursue arbitration of a board dispute with architect George Quesada of San Francisco over deficiencies in design of a new building at Bolinas School.

Larison said the board is withholding $875 owed Quesada until settlement. Larison said six windows on one wall will not open because light fixtures are in the way and that design of a covered walk gives no protection from rain.

The Bolinas-Stinson Union School District board also:

TAX RATE — Ratified Larison's action to raise the district tax rate 2 per cent in accordance with notice from the county education office that such a raise was permissible because personal property has been stricken from tax rolls, lessening districts' income. The raise will be approximately 2 cents on the tax rate, Larison said. Deadline for the raise passed before the board met, so Larison acted first and then got board approval.

APPRAISAL — Authorized hiring appraiser David G. Cohn of San Rafael to appraise the Stinson Beach School site for possible sale and two parcels adjoining Bolinas School for possible purchase.

PARKING — Was told parking is now banned on the Bolinas School grounds to increase safety and provide more playground area.

INSURANCE — Agreed to study at budget time a request that the district furnish medical and dental insurance for all full-time employees.

TRANSFER — Authorized a transfer to Edna Maguire School in Mill Valley for two sons of Eileen Storach, who will drive the children to Edna Maguire.

CLOSED SESSION — Held a closed session, with Peter Nelson, president of the Marin Rural Teachers Association, present, to hear complaints about a probationary employee, whose rehiring was under consideration.

Eliott told County Administrator Alan Bruce he enjoyed working in Marin, but he could not turn down the increase in pay offered by the private firm.

Elliott will join the consulting staff of Lybrand, Ross Brothers and Montgomery, San Francisco certified public accountants.

Next in line for the personnel director's post is Mrs. Maren Rinne, classification and salary analyst.

Robert Waldron Quits As Cotati School Trustee

Robert W. Waldron, long-time trustee for the Cotati School District, last night resigned from the board, but gave no reason.

A member of the board for 13 years, Waldron's term does not expire until June 1971. In his letter of resignation, he recommended that in considering a replacement for him, the board seek candidates from the "A" section of Rohnert Park. Waldron lives in Cotati.

In accepting his resignation, the board will have 60 days in which to appoint his successor.

The Cotati School District board also:

ABSENCE — Approved a maternity leave for Mrs. Pamela Dawson, a teacher at the Waldo Rohnert School, from April through the remainder of the school year.

NEW SITE — Heard report from Coleman that the Sonoma County Planning Department will assist in the selection of a school site in the "B" section of Rohnert Park, but will not make any specific recommendations.

CONSTRUCTION — Heard report that construction is progressing well on the new Thomas Page School in Cotati, scheduled to open in September. Coleman said the architect is currently preparing specifications for the water line.

Park Vandalism

Vandals sprayed paint throughout the rest rooms of McNear Park in Petaluma late Monday night police reported. No estimate of damage was given.

Baar, Zucker Aide Tangle Over Slide

Supervisor Louis H. Baar, who had declared during his election campaign he would seek the ouster of Planning Director Paul C. Zucker, tool on one of Zucker's lieutenants yesterday.

Baar told Werner Von Gundell, chief of current planning, he did not like the attitude of the planning staff in dealing with a slide problem near Tamalpais Junction.

A slide exists on the property of Frank M. Gelardi at the corner of Shoreline Highway and Almonte Boulevard. A neighbor, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bassett, of 167 Lovell Avenue, complained that the slide was endangering their property.

Gelardi said he had taken out an excavation permit in 1965 or 1966 with hope of putting up some kind of building. He charged he had been thwarted by various conditions imposed by the planning staff.

Public Works Director Donald R. Frost reported that Gelardi had excavated more than the permit allowed, and that contributed to the slide.

'IIt's hard to believe that a man with property started out in 1965, and here it's 1969," said Baar. "The attitude of the county departments should be to serve the people." He said he cannot understand why the county departments cannot sit down with Gelardi and work out an agreement.

Von Gundell protested that Gelardi's application was processed no differently from other applications.

Supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and Michael Wornum pointed out that Gelardi had created the problem by excavating more than he should have.

Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

ANGEL ISLAND — Decided not to issue a policy statement on the state's proposed development of Angel Island until after the City of Tiburon had taken a stand. "It's within the Tiburon city limits," said Chairman John F. McInnis. "I think we should first request action from Tiburon as a matter of common courtesy."

BOLINAS STUDY — Approved a 10 per cent county share for a one-year wave gauge study of Bolinas Lagoon. The county share comes to $644.

OIL DRILLING — Heard a complaint from Asst. Administrator John F. Barrows that a state Lands Commission official, who conducted a hearing on oil drilling at Martinez on Feb. 5, showed bias in favor of oil and gas exploration. Supervisors asked the county counsel to investigate the rules under which the commission operates but declined to criticize the hearing officer.

HEARINGS — Set the following hearing dates: Tiburon trails Feb. 25, proposed ordinance controlling marina construction March 11, and West Marin Master Plan density amendments March 4.

TOUR — Visited Marin Juvenile Hall, where Chief Probation Officer Walter H. Busher explained new facilities are needed to house the youngsters.

STUDENTS — Asked the California Department of Social Welfare to increase transportation allowances to teen-agers who are members of families receiving dependent children aid and requested the Tamalpais High School District board to review bus transportation policies. The Aid to Families with Dependent Children task force said the monthly transportation allowance for students was only $1. The Tam district, the task force said, should be urged to provide free transportation to students living more than two miles from schools.

PATIENTS — Transferred $3,000 from reserves to handle continued costs of transporting mentally ill patients to Napa State Hospital for 72-hour commitments. Opening of the new Community Mental Health Center was delayed and the facility is not yet prepared to handle these patients, according to Timothy M. Jackson, county administrative analyst.

CLERKS — Voted to delay until budget time this spring consideration of hiring atiditional Municipal Court clerks, but decided to introduce in the Legislature a skeleton bill for extra positions, as required by state law. Marin County is now authorized up to 44 clerks, but the three judges have asked for 58 positions.

COMMUNICATIONS — Delayed a week action on a request by John H. Atkinson, communications director, to reorganize his staff.

PERSONNEL — Authorized hiring of Gary T. Ragghianti as an assistant district attorney at $779 a month and David K. Turk as a group counselor at Juvenile Hall at $735 monthly.

CRIME — Was told by Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos that one burglary was reported in the month after James L. Current was placed in West Marin in October as a resident deputy, as compared with 18 burglaries reported in a previous 30-day period.

Fire District To Name Chief

Marinwood Community Services District directors said last night they will name a new fire chief for the district at their meeting next Wednesday at 8 p.m.

The board met in closed session last night to review applications and interview an applicant but announced at the public meeting which followed that no decision has yet been made.

There have been 34 applicants for the fire chief's job, according to the board's business manager and secretary, Mrs. Fred Bolding.

Discussion of possible areas of cooperation with adjacent governments and provision of fire protection services was also put over from last night's meeting until next week.

SAN FRANCISCO — A labor official has given up efforts to settle a teachers' strike at San Francisco State College, saying he sees "no further use in pressing discussions."

George Johns, San Francisco Labor Council secretary, asserted the California State College Board of Trustees had "shot down any hope for a settlement," but Trustee Louis Hilbron said his committee is willing to continue meeting with Johns on teacher demands for more pay and better working conditions.

His action in the teacher walkout came as S. I. Hayakawa, the school's acting president, said a Negro studies department probably would not be established by the start of the spring semester next Monday, because the strike has not been settled.

Meanwhile, a San Francisco State College student testified in superior court yesterday he heard a Black Panther Party leader urge striking students to take guns away from riot police on the campus "and blow their heads off."

William F. Whitely, a physical education student, was one of four witnesses who testified before Judge Byron Arnold in an action brought by 27 teachers and students to halt mass picketing on the strife-torn campus.

Whitely said he heard Benny Stewart introduced at a campus rally in early December as a minister for the Black Panther Party.

Whitely said he heard Stewart call on student strikers to invade the campus administration building and "pin Hayakawa's posterior to the wall," as well as call for violence to the police.

"I saw several confrontations between strikers and non-strikers," Whitely testified, adding that one of the strikers he saw was Dr. Nathan Hare, a Negro teacher named to head the new Black studies department.

"When I saw him," Whitely said, "he was fighting with a student."

Other developments:

Hayakawa announced that emergency regulations restricting rallies on the campus will remain in effect when the spring semester opens Monday and "until peace is restored."

College authorities compiled responses from 199 faculty members and nine administrators who were terminated for participating in the strike by union teachers which began Jan. 6.

Cynthia Johnson, 21, of San Jose, a San Jose State College student, filed a $130,000 claim charging she was maliciously clubbed by a policeman. She was among 456 persons picked up in a mass arrest Jan. 23 for participating in an illegal rally on the San Francisco State campus.

Standards Of Design Approved For Square

Design standards for the Lytton Square commercial area as set forth in the 701 planning study have been approved by the Mill Valley Planning Commission.

Commissioners, meeting Monday night, asked that more precise plans for traffic and parking patterns be developed before the proposed plan is put into effect, according to Planning Director Harvey E. Bragdon.

Key feature of the Lytton Square portion of the federally financed planning study is the recommendation that the square eventually be closed to vehicular traffic and converted into a pedestrian mall.

To effectuate this scheme, the plan calls for a rearrangement of traffic patterns on existing streets, extension and closing of other streets and development of parking behind Lytton Square stores.

It also urges the development of a plaza behind the bus depot where meter parking is now located and lineal parks and plazas along Arroyo Corte Madera del Presidio (Corte Madera Creek) behind Corte Madera, Throckmorton and East Blithedale avenues. Trails and bicycle paths should connect the downtown with Old Mill Park and the waterfront, according to the plan.

The Outdoor Art Club, designed by Bernard Maybeck, should be preserved by historic preservation regulations or public acquisition, the plan says.

Bragdon said downtown merchants and Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce Secretary-Mgr. Granville L. Beedle opposed the mall concept, saying it was not needed to stimulate business.

Merchants in particular expressed concern with the loss of store front parking, Bragdon said.

The Mill Valley Planning Commission also:

DENSITY — Set a field trip for 1 p.m. Sunday to review a density increase request by Cal-Fong Developers for 27 acres in the Alto bowl north of Edna Maguire School. Developers are asking for an increase from three to 5.4 dwelling units per acre.

BICYCLE TRAILS — Agreed to review requests from Edna Maguire School students for bicycle trails along East Blithedale and other city streets.

STUDY — Named Commissioners Paul Rosenthal and Edward Farrell to review the city's planned development ordinance to see if it might not be revised to allow density increases to be tied to specific development plans.

HARBOR — Continued to Feb. 24 discussion of the development of plans for the city's small craft harbor.

FLOOD CONTROL — Named Commissioners Sally Garoutte and Farrell to study City Engineer Stanley M. Bala's flood control recommendations in his report on citywide drainage needs.

HOUSING — Postponed to Feb. 24 discussion of the city's housing goals.

LARKSPUR PROJECT

Argument Stalls Street Widening

What was supposed to be the final discussion of a Larkspur street-widening project turned out to be, at most, the semifinals last night.

The Larkspur City Council, after hearing nearly two hours of debate, conflicting engineering plans and support for both, ordered the conflicting parties to sit down and try once more to agree, in time for the March 5 council meeting, on a plan for widening Redwood Avenue and Oak Road.

City Engineer Roy Hoffman presented a plan to widen Redwood to 26 feet by filling downhill-side property owned by Albert A. Drennan. Drennan's consultant, Norman T. Gilroy, had a plan to widen Redwood by using land on both sides.

Drennan said filling his ravine would destroy a stand of trees and "a singing creek" that runs through it.

Hoffman said the two-sided proposal would require extensive retaining walls on both sides and cost too much. Gilroy said either plan would cost approximately the same. "You're trading dollars," he said. "You don't have to wipe everything out to build a road."

Gilroy said uphill residents "have been gardening on the city right-of-way for 30 years . . . Mr. Drennan is to be penalized and his buffer removed to spare them" under Hoffman's plan.

The wider street is needed to improve emergency access, ease traffic movement and allow school buses up the hill.

Councilmen were split on how the project should proceed, and Mayor Alfred J. Malvino finally told Hoffman, Gilroy and City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst to work out an agreement for a 26-foot street plus a sidewalk on the Drennan side.

If no agreement is reached, Councilman Neil Brixon warned, the council will have to decide for itself because project bids must be ordered by the council at the March 5 meeting.

The council also heard a proposal by Marin County Housing Authority Director Donald O. Stutsman and Neil B. Little, program director, for 10 units of leased rental housing in Larkspur, federally subsidized.

The housing authority would contract with individual landlords and pay the difference between agreed rent and what the tenant could afford to pay. The council asked several detailed questions about the program, and Malvino said action will be taken after inquiries with other Marin cities which take part in the program.

Only major protest against leased housing came back from David F. Scott of 250 Monte Vista Avenue, who said it was "absentee ownership at its worst," and would lead to substandard housing and bring in tenants who might not fit the community.

A representative of the League of Women Voters of Central Marin supported the program and said it would encourage improvements, keep land on the tax rolls and eliminate the waiting period required to get into public housing.

Councilmen also told Bathurst to update a 35-year-old proposal to form a Larkspur foundation to administer gifts of land or money given the city. The new proposal will be considered at a later meeting.

Dixie District Launches History Study Experiment

An experimental summer program designed to improve history instruction by focusing on people and their impact on one another was approved last night by the Dixie School District board.

The board agreed to invite children from the Sausalito School District, particularly from Marin City, and seventh and eighth grade students from St. Vincent's School for Boys to attend.

The school will be held at Miller Creek School in cooperation with Sonoma State College and will be financed with federal funds, according to Dixie Supt. Dennie B. Willis.

Willis said the course will include studies of the Boston Irish, Germans, Poles, Mexican-Americans, blacks and Jews, the reasons they came to the U.S., their cultural heritage, the impact of one culture upon another, and resultant problems.

In other business last night, the board agreed to investigate further a claim by Filippo Construction Co. for an extra $1,300 for site work on additions to Oak View School in San Rafael Park.

The Dixie School District board also:

BLACK STUDIES — Agreed to grant two units of district credit to teachers who attended a lecture series on Afro-American History and Culture at Novato evening school.

BOOKS — Adopted policies for use when parents challenge library books, including meetings with teachers, principals and written complaints to the board.

CURRICULUM — Approved a policy to encourage introduction of innovation and experimental materials, with evaluation under the direction of Penrod Moss, curriculum director. The policy includes informing parents when books include language or ideas which may be offensive to some.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted resignations from Mrs. Marydee Dersheimer, administrative assistant, retiring April 30, Barbara Regan, secretary, moving from the area, and from custodians David Hixon and Matthew Stuart.

LARKSPUR PROJECT

Argument Stalls Street Widening

What was supposed to be the final discussion of a Larkspur street-widening project turned out to be, at most, the semifinals last night.

The Larkspur City Council, after hearing nearly two hours of debate, conflicting engineering plans and support for both, ordered the conflicting parties to sit down and try once more to agree, in time for the March 5 council meeting, on a plan for widening Redwood Avenue and Oak Road.

City Engineer Roy Hoffman presented a plan to widen Redwood to 26 feet by filling downhill-side property owned by Albert A. Drennan. Drennan's consultant, Norman T. Gilroy, had a plan to widen Redwood by using land on both sides.

Drennan said filling his ravine would destroy a stand of trees and "a singing creek" that runs through it.

Hoffman said the two-sided proposal would require extensive retaining walls on both sides and cost too much. Gilroy said either plan would cost approximately the same. "You're trading dollars," he said. "You don't have to wipe everything out to build a road."

Gilroy said uphill residents "have been gardening on the city right-of-way for 30 years . . . Mr. Drennan is to be penalized and his buffer removed to spare them" under Hoffman's plan.

The wider street is needed to improve emergency access, ease traffic movement and allow school buses up the hill.

Councilmen were split on how the project should proceed, and Mayor Alfred J. Malvino finally told Hoffman, Gilroy and City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst to work out an agreement for a 26-foot street plus a sidewalk on the Drennan side.

If no agreement is reached, Councilman Neil Brixon warned, the council will have to decide for itself because project bids must be ordered by the council at the March 5 meeting.

The council also heard a proposal by Marin County Housing Authority Director Donald O. Stutsman and Neil B. Little, program director, for 10 units of leased rental housing in Larkspur, federally subsidized.

The housing authority would contract with individual landlords and pay the difference between agreed rent and what the tenant could afford to pay. The council asked several detailed questions about the program, and Malvino said action will be taken after inquiries with other Marin cities which take part in the program.

Only major protest against leased housing came back from David F. Scott of 250 Monte Vista Avenue, who said it was "absentee ownership at its worst," and would lead to substandard housing and bring in tenants who might not fit the community.

A representative of the League of Women Voters of Central Marin supported the program and said it would encourage improvements, keep land on the tax rolls and eliminate the waiting period required to get into public housing.

Councilmen also told Bathurst to update a 35-year-old proposal to form a Larkspur foundation to administer gifts of land or money given the city. The new proposal will be considered at a later meeting.

Dixie District Launches History Study Experiment

An experimental summer program designed to improve history instruction by focusing on people and their impact on one another was approved last night by the Dixie School District board.

The board agreed to invite children from the Sausalito School District, particularly from Marin City, and seventh and eighth grade students from St. Vincent's School for Boys to attend.

The school will be held at Miller Creek School in cooperation with Sonoma State College and will be financed with federal funds, according to Dixie Supt. Dennie B. Willis.

Willis said the course will include studies of the Boston Irish, Germans, Poles, Mexican-Americans, blacks and Jews, the reasons they came to the U.S., their cultural heritage, the impact of one culture upon another, and resultant problems.

In other business last night, the board agreed to investigate further a claim by Filippo Construction Co. for an extra $1,300 for site work on additions to Oak View School in San Rafael Park.

The Dixie School District board also:

BLACK STUDIES — Agreed to grant two units of district credit to teachers who attended a lecture series on Afro-American History and Culture at Novato evening school.

BOOKS — Adopted policies for use when parents challenge library books, including meetings with teachers, principals and written complaints to the board.

CURRICULUM — Approved a policy to encourage introduction of innovation and experimental materials, with evaluation under the direction of Penrod Moss, curriculum director. The policy includes informing parents when books include language or ideas which may be offensive to some.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted resignations from Mrs. Marydee Dersheimer, administrative assistant, retiring April 30, Barbara Regan, secretary, moving from the area, and from custodians David Hixon and Matthew Stuart.

PERSONNEL — Hired Tjoen An Thio as custodian for six hours a day for $330 per month; and Mrs. Nellie Noguchi as library assistant at Dixie School, for six hours a day, for $254.76 a month.

Film To Be Restored On Family Study

The Petaluma Board of Education last night voted to restore the controversial "Time of Your Life" film series for fifth and sixth grade classrooms with no objection raised by anyone in the audience.

The board essentially endorsed the recommendation of Supt. Lesly H. Meyer which had been tabled for study at the Jan. 28 meeting. Under the plan, the KQED series will be used on an optional basis in new family life education classes being prepared.

PRESENTS MOTION

Trustee Sol Fishman introduced the motion saying that students who do not have parental permission to view the films must be provided with other electives. He said these electives will be reviewed by the board at the same time the family life education program is being offered for consideration.

Fishman also asked Meyer to develop a criteria to determine which teachers are capable of presenting the material. Meyer said he already considered some teacher qualified and would set up in-service training sessions for all involved.

Saying he had made "quite a study," Fishman said he discounted many of the objections previously raised by parents. "The films are positive in approach and will have a great deal of value, but it would be a travesty to force it on any of the children," he said, emphasizing the voluntary plan.

STUDY NEEDED

The member said he felt that many families are capable of providing sex education, but said he found that few really do. Fishman noted that the church can no longer be depended on to provide the material since only 25 per cent of the population attend services on a regular basis.

Use of the film was approved by an unanimous 4-0 vote. Member Clay Thompson was ill and could not attend.

Youth Booked In Probe Of Alcohol

Larry Suldickas, 18, of 210 Mission Street, San Rafael, was booked at Marin County Jail last night on suspicion of possessing alcohol and contributing to the delinquency of minors after Mill Valley police reported finding him with two 16-year-olds and a gallon of burgundy in a car on Corte Madera Grade.

The 16-year-old boys were cited to Juvenile Hall. Suldickas was jailed in lieu of $625 bail and was to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

$10 Million School Bond Issue Studied

An $8 million to $10 million bond election to support anticipated growth for the next 10 years in the Petaluma High School District was considered last night by the Petaluma Board of Education for presentation to voters next fall.

Supt. Lesly H. Meyer said that at the average increase rate of 7 per cent a year, the district would have 18,000 students by 1988.

Meyer said a bond issue must be considered if the necessary building programs are going to be possible. He said the last election in 1959, provided a $3 million bond issue and a $5 million state apportionment program. Since that time, three new schools have been built as well as additions to seven others.

Due to an abrupt increase in assessed valuation, the district could no longer continue under the state aid building program after 1967. Meyer said the $1,061,448 remaining in state aid could be used if the district were bonded to capacity.

He said the district has $639,357 remaining from the 1959 bond election, with $535,000 earmarked for additions to Kenilworth and Rohnert Park junior high schools.

Meyer suggested the bond issue total between $8 million and $10 million and be held next October or November.

The board took no action.

Teener Murdered By Dope Seeker

HOLLYWOOD, (AP) — The teen-age son of screenwriter Stirling Silliphant was shot to death in his apartment today by an unknown intruder demanding narcotics, police said.

Loren Silliphant, 18, died instantly from a single shot from a pistol, detectives said. A search was being conducted for a man described by witnesses as a young Negro.

Stirling Silliphant, 51, wrote the screenplay for an Academy Award-winning motion picture about racial prejudice, "In the Heat of the Night."

Detectives gave this account: Young Silliphant, his uncle, Robert Silliphant, 31, of Glendale, and three unidentified teen-age "hippie types" were in the apartment when the victim responded to a knock on the door.

The armed intruder barged in and demanded that they "get him some stuff." When young Silliphant said they had nothing, the man became angered, pushed the youth agnaist a wall, shot him once and walked out.

Police said they found no narcotics in young Silliphant's modest third-floor apartment.

Beatle Album Cover Slapped

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Superior Court Judge Nelson X. Mintz has ruled the album cover showing Beatle John Lennon and his girl friend in the nude is obscene and cannot be distributed.

In rendering the decision yesterday, Judge Mintz said:

"I find there is no relationship whatsoever between the recording and the cover and that, if not by intent, at least in effect, the cover is solely to promote the sale of the record to teenagers.

Nurse Faces Grand Theft

A 41-year-old Santa Rosa practical nurse was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on charges of grand theft from a Fairfax home where she was employed.

Vera Mae Walsh was charged with taking a diamond ring and glassware from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Grimm of 35 San Gabriel Drive where, until her arrest in Santa Rosa, she was employed as a nurse for Grimm's mother.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Walsh is being held in Sonoma County Jail for a parole violation while police investigate the death of another patient.

The body of Mrs. Gloria Giannis, 42, was found in Mrs. Walsh's Santa Rosa apartment Jan. 10, wrapped in a sheet and blanket and tied with a cord. Authorities said Mrs. Giannis, who had been released in Mrs. Walsh's care from Mendocino State Hospital, died of an overdose of drugs.

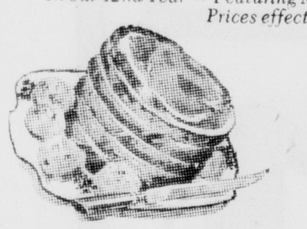

Santa Rosa police and the Sonoma County District Attorney's office are also investigating funds missing from Mrs. Giannis' bank account. Asst. Dist. Atty. John Hawkes said the funds may have been removed from the account after the woman's death.

Santa Rosa police said Mrs. Walsh was on parole from a sentence for grand theft in San Jose several years ago.

To Juvenile Court

The case of Tracy A. Stevenson, 18, of Kentfield has been referred to Marin Juvenile Court, it was announced yesterday in Marin Municipal Court. Stevenson is accused of possessing marijuana Jan. 17 on Makin Grade in Kentfield.

Phone Poll Slated On Ferry Travel

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A telephone recording poll of anyone with something to say about ferry boats will be set up starting Tuesday by the consulting firm doing a $45,000 feasibility study of reviving ferries between Marin and San Francisco. (See Golden Gate Bridge District hearing story, page 1.)

The consultants, Arthur D. Little Inc., announced the telephone poll at a meeting in their office yesterday with the San Francisco-Marin Water Transportation Study Committee, which was set up by the two counties to contract for the study.

Thousands of interviews will be made of Marin commuters, but the special telephone number will be set up "in order not to miss the comments and reactions of any other interested persons," the consultants said.

The special telephone number, 421-0511, will operate weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. A recorded voice will ask callers to state in what city they live, the address of their place of employment, what form of transportation they usually take to work, and what a ferry service must offer for them to use it.

The questionnaire to be used in the interviews has been pretested on 140 persons, reported Dr. Claude Gruen, who is in charge of the study for the firm. Of these 140, he noted, 85 were persons who already regularly ride the Tiburon ferry.

Because these 85 already are committed to ferry service, he conceded, "we have to take what they say with a grain of salt," but he added "they are the only group in the Bay Area that has had this option put to them."

He declined to disclose the contents of the questionnaire. "People will set at home and dope it out, and then it wouldn't be valid," he said.

Also as a result of the study, which began last month, other groups favoring ferry service are springing up around the bay, he said.

The committee agreed to meet again in two to three weeks, with the time and place to be announced, to review progress on the study, due June 30. The Marin County Transit District contributed $15,000 toward the study, and the San Francisco Board of Supervisors contributed $30,000.

Hub Trustee Resignee Seeks Tam Board Job

Robert W. Corlett, who attempted to resign Jan. 7 from the San Anselmo School District board due to "press of business," has slackened his business pressures to enable him to run for Tamalpais High School District trustee.

Asked how he can handle the high school post which he admitted is more demanding than his old job, Corlett explained, "I have rearranged some of my affairs to where I can devote more time to the job."

Corlett tendered his resignation from the San Anselmo board Jan. 7 but the board refused to accept it, asking him to reconsider at the Jan. 21 meeting.

On Jan. 21 there was no quorum so the subject went over to Jan. 28, at which time Corlett was not present. The board is expected to accept the resignation at its next meeting, Tuesday.

Asked if he considers himself a San Anselmo trustee now, the San Rafael attorney replied, "No. It's a technical point. A resignation is a unilateral thing."

Corlett, who served eleven and one-half years on the San Anselmo board, has tendered a second letter of resignation which states he plans to run for the high school district board.

William B. Lewis's resignation was accepted Feb. 3 and the Tamalpais High School board will interview candidates and select a new trustee at a meeting at 8 p.m., Feb. 24, at the district office.

There are three vacancies in the April 15 election and two have filed, incumbent Gloria W. Melbostad of Mill Valley, and Corlett.

San Anselmo School District trustees probably will operate as a four-member board until after the April 15 election, according to Supt. Stephen L. Parodi, board secretary.

In asking Corlett to reconsider last month, San Anselmo trustees pointed out that his term expires this year anyhow and he could continue until after the April election.

Since he will not do so, Parodi reported, the board is expected to leave the post vacant until it is filled by the voters. Definite decision is to be made at the San Anselmo board meeting next Tuesday night.

Janitor Takes $40,000 At Bank

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A janitor who cleaned a bank's vault at night left work with $40,000 in small bills, the Federal Bureau of Investigation said.

The FBI issued a warrant yesterday for the arrest of janitor Curtis G. Scarbrough, 49, of Jacksonville.

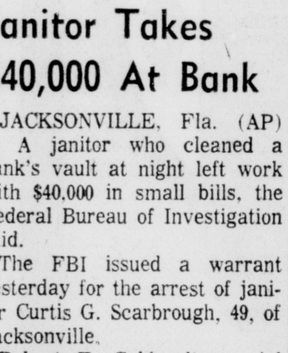

Robert E. Gebhardt, special FBI agent in charge at Jacksonville, said the missing money was in $10, $20, $50 and $100 bills.

The theft was discovered yesterday when a teller went into the vault of the Atlantic National Bank to prepare payrolls.

The FBI gave no details on how the money was removed from the bank.

Schools Seek Ideas For Patriotic Rites

The San Rafael Board of Education, faced with a request from the Terra Linda High School Student Council for a patriotic Observance other than the daily Pledge of Allegiance, said last night it was open to suggestions.

The council contended that the pledge has lost meaning through daily recitation.

The education code requires a patriotic observance, but the policy of San Rafael City Schools sanctions only the Pledge of Allegiance.

"Before I do away with it I want to hear the alternatives," said Board Member Carl J. Brown. "I want the students to do some good thinking.

One Terra Linda student suggested the patriotic observance be "maybe something current . . . and different every day," and another suggested "either a moment of silence" or excerpts from the speeches of the late Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. or the late President John F. Kennedy.

The request was before the board for discussion only, so no action was taken.

Contract Set To Rebuild San Rafael's Short School

The San Rafael Board of Education last night awarded a contract for construction of a new Short School to replace the old school demolished because it didn't meet the state's earthquake resistance standards.

The contract was awarded to Wilmer Construction Co. of Daly City, lowest of seven bidders, at a cost of $199,323, with the job to include new turf, new fencing and packed brick patios.

The former Short School at Bayview and Marin streets was the oldest school in the district. The new six-classroom school is designed to serve from 150 to 180 pupils through the third grade.

For the project, Walter H. Toews, Woodacre contractor, was appointed building inspector, Harding, Miller, Lawson and Associates of San Rafael to do soils testing, and Abbott A. Hanks Inc. of San Rafael, materials testing.

The San Rafael Board Of Education Also:

BUSES SOLD—Authorized the sale of six school buses, declared obsolete by the state Department of Motor Vehicles, to Mill Valley Refuse Service Inc., high bidder, at a price of $3,051. Business Mgr. Charles L. Condrotte explained the refuse company would use the bus engines for their garbage trucks.

FEDERAL FUNDS — Authorized application for $42,790 in federal matching funds to provide elementary school guidance services and to continue its follow-up study of high school graduates. The local contributions would be $33,240 for the elementary district and $11,800 for the high school district.

RECREATION USE — Received a report that San Rafael High School facilities are used for from 160 to 170 hours a month for recreation programs and Terra Linda High an average of about 60 hours a month.

EXCHANGE TEACHING — Adopted a policy supporting the exchange of teachers with other teachers in the United States, and granting leave for up to two years for teaching in an Armed Forces Dependent School, Vista, Teachers Corps or a foreign school.

LEAVE — Granted David Drake, French and German teacher at Davidson Junior High School, leave of absence for the 1969-70 school year at no pay.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignations of Lydia Schlant, English teacher, and Diana Giambastini, attendance clerk, both at Terra Linda High School, both effective Jan. 24.

LABOR REQUEST—Agreed to invite a representative of the Marin Building and Construction Trades Council to discuss the council's request for a board policy against employing teachers, but drivers, custodians or students to work in 38 specified trades.

CALENDAR — Adopted a school calendar for the 1969-70 school year, 177 teaching days with classes starting Sept. 4 and ending June 11.

GIFTS—Accepted as gifts 12 books for San Rafael High School library from Mrs. Frances Rhodes, seven books for San Rafael High School library from Mrs. Wilbur Cox and a laserholography kit for more able learners and high school science programs from Richard Davis.

ADJOURNMENT— Adjourned until Feb. 25 at 7:30 p.m. at the Administration Building, Third and E streets, San Rafael.

Board chairman Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. and Board Member Paul L. Jones were absent.

New License To Be Studied

Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce members will hold a forum for businessmen at 8:15 p.m., tomorrow, to discuss the proposed new business license ordinance with city finance director Frank Bigley.

The meeting will be at J & B Ford Sales, 5860 Paradise Drive, chairman Anthony Munoz reported.

Licenses under the new ordinance would be based on various factors, two of the principles ones being gross receipts and type of operation. The present one is based on a flat rate plus number of employees. Town councilmen plan to reconsider the ordinance at their 7:30 p.m. meeting, Monday.

Negro Impressions

John Gardenhire, Novato High School teacher, will give his impressions of a Negro living in Novato to the Novatans for Racial Equality at a public meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Bank of Marin at 1400 Grant Avenue, Novato, according to publicity chairman Ellen Wagner.

Local Presidents Include Recipes In AAUW Cook Book

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Three local presidents of the American Association of University Women are among the 2,000 AAUW members throughout the United States who have recipes in a cook book entitled, "Meats-Favorite Recipes of University Women," which also includes seafood and poultry recipes.

They are Mrs. John C. Braman of San Rafael, president of the Marin branch, Mrs. David Price Jones, Novato branch, and Mrs. Brand T. Johnson, Petaluma branch.

The Novato and Marin Branch members are selling the cookbooks, with profits to be given to the Coretta Scott King Educational Fund in response to Mrs. King's plea to women for a campaign of conscience to fight racism, poverty and war.

MRS. DAVID HUDSON, chairman of the fund drive for the Novato branch, said that the purpose of the fund is to provide grants to women students studying in the areas of Afro-American history, nonviolence and peace. The national goal is $150,000.

Mrs. Charles Apple of San Rafael, Marin branch chairman, and Mrs. Hudson are accepting orders for the cook book. The books will also be on sale at the luncheon-fashion show to be held Feb. 26 at Peacock Gap, sponsored by the Marin branch, AAUW.

Mrs. Braman's recipe is pheasant supreme:

Season three medium pheasant that have been skinned and disjointed with garlic salt to taste. Roll in flour. Brown in ½ cup oil and add 1 cup water. Simmer for 30 minutes. Add 3 cups beef bouillon, ¾ cup white wine and 1 teaspoon tarragon and a bit of thyme. Cook for 30 minutes. Remove pheasant from gravy; place in warm oven. Stir 2 tablespoons cornstarch into gravy to thicken lightly. Add 2 cups sliced fresh mushrooms and 2 packages or 2 14½ ounce cans artichoke hearts. Heat through and pour over pheasants. Yields 6 servings.

MRS. JOHNSON adds a personal note to her recipe informing people that "Petaluma used to be noted for its chicken industry—the egg city of the west." Her recipe for herb chicken casserole is as follows:

Brown 3 chicken breasts, boned halved and skinned, in ¼ cup butter or margarine. Season with salt, pepper and monosodium glutamate. Remove from pan. Place 3 cups of cooked rice in buttered 2½ quart casserole. Saute 2 tablespoons green pepper and ¼ cup chopped green onions in pan drippings; add 10½ ounce can condensed cream of chicken soup, stirring until smooth. Add slowly ¾ cup sauterne or other dry wine, mixing well. Stir in 5 ounce can water chestnuts, drained and sliced, 3 ounce can sliced mushrooms and liquid and ⅛ to ¼ teaspoon thyme. Arrange brown chicken over rice in casserole; pour wine and soup mixture over chicken and rice. Bake, covered, in 350 degree oven for one hour or until chicken is tender. Add more sauterne if needed. Yields 6 servings.

Louisiana is the origin of the shrimp gumbo recipe offered by Mrs. Jones. Combine 2 tablespoons flour and 2 tablespoons oil in a skillet over low heat, stirring constantly until dark brown. Add 2 pounds shrimp, peeled and deveined, stir constantly until heated through and set aside. Smother 3 cups chopped okra, and 2 onions chopped in 2 tablespoons oil; add 1 can tomatoes when okra is nearly cooked. Add 2 quarts water, 1 bay leaf, 3 pods garlic (optional), 1 teaspoon salt, 1 chopped bell pepper, 2 stalks celery, chopped. Add shrimp mixture, cover. Simmer for 30 minutes. Serve with a bowl of file (herb) at the table. May be served over rice and yields 6 to 8 servings.

Oriental Dishes For Dinner To Mark Year Of The Rooster

The Chinese New Year 4667 will arrive on Monday. In Oriental communities the holiday will be observed with a celebration which is comparable to having Christmas, birthdays and all other happy occasions rolled into one colorful festival.

The Oriental lunar calendar was established over 2,000 years ago, and runs in 12-year cycles. Each of the 12 years is named for a wild or domestic animal, and after the 12 years are over, the animal cycle begins again. This year, "The Year of the Rooster" will be ushered in.

Food traditions play the key role in the Chinese New Year festivities, and New Year's Eve is always celebrated with a special holiday meal.

Start with hot, crisp egg rolls served with an interesting dip or dressing. The use of frozen egg rolls can cut preparation time to to minutes. Unusual dips and dressings can add a homemade gourmet touch to the egg rolls. Roquefort-Avocado Dressing and Garlic-Mayonnaise Dip are two tasty ones.

Hot shrimp chow mein, chicken chow mein, beef chop suey or sweet and sour pork all make savory main courses. Since all are available in frozen form, you merely heat them before serving. Garnished with bits of scallion or pimento, bunches of watercress or parsley, or fluted cucumber or canned water chestnut slices, the steaming entrees become eye-appealing treats. Since it is traditional to serve several main courses in an Oriental meal, serve a choice of entrees such as chicken chow mein and beef chop suey, or shrimp chow mein and sweet and sour pork.

Yangchow Fried Rice is a variation of plain fried rice, featuring crunchy bits of lettuce and meat or seafood. An easy variation can be made by starting with frozen fried rice and adding a few fresh ingredients. If desired, bits of shrimp, cooked chicken or smoked ham can be substituted for the canned tuna in the accompanying recipe.

If you wish to make an unusual platter of Yangchow Fried Rice to go with your entree, simply mold the rice in lightly oiled coffee, tea or custard cups and turn mounded rice out on a plain platter. With the addition of some halved cucumber slices and scallion stems, an Oriental bouquet will result. The rice is also pretty when unmolded on a leaf of lettuce on the individual serving plates.

Oriental desserts always enhance, but never overpower the meal. Conclude your "Year of the Rooster" dinner with fresh fruit, a fruit cup or ice cream.

ROQUEFORT - AVOCADO DRESSING

- 1 medium avocado, peeled and seeded
- 1 package (3 oz.) Roquefort cheese, crumbled
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon minced onion
- ¼ teaspoon hot pepper sauce
- salt to taste
- 3 packages (5 oz. each) frozen egg rolls

Mash avocado and blend with crumbled Roquefort cheese; add lemon juice, onion, hot pepper sauce and salt to taste. Chill dressing and serve with hot egg rolls prepared according to directions and cut into thirds. If desired, the avocado dressing can be served in an avocado "shell" instead of a bowl. Simply halve and seed another avocado, leaving peel on. Scoop out most of the avocado meat leaving firm shell, and fill with dressing.

Makes 6 large egg rolls and approximately 1 cup dressing.

GARLIC-MAYONNAISE DIP

- 1 cup mayonnaise
- ½ cup cream cheese, room temperature
- 1 or 2 garlic cloves, minced
- ¼ teaspoon dry mustard
- ¼ teaspoon celery salt
- dash of paprika
- 2 packages (6 oz. ea.) frozen shrimp or chicken bite-sized egg rolls

Blend all the dip ingredients together well; chill. Serve with crisp hot egg rolls, prepared according to directions.

Makes 24 small egg rolls and about 1½ cup dip.

YANGCHOW FRIED RICE

- 2 packages (10 oz. ea.) frozen fried rice with meat
- 1 can (6½ oz.) chunk-style tuna, drained
- ½ cup chopped scallions or green onions
- ¾ cup shredded iceberg lettuce
- 2 teaspoons soy sauce

Heat fried rice according to package directions. Put in a serving bowl and add all other ingredients. Toss together and serve immediately.

TO MAKE "BOUQUET," pack hot fried rice into lightly oiled coffee, tea or custard cups, pressing rice firmly down. Invert molds on a plain platter, tapping mold to loosen the rice. Surround each unmolded rice mound with halved cucumber slices and use various lengths of scallions as the "stems" of your fried rice "flowers."

Makes about 6 to 8 servings.

FRIED RICE STUFFED TOMATOES

- 1 package (10 oz.) frozen fried rice with chicken
- 6 or 8 unpeeled, medium-sized firm tomatoes
- ¼ cup finely chopped onions
- ¼ cup soft bread crumbs
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ½ teaspoon oregano
- ¼ teaspoon basil
- ½ cup grated cheddar cheese

Prepare fried rice according to directions. Cut tops off of unpeeled tomatoes; carefully scoop out pulp and mix it with hot fried rice. Add onions, bread crumbs, salt, pepper, oregano, basil and ¼ cup of the grated cheese to fried rice mixture.

Fill the tomato cups with the fried rice mixture and top with remaining ¼ cup grated cheese. Bake in greased muffin cups or baking dish in a preheated 350 F. oven for 20 minutes. Serve immediately.

Makes 6 to 8 stuffed tomatoes.

Fresh Pineapple

Fresh pineapple keeps its tart-sweet flavor best at normal refrigerator temperatures of 45-50 degrees. It may be stored whole or cut from its shell and wrapped in transparent plastic or a plastic bag. It keeps longer when the latter method is used.

Chinese Dragon Beef Dish Right For Celebration Of The New Year

When the Chinese dragon appears on the scene, the fun and feasts are about to begin. It is Chinese New Year number 4667, the Year of the Rooster, Feb. 17.

The Chinese traditionally start their festivities with a meatless stew. Fortunates who go on the 20-and-more course dinners will find beef cooked in all sorts of beguiling Chinese ways. A very favorite cut is flank steak. The not-so-vicious dragon pictured here is flank rubbed with garlic, fiery mustard, soy and the ever-present MSG. If you can find both red and green peppers to skewer with the large dried mushroom, your dragon will have some real fire.

This dish can stand alone with no more than individual bowls of steaming rice which is increasing preferred by the Chinese to the endless courses and passing of dishes.

CHINESE DRAGON BEEF STEAK

- 2½ pounds beef flank steak
- 2 crushed cloves garlic
- 1 tablespoon dry mustard
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
- 3 tablespoons soy sauce
- 4 large dry mushrooms
- 2 large green or red bell peppers
- ¼ cup sweet sherry

Divide steak into 3 equal strips. Rub with mixture of garlic, mustard, sugar MSG and soy sauce. Soak mushrooms 10 minutes in hot water. Cut peppers into quarters and remove seeds and membrane. Skewer steak spirally with peppers and mushrooms. Add sherry to rest of soy sauce mixture and use to baste meat and vegetables as you broil it, five minutes on each side for rare. Slice steak diagonally. Makes 4 servings.

Looking Toward Lent: Quick Fish And Cheese

Lent is a period of preparation. Faithful Christians prepare spiritually for Easter by attending special church services and activities or giving extra service to the community. All of which takes extra time.

Fashionable assemble their outfits for Easter Sunday services or the spring season which begins on Easter Sunday. Clothes shopping takes extra money.

The nutrition-conscious recoup from winter flu and build up energy necessary for the more active spring and summer with nutrition rich diets.

Here's a recipe for all preparers — haddock, pimientos, a flavorful cracker meal-cheese mixture and sauce layered in a baking dish.

It's quick to prepare — takes just eight minutes to poach the fish while sauteeing the mixture for the canned-soup-base sauce. Then layer and bake for 15 to 20 minutes.

It's economical. This meal in a dish serves six. And the only accompaniments needed are a green salad, crusty bread and dessert.

It's nutritious. Protein-rich fish is combined with the dairy goodness of cheese and milk and vitamin C high piementos.

And mouths will water when you cut through the golden brown crisp cracker meal topping to reveal the sauce laced layers of fish and pimientos.

FISH 'N CHEESE

- 1½ pounds haddock fillets
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 medium onions, thinly sliced
- 1 small green pepper, cut into thin strips
- 1 (10½-ounce) can condensed cream of mushroom soup
- 1¼ cups milk
- 1 cup cracker meal
- 1 cup grated natural Cheddar cheese
- 1 (7-ounce) can pimientos, pods, drained, quartered

Poach fish in little salted water about 8 minutes, or until done; drain. In saucepan melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine; add next three ingredients and saute until lightly golden. Add cream of mushroom soup and milk. Heat while stirring until mixture is smooth and comes to a boil; remove. Combine cracker meal and cheese. Layer half of fish, pimientos and cheese mixture in an 8-inch square pyrex dish. Top with half of sauce. Repeat with remaining fish, pimientos and sauce. To remaining cheese mixture add 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine. Sprinkle over top of dish. Bake in a preheated hot oven (400° F.) 15 to 20 minutes, or until bubbling. Makes 6 (about 1-cup) servings.

Time For Hot Cross Buns

- 4 cups biscuit mix
- ½ cup golden raisins
- ½ cup diced, candied citron
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 2 teaspoons instant coffee powder
- ⅓ cup sugar
- 1 cup milk (approx.)
- 1 egg yolk
- 1 tablespoon water

Combine first six ingredients; mix well. Add enough milk to make a soft dough; mixing with a fork. Knead on lightly floured board for several minutes, until dough is elastic. Form into 16 balls, place close together in baking pan. Combine egg yolk and water; beat slightly with fork; brush over top of buns. Bake at 450° for 15 to 18 minutes. Serve hot, or if desired cool and decorate with crosses of confectioners' sugar icing. Makes 16 buns.

Better Beef

Cattle are fed in the most modern yards with electronic feed mills where the feed is untouched by human hands. Advanced feeding methods and efficient packing plants in California insure top quality beef.

Quick Sandwich Is Grilled Crab

Split, toast and butter 6 English muffins. Combine 1½ cups flaked crabmeat with ⅓ cup mayonnaise and 2 teaspoons Worcestershire. Spread 2 tablespoons of mixture on each muffin half. Crisscross each with 2 slices crisp cooked bacon. Top each with a slice of sharp cheddar cheese. Broil until cheese is melted.

Spread the good word.

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Three local presidents of the American Association of University Women are among the 2,000 AAUW members throughout the United States who have recipes in a cook book entitled, "Meats-Favorite Recipes of University Women," which also includes seafood and poultry recipes.

They are Mrs. John C. Braman of San Rafael, president of the Marin branch, Mrs. David Price Jones, Novato branch, and Mrs. Brand T. Johnson, Petaluma branch.

The Novato and Marin Branch members are selling the cookbooks, with profits to be given to the Coretta Scott King Educational Fund in response to Mrs. King's plea to women for a campaign of conscience to fight racism, poverty and war.

MRS. DAVID HUDSON, chairman of the fund drive for the Novato branch, said that the purpose of the fund is to provide grants to women students studying in the areas of Afro-American history, nonviolence and peace. The national goal is $150,000.

Mrs. Charles Apple of San Rafael, Marin branch chairman, and Mrs. Hudson are accepting orders for the cook book. The books will also be on sale at the luncheon-fashion show to be held Feb. 26 at Peacock Gap, sponsored by the Marin branch, AAUW.

Mrs. Braman's recipe is pheasant supreme:

Season three medium pheasant that have been skinned and disjointed with garlic salt to taste. Roll in flour. Brown in ½ cup oil and add 1 cup water. Simmer for 30 minutes. Add 3 cups beef bouillon, ¾ cup white wine and 1 teaspoon tarragon and a bit of thyme. Cook for 30 minutes. Remove pheasant from gravy; place in warm oven. Stir 2 tablespoons cornstarch into gravy to thicken lightly. Add 2 cups sliced fresh mushrooms and 2 packages or 2 14½ ounce cans artichoke hearts. Heat through and pour over pheasants. Yields 6 servings.

MRS. JOHNSON adds a personal note to her recipe informing people that "Petaluma used to be noted for its chicken industry—the egg city of the west." Her recipe for herb chicken casserole is as follows:

Brown 3 chicken breasts, boned halved and skinned, in ¼ cup butter or margarine. Season with salt, pepper and monosodium glutamate. Remove from pan. Place 3 cups of cooked rice in buttered 2½ quart casserole. Saute 2 tablespoons green pepper and ¼ cup chopped green onions in pan drippings; add 10½ ounce can condensed cream of chicken soup, stirring until smooth. Add slowly ¾ cup sauterne or other dry wine, mixing well. Stir in 5 ounce can water chestnuts, drained and sliced, 3 ounce can sliced mushrooms and liquid and ⅛ to ¼ teaspoon thyme. Arrange brown chicken over rice in casserole; pour wine and soup mixture over chicken and rice. Bake, covered, in 350 degree oven for one hour or until chicken is tender. Add more sauterne if needed. Yields 6 servings.

Louisiana is the origin of the shrimp gumbo recipe offered by Mrs. Jones. Combine 2 tablespoons flour and 2 tablespoons oil in a skillet over low heat, stirring constantly until dark brown. Add 2 pounds shrimp, peeled and deveined, stir constantly until heated through and set aside. Smother 3 cups chopped okra, and 2 onions chopped in 2 tablespoons oil; add 1 can tomatoes when okra is nearly cooked. Add 2 quarts water, 1 bay leaf, 3 pods garlic (optional), 1 teaspoon salt, 1 chopped bell pepper, 2 stalks celery, chopped. Add shrimp mixture, cover. Simmer for 30 minutes. Serve with a bowl of file (herb) at the table. May be served over rice and yields 6 to 8 servings.

Oriental Dishes For Dinner To Mark Year Of The Rooster

The Chinese New Year 4667 will arrive on Monday. In Oriental communities the holiday will be observed with a celebration which is comparable to having Christmas, birthdays and all other happy occasions rolled into one colorful festival.

The Oriental lunar calendar was established over 2,000 years ago, and runs in 12-year cycles. Each of the 12 years is named for a wild or domestic animal, and after the 12 years are over, the animal cycle begins again. This year, "The Year of the Rooster" will be ushered in.

Food traditions play the key role in the Chinese New Year festivities, and New Year's Eve is always celebrated with a special holiday meal.

Start with hot, crisp egg rolls served with an interesting dip or dressing. The use of frozen egg rolls can cut preparation time to to minutes. Unusual dips and dressings can add a homemade gourmet touch to the egg rolls. Roquefort-Avocado Dressing and Garlic-Mayonnaise Dip are two tasty ones.

Hot shrimp chow mein, chicken chow mein, beef chop suey or sweet and sour pork all make savory main courses. Since all are available in frozen form, you merely heat them before serving. Garnished with bits of scallion or pimento, bunches of watercress or parsley, or fluted cucumber or canned water chestnut slices, the steaming entrees become eye-appealing treats. Since it is traditional to serve several main courses in an Oriental meal, serve a choice of entrees such as chicken chow mein and beef chop suey, or shrimp chow mein and sweet and sour pork.

Yangchow Fried Rice is a variation of plain fried rice, featuring crunchy bits of lettuce and meat or seafood. An easy variation can be made by starting with frozen fried rice and adding a few fresh ingredients. If desired, bits of shrimp, cooked chicken or smoked ham can be substituted for the canned tuna in the accompanying recipe.

If you wish to make an unusual platter of Yangchow Fried Rice to go with your entree, simply mold the rice in lightly oiled coffee, tea or custard cups and turn mounded rice out on a plain platter. With the addition of some halved cucumber slices and scallion stems, an Oriental bouquet will result. The rice is also pretty when unmolded on a leaf of lettuce on the individual serving plates.

Oriental desserts always enhance, but never overpower the meal. Conclude your "Year of the Rooster" dinner with fresh fruit, a fruit cup or ice cream.

ROQUEFORT - AVOCADO DRESSING

1 medium avocado, peeled and seeded
1 package (3 oz.) Roquefort cheese, crumbled
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon minced onion
¼ teaspoon hot pepper sauce
salt to taste
3 packages (5 oz. each) frozen egg rolls

Mash avocado and blend with crumbled Roquefort cheese; add lemon juice, onion, hot pepper sauce and salt to taste. Chill dressing and serve with hot egg rolls prepared according to directions and cut into thirds. If desired, the avocado dressing can be served in an avocado "shell" instead of a bowl. Simply halve and seed another avocado, leaving peel on. Scoop out most of the avocado meat leaving firm shell, and fill with dressing.

Makes 6 large egg rolls and approximately 1 cup dressing.

GARLIC-MAYONNAISE DIP

1 cup mayonnaise
½ cup cream cheese, room temperature
1 or 2 garlic cloves, minced
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon celery salt
dash of paprika
2 packages (6 oz. ea.) frozen shrimp or chicken bite-sized egg rolls

Blend all the dip ingredients together well; chill. Serve with crisp hot egg rolls, prepared according to directions.

Makes 24 small egg rolls and about 1½ cup dip.

YANGCHOW FRIED RICE

2 packages (10 oz. ea.) frozen fried rice with meat
1 can (6½ oz.) chunk-style tuna, drained
½ cup chopped scallions or green onions
¾ cup shredded iceberg lettuce
2 teaspoons soy sauce

Heat fried rice according to package directions. Put in a serving bowl and add all other ingredients. Toss together and serve immediately.

TO MAKE "BOUQUET," pack hot fried rice into lightly oiled coffee, tea or custard cups, pressing rice firmly down. Invert molds on a plain platter, tapping mold to loosen the rice. Surround each unmolded rice mound with halved cucumber slices and use various lengths of scallions as the "stems" of your fried rice "flowers."

Makes about 6 to 8 servings.

FRIED RICE STUFFED TOMATOES

1 package (10 oz.) frozen fried rice with chicken
6 or 8 unpeeled, medium-sized firm tomatoes
¼ cup finely chopped onions
¼ cup soft bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon oregano
¼ teaspoon basil
½ cup grated cheddar cheese

Prepare fried rice according to directions. Cut tops off of unpeeled tomatoes; carefully scoop out pulp and mix it with hot fried rice. Add onions, bread crumbs, salt, pepper, oregano, basil and ¼ cup of the grated cheese to fried rice mixture.

Fill the tomato cups with the fried rice mixture and top with remaining ¼ cup grated cheese. Bake in greased muffin cups or baking dish in a preheated 350 F. oven for 20 minutes. Serve immediately.

Makes 6 to 8 stuffed tomatoes.

Fresh Pineapple

Fresh pineapple keeps its tart-sweet flavor best at normal refrigerator temperatures of 45-50 degrees. It may be stored whole or cut from its shell and wrapped in transparent plastic or a plastic bag. It keeps longer when the latter method is used.

Chinese Dragon Beef Dish Right For Celebration Of The New Year

When the Chinese dragon appears on the scene, the fun and feasts are about to begin. It is Chinese New Year number 4667, the Year of the Rooster, Feb. 17.

The Chinese traditionally start their festivities with a meatless stew. Fortunates who go on the 20-and-more course dinners will find beef cooked in all sorts of beguiling Chinese ways. A very favorite cut is flank steak. The not-so-vicious dragon pictured here is flank rubbed with garlic, fiery mustard, soy and the ever-present MSG. If you can find both red and green peppers to skewer with the large dried mushroom, your dragon will have some real fire.

This dish can stand alone with no more than individual bowls of steaming rice which is increasing preferred by the Chinese to the endless courses and passing of dishes.

CHINESE DRAGON BEEF STEAK

2½ pounds beef flank steak
2 crushed cloves garlic
1 tablespoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
3 tablespoons soy sauce
4 large dry mushrooms
2 large green or red bell peppers
¼ cup sweet sherry

Divide steak into 3 equal strips. Rub with mixture of garlic, mustard, sugar MSG and soy sauce. Soak mushrooms 10 minutes in hot water. Cut peppers into quarters and remove seeds and membrane. Skewer steak spirally with peppers and mushrooms. Add sherry to rest of soy sauce mixture and use to baste meat and vegetables as you broil it, five minutes on each side for rare. Slice steak diagonally. Makes 4 servings.

Looking Toward Lent: Quick Fish And Cheese

Lent is a period of preparation. Faithful Christians prepare spiritually for Easter by attending special church services and activities or giving extra service to the community. All of which takes extra time.

Fashionable assemble their outfits for Easter Sunday services or the spring season which begins on Easter Sunday. Clothes shopping takes extra money.

The nutrition-conscious recoup from winter flu and build up energy necessary for the more active spring and summer with nutrition rich diets.

Here's a recipe for all preparers — haddock, pimientos, a flavorful cracker meal-cheese mixture and sauce layered in a baking dish.

It's quick to prepare — takes just eight minutes to poach the fish while sauteeing the mixture for the canned-soup-base sauce. Then layer and bake for 15 to 20 minutes.

It's economical. This meal in a dish serves six. And the only accompaniments needed are a green salad, crusty bread and dessert.

It's nutritious. Protein-rich fish is combined with the dairy goodness of cheese and milk and vitamin C high piementos.

And mouths will water when you cut through the golden brown crisp cracker meal topping to reveal the sauce laced layers of fish and pimientos.

FISH 'N CHEESE

1½ pounds haddock fillets
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 clove garlic, minced
2 medium onions, thinly sliced
1 small green pepper, cut into thin strips
1 (10½-ounce) can condensed cream of mushroom soup
1¼ cups milk
1 cup cracker meal
1 cup grated natural Cheddar cheese
1 (7-ounce) can pimientos, pods, drained, quartered

Poach fish in little salted water about 8 minutes, or until done; drain. In saucepan melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine; add next three ingredients and saute until lightly golden. Add cream of mushroom soup and milk. Heat while stirring until mixture is smooth and comes to a boil; remove. Combine cracker meal and cheese. Layer half of fish, pimientos and cheese mixture in an 8-inch square pyrex dish. Top with half of sauce. Repeat with remaining fish, pimientos and sauce. To remaining cheese mixture add 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine. Sprinkle over top of dish. Bake in a preheated hot oven (400° F.) 15 to 20 minutes, or until bubbling. Makes 6 (about 1-cup) servings.

Time For Hot Cross Buns

4 cups biscuit mix
½ cup golden raisins
½ cup diced, candied citron
2 teaspoons cinnamon
2 teaspoons instant coffee powder
⅓ cup sugar
1 cup milk (approx.)
1 egg yolk
1 tablespoon water

Combine first six ingredients; mix well. Add enough milk to make a soft dough; mixing with a fork. Knead on lightly floured board for several minutes, until dough is elastic. Form into 16 balls, place close together in baking pan. Combine egg yolk and water; beat slightly with fork; brush over top of buns. Bake at 450° for 15 to 18 minutes. Serve hot, or if desired cool and decorate with crosses of confectioners' sugar icing. Makes 16 buns.

Better Beef

Cattle are fed in the most modern yards with electronic feed mills where the feed is untouched by human hands. Advanced feeding methods and efficient packing plants in California insure top quality beef.

Quick Sandwich Is Grilled Crab

Split, toast and butter 6 English muffins. Combine 1½ cups flaked crabmeat with ⅓ cup mayonnaise and 2 teaspoons Worcestershire. Spread 2 tablespoons of mixture on each muffin half. Crisscross each with 2 slices crisp cooked bacon. Top each with a slice of sharp cheddar cheese. Broil until cheese is melted.

Spread the good word.

League Honors Supporter

Women in California obtained the right to vote eight years before the 19th Amendment was passed. This did not make California's women any less interested in the suffrage movement however.

A staunch supporter of women's rights was the late Mrs. William Kent of Marin County, whose husband was serving as a congressman in Washington, D. C., during the period when suffrage demonstrations were at their peak. Mrs. Kent's own enthusiasm for women's rights landed her in jail, but what most annoyed her about the incident was learning that her husband had used his political influence to obtain her freedom.

YESTERDAY, MEMBERS of the Central Marin League of Women Voters took time out to honor Mrs. Kent, and others like her, on the eve of the league's 50th anniversary. In an amusing historical portrayal of the league's contributions toward social and political progress, members learned that not only has the league influenced change at the national and state levels, but also that the Marin County league, founded in 1936 and from which both the Southern and Central Marin leagues sprung, played an active role in the development of Marin.

In its salad days, the Marin league members were concerned with standards of cleanliness in Marin's dairy industry. Their persistence led to the establishment of the first Public Health Department in the county in 1942.

Next the league turned to improving the structure and function of local government, in hopes of establishing a more effective civil service for the county. Two women who were at the forefront of the movement to establish a County Personnel Commission were Mrs. Vera Schultz, then a county supervisor, and Mrs. Wallace Andrews, Mrs. Schultz's appointee to the first commission. Both women had had a chance to observe closely the activities of the State Personnel Commission as league observers in Sacramento, and with the help and guidance of attorney Julius Selinger, who became the commission's first chairman, a Marin County Personnel Commission was finally established in 1952.

IN ADDITION TO civil service reform, the league had long been concerned with city and county managers at the local level. The Marin County league's first move in this area came in the form of support for the Mill Valley Board of Freeholders' recommendation to the city council in 1942, that a city manager form of government be adopted by Mill Valley. The recommendation was put on the ballot that spring, and with the help of the league, the ordinance giving Mill Valley a city manager was approved by the voters.

The league had to wait another 20 years before its hard-fought battle to establish a county manager was finally won and the County Administrator's Office was set up in 1962.

The league's past, as shown yesterday, has been dynamic, and even though it is about to celebrate its 50th birthday, it is by no means settling into middle age. The vitality displayed by those who "insisted on getting the vote before they would come to the dinner table" is still seen in today's leaguers, who now fight for equal job opportunities, better housing and education, and more efficient county transportation.

THE CENTRAL Marin league is now 230 members strong and is still growing. Many of its original members, like those in the Southern Marin league, are still active. To celebrate the league's 50th year, its members are taking part locally, in a nationwide finance drive to replenish the league's dwindling resources for the next fifty years. Mrs. Joseph Turina and Mrs. J. Stanton King, who are co-chairmen of the drive, said yesterday that the league hopes to raise $11,000,000 nationally, of which $5,000,000 will be contributed by league members themselves.

How will the funds be used at the local level? Mrs. Farrel Schell, president of the Central Marin league, told members at the meeting, "We need money for clerical help and an office where people can feel free to come and obtain information and league publications. It can buy non-partisan election materials to distribute to all voters in Marin, not just the few we can now reach. It can pay for conferences such as last year's Bay Area Regional Conference and the Economic Opportunity Council Forum, which will serve to inform the Marin community."

The league hopes that with such far-reaching aims, it will have the support of the community in obtaining its goals.

SKITS WERE performed yesterday by members of the Central Marin League of Women Voters in celebration of the league's 50th anniversary. Waving signs and wearing costumes of the time at yesterday's celebration held at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael are, left to right, Mmes. Vince MacKenzie, Allen Jensen, Jack Silverman, David Ainsworth, Paul Hughes, Douglas Norby and William Glasscock.

Rosana Orr Is Named Tomorrow's Homemaker

Eighteen-year-old senior Rosana Orr was named the 1969 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow at Sir Francis Drake High School.

Rosana, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Orr of Fairfax, received the award on the basis of her high score in a written knowledge and attitude test on homemaking given to senior girls.

She is now eligible to go on to statewide and national competition. The winner in the state will receive a $1,500 scholarship to the college of her choice. Her school will receive a complete set of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. The runner-up will be given a $500 grant.

The winners in each state will meet in Washington, D.C., this spring, accompanied by their school advisors, in an educational tour of the capital and colonial Williamsburg, Va.

"This came as such a big surprise to me because I had no thoughts of winning. I took the test out of curiosity," declared Rosana. "I'm really happy about it," she added. "And I love to cook."

Rosana hopes to attend the University of California at Davis or Whittier College next year.

Eighteen-year-old senior Rosana Orr was named the 1969 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow at Sir Francis Drake High School.

She is now eligible to go on to statewide and national competition. The winner in the state will receive a $1,500 scholarship to the college of her choice. Her school will receive a complete set of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. The runner-up will be given a $500 grant.

The winners in each state will meet in Washington, D.C., this spring, accompanied by their school advisors, in an educational tour of the capital and colonial Williamsburg, Va.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

San Francisco Graduate Writes Suggestion For Riot Solution

DEAR HELEN:

I have a suggestion for putting down riots on college campuses. First of all, college administrators should make it definite they will not tolerate insurrection, and rioters will be forcefully tossed, never to return. In other words, they will be expelled, and fast. This does not include peaceful argument and dissension. I agree college students have a right to be heard, and many of the their criticisms are valid. But no one has a right to violence. It accomplishes nothing and denies education to the great majority who do not riot.

Next, these expelled students who want an education should have a college planned especially for them, where they can expound their views among their own kind. Maybe they'd develop the best kind of university, who knows, for these students are the activists, the doers, the changers. Given a place where they can go ahead as fast as they want — and bring their reforms to fruition, they might even evolve a model for higher education as it should be.

How about it: A College for Dissenters! Then the 90 per cent of peaceful students could get back to earning their degrees. — SAN FRANCISCO STATE GRAD

DEAR GRAD

Good idea, but I doubt that those dissenters would sit still for being shunted off to a "College for Dissenters." They'd howl "segregation," "discrimination," etc., for their goal is to change existing order, not live in an environment where the fight is already won. Otherwise they'd attend the far-left colleges sprinkled around the country.

As for college administrations getting tough: They should and they are, and it's high time! I'm all for needed change, but not overthrow by violence. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I read that cigarette consumption was down in 1968 by a small amount, and then I heard on television that the percentage of smokers had dropped two points. Is this among teen-agers or adults, or both? — REFORMED

DEAR REFORMED:

Two recent surveys show smoking among teen-agers has dropped considerably more than two per cent. A national, though somewhat limited poll made for the United States Public Health Service in early 1968 estimates that less than one per cent of boys and girls in the age-12 and 13 group are presently smokers; and that 25 per cent of 17-year-old boys smoke cigarettes now, as compared with 35 per cent a decade ago. The corresponding figures for girls of the same age are 15 per cent currently as compared with 25 per cent 10 years ago.

However, these figures are sharply contested by W. Herbert Grigson who heads up the Non-Smokers Clubs in Chester County, Pa. His intensive anti-smoking campaign in 22 Pennsylvania schools has resulted in an 8.7 per cent decrease among young smokers over a three-year period, but he states that the number of 17-year-old cigarette smokers still remains 39 per cent (boys) and 25½ per cent (girls). His figures are borne out by regional surveys in California and Oregon.

While cigarettes are becoming less popular with some students, an estimated 4,500 new 11- and 12-year-olds take to them every day of the year. So says Dr. Ashbel C. Williams, of the American Cancer Society.

And before you breathe a sigh of relief that teen smoking is on the down trend, consider this: Teen use of liquor and illegal drugs has reached an all-time high. It's time we started anti-drugs and non-drinking clubs too. Right? — H.

Edible Containers

Californians often used artichokes as edible containers, replacing the usual tomato, green pepper or lettuce cup. Colorful seasonal vegetables can be chopped up and chilled in a spicy marinade, then stuffed into cooked cold artichokes, without draining, so the excess marinade doubles as a dressing. This is an excellent use for leftover vegetables. Prepare the cooked artichokes for stuffing by pushing apart gently the center leaves so that you can scrape out the fuzzy choke with a serrated-edge grapefruit spoon.

Sun Shirts

The sun shirt in the B.H. Wragge collection for spring is made of hot and deep orange silk with a cord belt, has great square pockets and ends way above the knee. It also comes in turquoise.

Walnuts

Walnuts are thought to have originated in ancient Persia. They spread from the middle east to Greece, Rome, England and America. England never has produced walnuts commercially but walnuts sold in America often are called English because early shipments were made from Persia to Europe in British vessels. California grows 85 per cent of the walnuts sold domestically.

Kentfield Firemen See Pay Plan Killed

Kentfield's firemen are going to have to wait until at least July 1 for their next raise, the Kentfield Fire District board decided last night.

The board unanimously rejected a mid-year salary increase for firemen after a 90-minute discussion in which tempers flared several times.

The board also voted not to reconsider any salary matters until it begins preparing its 1969-70 budget.

Fire Chief Kenneth Kamp asked the board last night for a 3.5 per cent increase for the four firemen and an 8 per cent hike for the four officers. The raises were needed, Kamp said, to bring Kentfield's salary scale up to the Marin County average.

Kamp produced figures which showed Kentfield fifth in population and seventh in assessed valuation out of 15 county communities, yet lagging in the bottom third of the pay scale in each job level.

The requested increase — which would have been retroactive to Jan. 1 —would have brought Kentfield up to the county average and cost the district $2,400.

Kamp suggested that the board use some of the $22,500 reserve funds to finance the increases.

"The reason I'm asking for these raises," Kamp said, "is because we've fallen so far behind. If you grant us this midyear increase, then we won't be 20 miles out of line when we start talking about next year."

Kamp indicated that the low salaries were affecting the department's morale.

"Right now, I'd say the morale of the men was zero," he said.

Commissioner William C. Williams hotly contested Kamps' inference that Kentfield "was way out of line" on salaries.

"We may be a little below average," he countered, "but I sure don't think we are way out of line."

Williams then noted that Kentfield firemen were allowed to work at other jobs on their days off, whereas some other departments forbid this.

"Yeah, and why do we work at a second job? one fireman hotly countered. "So we can at least make a decent living."

Board chairman Joe Smith indicated he would like to have further time to study the figures provided by Kamp, but commissioner Art L. Poganski quickly took Williams' side.

"It's time we either fished or cut bait," he said. "And I don't think we ought to approve these raises."

Then, dispite a chorus of dissent from the firemen, the board unanimously killed the bid for an increase.

Kamp said he was "upset" by the decision, but said he didn't forsee any further pressure being applied by the firemen. He also said that he didn't feel the decision would cause any firemen to consider leaving their positions.

Dominican Offers Sculpture Exhibit

Dominican College in San Rafael will feature an exhibit of the sculpture and wood engraving of Alexander Weygers of Carmel Valley, Feb. 17 through March 7.

A reception for the artist will be held, 2 p.m., Feb. 19 at the San Marco Gallery of the college.

Greek Folk Dancers Due At College

Thirty Greek National Folk Dancers will perform regional Greek dances Monday at 8:15 p.m. in the theater in the College of Marin Fine Arts Building, sponsored by the college's concert-lecture series.

The dances show moods of Greek popular life at harvest time and in war, as well as the lives of sponge fishers, the dances of Pontus close to ancient Pyrrhic legends and the rhythms of the syrtos — all capsuling many centuries of the life and customs of Greece.

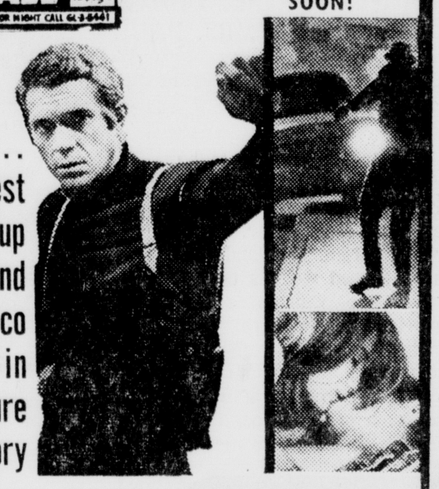

In the two-and-one-half-hour program songs and the best of traditional and modern Greek music will also be featured.

Tickets may be obtained in advance through the Community Education Office, Room 2, Harlan Hall.

MIXED EMOTIONS—A soaring foursome seems to express only exuberance while more restrained members of the Greek National Folk Dancers strike poses suggestive of some nameless sorrow. The group will perform Monday at College of Marin.

Kentfield Firemen See Pay Plan Killed

Kentfield's firemen are going to have to wait until at least July 1 for their next raise, the Kentfield Fire District board decided last night.

The board unanimously rejected a mid-year salary increase for firemen after a 90-minute discussion in which tempers flared several times.

The board also voted not to reconsider any salary matters until it begins preparing its 1969-70 budget.

Fire Chief Kenneth Kamp asked the board last night for a 3.5 per cent increase for the four firemen and an 8 per cent hike for the four officers. The raises were needed, Kamp said, to bring Kentfield's salary scale up to the Marin County average.

Kamp produced figures which showed Kentfield fifth in population and seventh in assessed valuation out of 15 county communities, yet lagging in the bottom third of the pay scale in each job level.

The requested increase — which would have been retroactive to Jan. 1 —would have brought Kentfield up to the county average and cost the district $2,400.

Kamp suggested that the board use some of the $22,500 reserve funds to finance the increases.

"The reason I'm asking for these raises," Kamp said, "is because we've fallen so far behind. If you grant us this midyear increase, then we won't be 20 miles out of line when we start talking about next year."

Kamp indicated that the low salaries were affecting the department's morale.

"Right now, I'd say the morale of the men was zero," he said.

Commissioner William C. Williams hotly contested Kamps' inference that Kentfield "was way out of line" on salaries.

"We may be a little below average," he countered, "but I sure don't think we are way out of line."

Williams then noted that Kentfield firemen were allowed to work at other jobs on their days off, whereas some other departments forbid this.

"Yeah, and why do we work at a second job? one fireman hotly countered. "So we can at least make a decent living."

Board chairman Joe Smith indicated he would like to have further time to study the figures provided by Kamp, but commissioner Art L. Poganski quickly took Williams' side.

"It's time we either fished or cut bait," he said. "And I don't think we ought to approve these raises."

Then, dispite a chorus of dissent from the firemen, the board unanimously killed the bid for an increase.

Kamp said he was "upset" by the decision, but said he didn't forsee any further pressure being applied by the firemen. He also said that he didn't feel the decision would cause any firemen to consider leaving their positions.

Dominican Offers Sculpture Exhibit

Dominican College in San Rafael will feature an exhibit of the sculpture and wood engraving of Alexander Weygers of Carmel Valley, Feb. 17 through March 7.

A reception for the artist will be held, 2 p.m., Feb. 19 at the San Marco Gallery of the college.

Greek Folk Dancers Due At College

Thirty Greek National Folk Dancers will perform regional Greek dances Monday at 8:15 p.m. in the theater in the College of Marin Fine Arts Building, sponsored by the college's concert-lecture series.

The dances show moods of Greek popular life at harvest time and in war, as well as the lives of sponge fishers, the dances of Pontus close to ancient Pyrrhic legends and the rhythms of the syrtos — all capsuling many centuries of the life and customs of Greece.

In the two-and-one-half-hour program songs and the best of traditional and modern Greek music will also be featured.

Tickets may be obtained in advance through the Community Education Office, Room 2, Harlan Hall.

More "Freedom of Choice!"

Many Stores Stock The Brands They Want To Sell. We Stock The Brands You Want To Buy.

We believe in "freedom of choice." We believe that most women like to shop in a supermarket that offers a good choice of grocery brands . . . the brands you know and trust.

We know that advertised brands offer you more value and more consistent quality. They're dependable.

Our policy is simple: We try and offer you a greater variety of famous brands. And you can depend on United to usually be first to stock the new items and brands you see advertised.

We will never restrict our selection of famous brands to load up our shelves with unknown brands.

United is for people who care about variety and want the freedom of choice.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1969 21

PROTECTED — The walls of the 19th Century adobe within the fire-damaged Burdell Mansion at Rancho Olompali stood shielded from the rain yesterday. The prospective buyer of the ranch announced plans to preserve the walls — to the delight of the Marin County Historical Society. (Independent-Journal photo)

Rancho Olompali Bidder Offers To Save Adobe Relic's Remains

The prospective buyer of the 760-acre Rancho Olompali north of Novato announced yesterday he would preserve the walls of the historic adobe within the fire-ravaged Burdell Mansion. (Other Marin supervisors stories, page 5.)

Timothy W. O'Donoghue Jr. of Novato, a land investor and developer, pleased members of the Marin County Historical Society by disclosing he planned to take title to the ranch by early next week and would not disturb the remains of the 19th Century adobe.

Meanwhile, Donald C. McCoy Jr., who gave up a successful business career to become financial angel for a hippie commune at the ranch, said yesterday he has accepted his former father-in-law as conservator of what's left of his estate.

The father-on-law, Arthur E. Lang of Mill Valley, had filed suit in Marin Superior Court in an attempt to stop McCoy from dribbling away what was left of about $500,000 he had accumulated through real estate and houseboat building ventures.

The announcement of plans to save the adobe walls came at a meeting of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, which had been implored earlier by historical society members to block any demolition of the Burdell Mansion, wrecked by fire Feb. 2.

The blaze in the 26-room mansion chased its 20 hippie inhabitants, known as the Chosen Family, into other buildings on the ranch. O'Donoghue's plans now threaten the existence of the commune.

"I want to let the county and the historical society know that we intend to preserve the adobe walls," said Rodric L. Robinson, attorney for O'Donoghue.

Later, outside the supervisors' chambers O'Donoghue said he not only planned to save the walls but tentatively to convert the ranch into an historical park. He said he had hired a planner to design the park, but declined to divulge his name.

"This is joyful news," Helen Van Cleave Park, vice president of the historical society, said of O'Donoghue's salvage plans.

The adobe was built in the 1840s and became the home of Camilo Ynita, a Christianized Indian educated at Mission San Rafael Arcangel and son of the last chief of the Olompalis.

Mrs. Park quoted an unidentified authority in California history as saying the adobe ranked with Sutter's Mill and General Vallejo's adobe in Petaluma in historical significance in Northern California.

She said the adobe was designated a California Historical Landmark in the 1930s, but that a plaque was removed from the entrance to the ranch on Highway 101 because of sightseers.

The new plans for the adobe — coupled with settlement of the suit by McCoy's father-in-law — appeared to limit the days of the Chosen Family at the ranch.

Of an estimated $300,000 left in McCoy's fortune, Lang proposes to allow his former son-in-law only $1,000 a month — the amount of monthly rental at the ranch.

Lang sued in behalf of his two grandchildren, born to his daughter, Paula. The daughter, now divorced, is living in the Haight-Ashbury district in San Francisco.

"This takes a lot of problems off my mind," McCoy said. "It leaves me free to turn on the world which is all I want to do."

Back Is Broken In Auto Crash

Two persons from Lafayette were injured yesterday at 9:15 a.m. on Highway 101 on-ramp on East Washington Street, Petaluma.

R. Frederick Christmann, 58, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Hillcrest Hospital with broken ribs and possible internal injuries. Gladys Christmann, 51, was reported in fair condition with a broken back.

The California Highway Patrol said Christmann struck a light standard on the curving on-ramp.

MARIN WATER PROJECT

Russian River Claimed Best Source

By JOANNE GRANT
(Last of three articles)

Russian River water will flow into Marin homes in the next decade, providing that Marin Municipal Water District believes it is the best, least expensive supplementary water.

The decision to transport the necessary 14.5 billion gallons a year, more than double the amount now being used, from the Russian River to Marin was made in 1963.

A report prepared by Marin's two major water districts in 1963 and based on figures furnished by the state Department of Water Resources showed an alternate project, the North Bay Aqueduct, would have cost less.

Initial capital costs would have been about $5 million less on the aqueduct and the cost per acre foot would have been $31.60 over the life of the project, compared to $34.35 per acre foot from the Russian River, the report said.

But William R. Seeger, general manager of Marin Municipal Water District, lacked faith in the state's estimates on aqueduct water costs, although the district used those figures as underpinnings for its own report.

Commenting on the state's estimate of $31.60 per acre foot for water from the North Bay Aqueduct, Seeger said flatly, "They couldn't do it for that."

Seeger believes the Russian River water may turn out to be cheaper in the long run, because of its high quality, a major factor in the decision to use the river.

The water which would come through the alternative North Bay Aqueduct from the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta would be "good, clear solid Eel River water dumped into the polluted Sacramento River."

It would have to be treated extensively before use, he said, and the cost of treatment would be up to Marin.

If pollution increased, treatment costs would also increase, Seeger said.

Russian River water on the other hand, would not be mixed.

It would receive "natural" filtration at the Wohler Intakes, near the Wohler Bridge on the Russian River, and would only need chlorination before distribution, he said.

Another problem involved in the North Bay Aqueduct, when it was up for a state-required decision by December 1963, was lack of agreement among counties involved.

One disagreement was about when the project should start. Napa needed water immediately, while Marin could wait for 10 years.

Construction would have had to begin immediately and all four counties would have had to begin paying.

The report also noted the North Bay Aqueduct didn't provide storage facilities along the transmission line, while the Russian River project included two reservoirs.

Both projects could have been constructed in phases, but Seeger said greater staging possibilities existed in the Russian River project.

For example, part of the Russian River project could be delayed if Marin Municipal Water District could buy water from North Marin County Water District, Seeger said.

North Marin, which currently gets part of its supply through another Russian River water transport system, may have enough water to sell some to MMWD, Seeger said. That system, which diverts water above Ukiah at Coyote Dam, is not large enough, however, to carry all of Marin's anticipated needs, Seeger said.

The water costs North Marin $57 per acre foot and the cost would be higher in Marin Municipal Water District.

Buying this water may be imperative if the Warm Springs Dam, a key installation in MMWD's proposed Russian River system, isn't funded soon. Seeger said the project will take five years once construction begins and the current target date for completion is not later than 1975.

Injuries Minor

John M. Viargues, 26, of Dublin, Contra Costa County, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a sprained right ankle and multiple cuts and scrapes yesterday after his car spun and overturned at 9:20 a.m. on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, east of Highway 101, the California Highway Patrol has reported.

Another reason for not contracting for North Bay Aqueduct water, Seeger said, was the "inability at any time to get a firm commitment from the state on project costs."

And still another plus for the Russian River project, according to Seeger, is the possibility of diverting Eel River water into it if needed someday without the contaminating contact with Sacramento River water.

A state water resources spokesman, recalling why the North Bay Aqueduct was rejected, said simply that they (Sonoma County Flood Control and Water Conservation District) did their own study and came up with a figure about $5 an acre foot cheaper.

The current estimate per acre foot and other Russian River project details are expected in the reports to be issued this month.

Then the districts will have to decide how to take care of financing, from choices including a general obligation bond issue payable through taxes; a revenue bond issue; a simple increase in water rates, or a combination.

Seeger indicated he favors going on the county tax rolls for the capital investment because persons not now living in the district will probably benefit from the project. It would be the first time in the district's 57-year history it resorted to taxes.

Also to be decided is whether each of the two Marin and one Sonoma water districts will conduct its bond issue independently or whether to seek special legislation to form a single district so funds could be approved or rejected simultaneously.

Girls' School To Send Delegates To Model U.N.

Five students from San Domenico School for Girls, San Anselmo, will attend the Model United Nations at the University of California at Berkeley tomorrow through Saturday as the delegation from the Mongolian Peoples Republic.

Selected as delegates were Karen Field of Detroit, chairman; Christine Rossi of Healdsburg; Leigh Bellingall of Belvedere; Laura Hofmeister of San Rafael, and Carol Matthews of Reno.

Named as official observers were Cynthia Strauss of San Rafael, Anne O'Reilly of Mill Valley, Sarah Bassett of Tiburon, Elizabeth Ledyard of San Jose and Carolyn Knox of San Anselmo.

Unofficial observers will be Noel Allen of Modesto and Isabel Alegria of Berkeley.

Some members of the official delegation will also represent the school in a model U.N. at Sacramento State College March 15 as the delegation from Senegal.

Museum Panel Nears Naming Of Director

Paul Maxwell, a 30-year-old crop production assistant for a large seed company, probably will be named the new director of the Louise A. Boyd Marin Museum of Science, it was learned today.

Maxwell, who lives in Hollister, San Benito County, is the leading candidate among about a dozen persons who have applied to replace Clara Evans, who resigned last summer amid differences with museum trustees on program development.

Maxwell, now employed by the Ferry-Morse Seed Co. at its San Juan Bautista ranch, is a former administrative assistant for the San Francisco Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, chief investigator for the San Mateo County Humane Society and is a graduate of California State Polytechnic College at San Luis Obispo in animal science.

At a meeting of museum trustees and other members last night, Mrs. Sally Mishkind, chairman of the personnel committee, said the museum was "90 per cent sure" of getting Maxwell, although he was not named. Mrs. Mishkind praised the applicant highly.

Richard V. Godino, president of the trustees, said an announcement was expected tomorrow.

Mrs. Evans, who had been associated with the museum since its opening in 1955, denied she and the trustees were feuding but conceded that she "did not have the support of the board."

She said the museum needed reorganization and a new source of funds.

Mrs. Mishkind told members last night: "We need someone to go before the public and get money in here; we've never had anyone like that before."

Mrs. Evans was paid $700 monthly, but the salary offer to Maxwell was not disclosed.

Mrs. Evans' resignation was followed in January by that of David Cavagnoar, museum education director. He remains active in museum affairs, however.

He said upon resigning that he also had trouble starting programs because of a reluctant board of trustees. But trustees representatives have said both Mrs. Evans and Cavagnaro failed to understand the museum's financial plight.

The deadline to register to vote in the April 15 election in the Novato Sanitary District, on the proposed dissolution of the district, is Feb. 20, county elections officials reminded voters today.

The dissolution was proposed by the North Marin County Water District, and if approved by a majority of the voters in the sanitary district, the sanitary district will merge with the water district.

The deadline to submit ballot arguments for and against the proposal is 5 p.m. on Feb. 24. They must be filed with the elections office in the County Courthouse, San Rafael.

Hill is suspected of selling the dangerous drug to Richard K. Yager, 20, and a group of San Francisco youths on Sept. 26, 1968. Yager, a soldier home on leave, collapsed and died in a San Rafael apartment the next morning.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1969 21

PROTECTED — The walls of the 19th Century adobe within the fire-damaged Burdell Mansion at Rancho Olompali stood shielded from the rain yesterday. The prospective buyer of the ranch announced plans to preserve the walls — to the delight of the Marin County Historical Society. (Independent-Journal photo)

Rancho Olompali Bidder Offers To Save Adobe Relic's Remains

The prospective buyer of the 760-acre Rancho Olompali north of Novato announced yesterday he would preserve the walls of the historic adobe within the fire-ravaged Burdell Mansion. (Other Marin supervisors stories, page 5.)

Timothy W. O'Donoghue Jr. of Novato, a land investor and developer, pleased members of the Marin County Historical Society by disclosing he planned to take title to the ranch by early next week and would not disturb the remains of the 19th Century adobe.

Meanwhile, Donald C. McCoy Jr., who gave up a successful business career to become financial angel for a hippie commune at the ranch, said yesterday he has accepted his former father-in-law as conservator of what's left of his estate.

The father-on-law, Arthur E. Lang of Mill Valley, had filed suit in Marin Superior Court in an attempt to stop McCoy from dribbling away what was left of about $500,000 he had accumulated through real estate and houseboat building ventures.

The announcement of plans to save the adobe walls came at a meeting of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, which had been implored earlier by historical society members to block any demolition of the Burdell Mansion, wrecked by fire Feb. 2.

The blaze in the 26-room mansion chased its 20 hippie inhabitants, known as the Chosen Family, into other buildings on the ranch. O'Donoghue's plans now threaten the existence of the commune.

"I want to let the county and the historical society know that we intend to preserve the adobe walls," said Rodric L. Robinson, attorney for O'Donoghue.

Later, outside the supervisors' chambers O'Donoghue said he not only planned to save the walls but tentatively to convert the ranch into an historical park. He said he had hired a planner to design the park, but declined to divulge his name.

"This is joyful news," Helen Van Cleave Park, vice president of the historical society, said of O'Donoghue's salvage plans.

The adobe was built in the 1840s and became the home of Camilo Ynita, a Christianized Indian educated at Mission San Rafael Arcangel and son of the last chief of the Olompalis.

Mrs. Park quoted an unidentified authority in California history as saying the adobe ranked with Sutter's Mill and General Vallejo's adobe in Petaluma in historical significance in Northern California.

She said the adobe was designated a California Historical Landmark in the 1930s, but that a plaque was removed from the entrance to the ranch on Highway 101 because of sightseers.

The new plans for the adobe — coupled with settlement of the suit by McCoy's father-in-law — appeared to limit the days of the Chosen Family at the ranch.

Of an estimated $300,000 left in McCoy's fortune, Lang proposes to allow his former son-in-law only $1,000 a month — the amount of monthly rental at the ranch.

Lang sued in behalf of his two grandchildren, born to his daughter, Paula. The daughter, now divorced, is living in the Haight-Ashbury district in San Francisco.

"This takes a lot of problems off my mind," McCoy said. "It leaves me free to turn on the world which is all I want to do."

Two persons from Lafayette were injured yesterday at 9:15 a.m. on Highway 101 on-ramp on East Washington Street, Petaluma.

R. Frederick Christmann, 58, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Hillcrest Hospital with broken ribs and possible internal injuries. Gladys Christmann, 51, was reported in fair condition with a broken back.

The California Highway Patrol said Christmann struck a light standard on the curving on-ramp.

Girls' School To Send Delegates To Model U.N.

Five students from San Domenico School for Girls, San Anselmo, will attend the Model United Nations at the University of California at Berkeley tomorrow through Saturday as the delegation from the Mongolian Peoples Republic.

Selected as delegates were Karen Field of Detroit, chairman; Christine Rossi of Healdsburg; Leigh Bellingall of Belvedere; Laura Hofmeister of San Rafael, and Carol Matthews of Reno.

Named as official observers were Cynthia Strauss of San Rafael, Anne O'Reilly of Mill Valley, Sarah Bassett of Tiburon, Elizabeth Ledyard of San Jose and Carolyn Knox of San Anselmo.

Unofficial observers will be Noel Allen of Modesto and Isabel Alegria of Berkeley.

Some members of the official delegation will also represent the school in a model U.N. at Sacramento State College March 15 as the delegation from Senegal.

Museum Panel Nears Naming Of Director

Paul Maxwell, a 30-year-old crop production assistant for a large seed company, probably will be named the new director of the Louise A. Boyd Marin Museum of Science, it was learned today.

Maxwell, who lives in Hollister, San Benito County, is the leading candidate among about a dozen persons who have applied to replace Clara Evans, who resigned last summer amid differences with museum trustees on program development.

Maxwell, now employed by the Ferry-Morse Seed Co. at its San Juan Bautista ranch, is a former administrative assistant for the San Francisco Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, chief investigator for the San Mateo County Humane Society and is a graduate of California State Polytechnic College at San Luis Obispo in animal science.

At a meeting of museum trustees and other members last night, Mrs. Sally Mishkind, chairman of the personnel committee, said the museum was "90 per cent sure" of getting Maxwell, although he was not named. Mrs. Mishkind praised the applicant highly.

Richard V. Godino, president of the trustees, said an announcement was expected tomorrow.

Mrs. Evans, who had been associated with the museum since its opening in 1955, denied she and the trustees were feuding but conceded that she "did not have the support of the board."

She said the museum needed reorganization and a new source of funds.

Mrs. Mishkind told members last night: "We need someone to go before the public and get money in here; we've never had anyone like that before."

Mrs. Evans was paid $700 monthly, but the salary offer to Maxwell was not disclosed.

Mrs. Evans' resignation was followed in January by that of David Cavagnoar, museum education director. He remains active in museum affairs, however.

He said upon resigning that he also had trouble starting programs because of a reluctant board of trustees. But trustees representatives have said both Mrs. Evans and Cavagnaro failed to understand the museum's financial plight.

Vote Registering Deadline Feb. 20

The deadline to register to vote in the April 15 election in the Novato Sanitary District, on the proposed dissolution of the district, is Feb. 20, county elections officials reminded voters today.

The dissolution was proposed by the North Marin County Water District, and if approved by a majority of the voters in the sanitary district, the sanitary district will merge with the water district.

The deadline to submit ballot arguments for and against the proposal is 5 p.m. on Feb. 24. They must be filed with the elections office in the County Courthouse, San Rafael.

MARIN WATER PROJECT

Russian River Claimed Best Source

By JOANNE GRANT
(Last of three articles)

Russian River water will flow into Marin homes in the next decade, providing that Marin Municipal Water District believes it is the best, least expensive supplementary water.

The decision to transport the necessary 14.5 billion gallons a year, more than double the amount now being used, from the Russian River to Marin was made in 1963.

A report prepared by Marin's two major water districts in 1963 and based on figures furnished by the state Department of Water Resources showed an alternate project, the North Bay Aqueduct, would have cost less.

Initial capital costs would have been about $5 million less on the aqueduct and the cost per acre foot would have been $31.60 over the life of the project, compared to $34.35 per acre foot from the Russian River, the report said.

But William R. Seeger, general manager of Marin Municipal Water District, lacked faith in the state's estimates on aqueduct water costs, although the district used those figures as underpinnings for its own report.

Commenting on the state's estimate of $31.60 per acre foot for water from the North Bay Aqueduct, Seeger said flatly, "They couldn't do it for that."

Seeger believes the Russian River water may turn out to be cheaper in the long run, because of its high quality, a major factor in the decision to use the river.

The water which would come through the alternative North Bay Aqueduct from the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta would be "good, clear solid Eel River water dumped into the polluted Sacramento River."

It would have to be treated extensively before use, he said, and the cost of treatment would be up to Marin.

If pollution increased, treatment costs would also increase, Seeger said.

Russian River water on the other hand, would not be mixed.

It would receive "natural" filtration at the Wohler Intakes, near the Wohler Bridge on the Russian River, and would only need chlorination before distribution, he said.

Another problem involved in the North Bay Aqueduct, when it was up for a state-required decision by December 1963, was lack of agreement among counties involved.

One disagreement was about when the project should start. Napa needed water immediately, while Marin could wait for 10 years.

Construction would have had to begin immediately and all four counties would have had to begin paying.

The report also noted the North Bay Aqueduct didn't provide storage facilities along the transmission line, while the Russian River project included two reservoirs.

Both projects could have been constructed in phases, but Seeger said greater staging possibilities existed in the Russian River project.

For example, part of the Russian River project could be delayed if Marin Municipal Water District could buy water from North Marin County Water District, Seeger said.

North Marin, which currently gets part of its supply through another Russian River water transport system, may have enough water to sell some to MMWD, Seeger said. That system, which diverts water above Ukiah at Coyote Dam, is not large enough, however, to carry all of Marin's anticipated needs, Seeger said.

The water costs North Marin $57 per acre foot and the cost would be higher in Marin Municipal Water District.

Buying this water may be imperative if the Warm Springs Dam, a key installation in MMWD's proposed Russian River system, isn't funded soon. Seeger said the project will take five years once construction begins and the current target date for completion is not later than 1975.

Another reason for not contracting for North Bay Aqueduct water, Seeger said, was the "inability at any time to get a firm commitment from the state on project costs."

And still another plus for the Russian River project, according to Seeger, is the possibility of diverting Eel River water into it if needed someday without the contaminating contact with Sacramento River water.

A state water resources spokesman, recalling why the North Bay Aqueduct was rejected, said simply that they (Sonoma County Flood Control and Water Conservation District) did their own study and came up with a figure about $5 an acre foot cheaper.

The current estimate per acre foot and other Russian River project details are expected in the reports to be issued this month.

Then the districts will have to decide how to take care of financing, from choices including a general obligation bond issue payable through taxes; a revenue bond issue; a simple increase in water rates, or a combination.

Seeger indicated he favors going on the county tax rolls for the capital investment because persons not now living in the district will probably benefit from the project. It would be the first time in the district's 57-year history it resorted to taxes.

Also to be decided is whether each of the two Marin and one Sonoma water districts will conduct its bond issue independently or whether to seek special legislation to form a single district so funds could be approved or rejected simultaneously.

Injuries Minor

John M. Viargues, 26, of Dublin, Contra Costa County, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a sprained right ankle and multiple cuts and scrapes yesterday after his car spun and overturned at 9:20 a.m. on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, east of Highway 101, the California Highway Patrol has reported.

Principle Lincoln Saw Remains True Today

Richard Nixon, on his election as President, promised to try to "bring us together." In his inaugural address, he urged that we "stop shouting at one another," and declared: "We are torn by division, wanting unity."

The divisiveness in the United States, troubling though it is, pales beside that which faced another man, born 160 years ago today in a backwoods cabin, on his election to the presidency.

THE ELECTION of Abraham Lincoln as the first Republican president tore apart the strained fabric of a nation in which South was pitted against North, slave against free.

It provided the impulse for the secession of seven states — South Carolina, Mississippi, Florida, Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, and Texas — all of which left the union between Lincoln's election and the following Feb. 1. He was indeed faced by a country "torn by division, wanting unity."

The line he took then, and from which he never deviated thereafter, has its lesson more than a century later.

Faced with the secession of seven states, Lincoln declared on Feb. 4, 1861 — one month before his inauguration:

"I should regard concession in the face of menace as the destruction of the government itself."

In his first inaugural address, he invited the seceded states to resume their ties with the union.

"We are not enemies, but friends," he said. "We must not be enemies. Though passion may have strained, it must not break our bonds of affection. The mystic chords of memory, stretching from every battlefield and every patriot grave to every living heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union when again touched, as surely they will be, by the better angels of our nature."

But he offered no concession.

HIS PLEA FELL on unhearing ears. Little more than a month later, Fort Sumter was fired on and the United States was plunged into war with the newly created Confederacy.

The mild, humane and kindly frontier lawyer was forced to preside over a nation in civil war, to send thousands of its young men to death.

Throughout that bitter conflict, Lincoln maintained that he could not, as President, recognize the right of secession. The United States must remain one nation. "My paramount object in this struggle is to save the Union, and is not either to save or to destroy slavery," he wrote Horace Greeley in August, 1862.

He saved the Union, at great cost. He freed the slaves to do it. He did it without concession.

CLEARLY HE SAW — this crude, ungainly, self-educated man — the truth that everyone in authority, from the White House down, needs to see today:

Concession in the face of menace will destroy the edifice itself, whether it be nation, state, city, college or school.

18,000 Strains Of Barley

As all Marinites who dabble in the garden know, cross-breeding has produced some wonderful new plants. Dr. Robert W. Allard of the University of California at Davis believes that more experimentation and a wider application of the principles of cross-breeding is needed for man to produce better food grains to meet his constantly expanding food requirements.

The possibilities here are tremendous. There are 18,000 genetic lines of barley in 150 places in the world. The mind boggles at the astronomical possibilities in cross-breeding barley alone, some of which may produce crops like miracle rice that will double or triple production per acre.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Exodus To Washington Brings Parade Of Special Elections

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — How much effect the exodus of high state officials to hop on the bandwagon of President Richard Nixon is going to have on the administration of Gov. Ronald Reagan remains to be seen.

But there is no doubt it will have some effect on that segment of Republicans in California which leans toward the Nixon philosophies of Republicanism, rather than to the more conservatice side of the party as espoused by the Reagan contingent.

STARTING with former Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch, the governor is successively losing Assemblyman John G. Veneman, R-Modesto, and probably later, Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, who is rumored to be slated for a Washington assignment in the United States attorney general's office.

It has been learned also that Spencer Williams, the governor's health and welfare director, will soon step out of state government service to trek to Washington for a post under Finch.

Appointment of Ed Reinecke, a congressman, as lieutenant governor to succeed Finch, opens another problem for the governor, as two Republican assemblymen, Pat McGee and Newton R. Russell, of Los Angeles and Burbank, respectively, are seeking Reinecke's congressional set. If either wins, Reagan will be confronted with another special election to fill one of the Assembly seats.

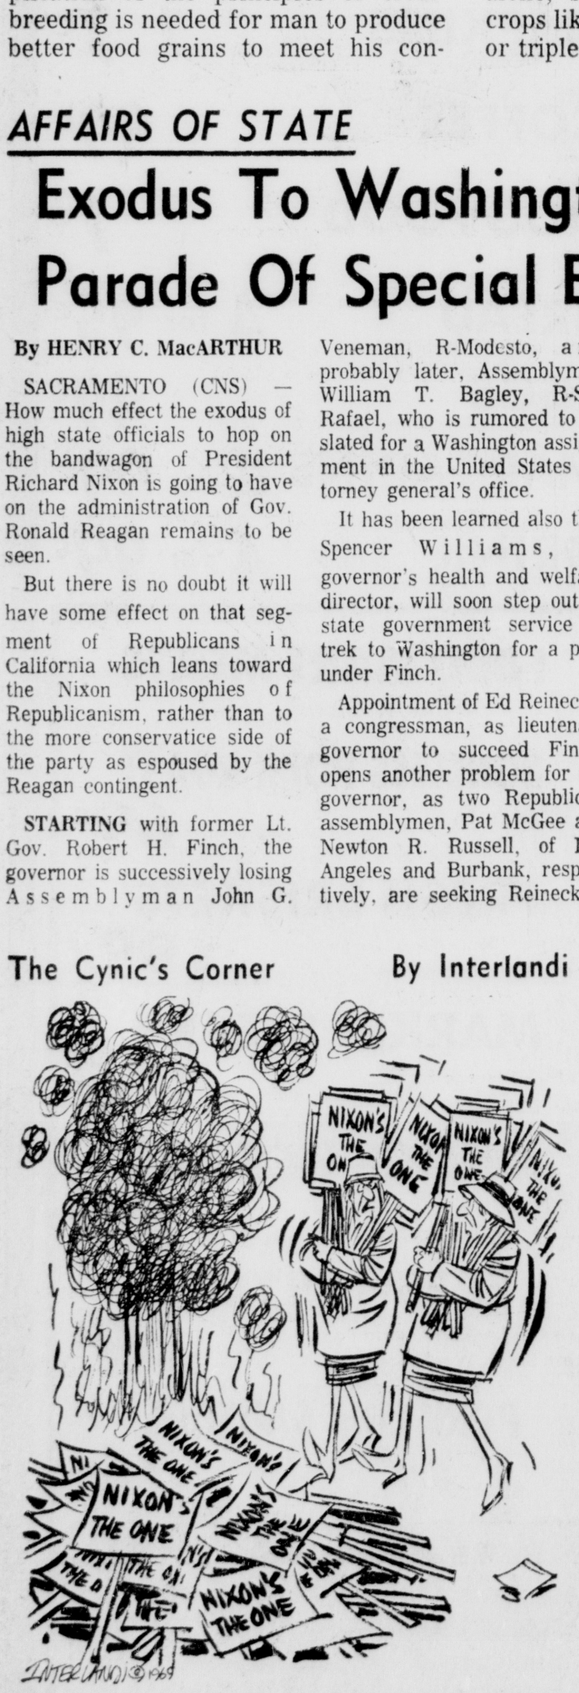

All of which poses a peril to the Republican majority in the house.

THE SPECIAL election situation is becoming somewhat complicated. One is under way for a state senator to succeed the late George Miller of Contra Costa County, and another to name a new congressman in place of Reinecke.

A third later will involve Veneman's seat in the Assembly, and a fourth possibility is for a successor for Bagley in the event the Marin assemblyman leaves for Washington. The fifth would occur in the event either Russell or McGee is successful in obtaining the Reinecke seat in Congress.

It has been fairly well established that there is no love lost between Reagan and Nixon, and that therefore the president's forces have no compunctions about raiding Reagan of some of his key personnel, especially those whose departure might have the effect of splitting the Republicans right down the middle in California again, as they were split when Max Rafferty nosed out Sen. Tom Kuchel in the 1968 primary.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

We too often forget that not only is there "a soul of goodness in things evil," but very generally a soul of truth in things erroneous. — Herbert Spencer.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Several Readers Upset Over Killing Of Lion

What a heartsickening story that is, Feb. 5, in which we are shown the picture of huntress Margaret Bennett smiling down at the dead, Nevada mountain lion in her arms — a creature slowly killed by her inept archery. Of course, this proud destroyer of a rapidly diminishing species did not get this "beautiful cat" with its "gorgeous green eyes" by herself. She had a guide, a truck, and the help of three dogs. Even then, the killing amounted to butchery, for by her own admission it took four arrows to finish off the frightened beast who had sought refuge in a cave. . . .

Aside from her indifference to the need to protect such increasingly rare wild creatures as the mountain lion, it would seem something should be done about laws that permit bows and arrows to be used at all — or especially when the user, like Miss Bennett, is a novice. . . .

ADRIEN STOUTENBURG

I was sick at heart reading on the sports page the article about Mrs. (Margaret) Bennett and your apparent justification and even glorification of her torture of that lion with her bow and arrow, her dogs and a pickup truck.

MRS. JOHN H. JOLLY
San Rafael

It was with deepest regret that I learned from a glib account in the Feb. 5 I-J of the recent death of a marvelous creature — a California mountain lion.

The desperate animal had retreated to its last sanctuary: the dark corner of a small, cold Northern California mountain cave. There, without provocation or need, it was brutally murdered.

A dramatic representation of a common event? Sadly, yes, but true none-the-less.

The instrument used for its death happened to be bow and arrow, but that is not important. What is important is that the killing serves as another example of man's nearly complete disregard for other forms on earth, animal or vegetable.

Today the cry for more compassionate and gentle treatment among men is strong; but what chance is there for its being answered when all life forms stem from such common origins, and yet so little concern is shown for the other inhabitants of this small planet.

Where To Send Aid In Animal Disaster

I have found recently that many people who are deeply concerned over the plight of the wildlife in such danger and distress from the effects of the oil on the Santa Barbara coast, are uncertain as to the best way to help.

The American Humane Societies maintain an emergency animal relief service, which operates like the Red Cross. Wherever there is disaster all the humane societies band together to help. They are in great need of funds for this last rescue operation. Will you ask your readers to be generous and send all they can spare? The address is: The American Humane Society, P.O. Bureaucracy Gets Taxes We Pay

It certainly was enlightening to read your editorial on Feb. 7 concerning the high cost of living and government in California. Particularly fortuitous was the placement of the last sentence which point out precious little service redounds to the benefit of the public from a number of tax-supported functions. Just two columns away appeared a sermonizing letter from a functionary who presumably feeds from one of those troughs.

That individual self-righteously has seen fit to lecture her employers on their mental health which, incidentally, used to be called insanity before that word became passe.

We hear repeatedly the major part of welfare and poverty funds are siphoned off by "administration," and only a few driblets percolate down to the intended beneficiaries. Collectively, I would image, a healthy chuck is devoured by the group this lady purports to represent. . .

Tiburon Should Acquire NWP Land

It seems to my observation that William R. Bremer, mayor of Tiburon, is in a dilemma. May I suggest we approach this problem objectively.

First, it must be determined when the Northwestern Pacific stopped using the land in Tiburon for the purpose of railway services, but continued to retain the land because of its rapidly increasing value.

Second, the Tiburon City Council, after consulting with the Marin County assessor's office, should determine a "fair market value" for the land in question at the time rail service stopped.

Third, the Tiburon City Council in association with the county board of supervisors should start negotiations with the NWP for the purchase of the land in Tiburon based on the fair market value. . . .

Remember, it is the revenue from the increasing value of the land that builds our community.

Nixon Opens The Door A Bit; Will Peking Slam It Shut?

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — President Nixon is quite properly setting out to discover if Red China wants friendlier relations with the United States.

He has put this item at the top of the agenda of the first meeting of the U.S. and Peking ambassadors in Warsaw in more than a year.

The United States will raise a practical question, not a theoretical one: Would Red China be open to an exchange of journalists, scientists and scholars?

This will begin to get at the heart of the matter. Is the United States isolating Red China, which many like to contend, or is Red China isolating itself?

HERE IS the record:

Three years ago Peking recalled its ambassadors from every country with which it had diplomatic relations, except Egypt — and has not returned them.

It is not the United States which has been opposing a cultural exchange with mainland China. The United States proposed a one-for-one exchange of newspaper correspondents some 10 years ago. Peking refused. President Johnson proposed the same thing and added doctors and teachers to the list. Peking refused. Now President Nixon is trying.

Peking threw away its close relations with Indonesia by trying to engineer a Communist takeover there.

NO OUTSIDE nation forces Red China to continue the Sino-Soviet split.

Governments with diplomats in Red China, such as Britain and France, find them isolated to a few blocks adjoining embassy compounds, with an occasional ceremonial trip to a supervised destination.

And what about Red China and the United Nations?

Peking has never given any sign that it wants to become a U.N. member nation. It haughtily endorsed Sukarno's withdrawal of Indonesia from the United Nations.

The advocates of Red China's admission have never proposed the simple resolution which would almost certainly be passed: "The General Assembly hereby invites the People's Republic of China to become a member of the United Nations."

No, the advocates ask the United Nations to admit Red China by expelling a U.N. member — Taiwan.

PEKING HAS LAID down other conditions before it would even consider U.N. membership. It not only wants to evict Taiwan, but also demands that "other imperialist nations, such as the United States," also be removed. And it insists that the United Nations rescind its resolution of 1950 condemning Red China for aggression against South Korea and that the United Nations cite the United States as "the aggressor."

It is evident that Peking makes it impossibly difficult for even its best friends to help free it from self-imposed isolation.

BUT MR. NIXON is showing that he is prepared to take steps toward a thaw in the Peking-Washington relations. This is why he is reviving the proposal for cultural exchange programs.

Richard Nixon is also acting wisely to show Moscow and Peking that, in any negotiations with either, the United States will not try to play one against the other. This could be tempting, but it is impractical and dangerous. It could only lead to misunderstanding and trouble. Let's not get caught in the middle of the festering animus and conflict between Peking and Moscow.

The President does not say that there should be "no change" in U.S.-China policy, but only that there will be "no immediate change." Red China can do far more to end its isolation than any other country can do for it. But we can hold open the door — and are doing so.

Will Nixon Rescue ABM From Growing Disfavor?

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — President Nixon may have to ride to the rescue of the Sentinel missile system if he wants to continue the deployment of that anti-ballistic missile system.

That is the present reading at the capitol. It reflects the fact that something new has been added to the already substantial opposition previously expressed with respect to the costly ABM.

Unless Nixon is willing to invest the controversial deployment plan with a bit of presidential prestige, Congress may well return the Sentinel system to "research and development" status. It is just one more tough problem for the new President.

CONGRESSIONAL skepticism was well illustrated last week when the House Armed Services Committee told the Pentagon it would approve no more Sentinel sites until it has a definitive statement from the Defense Department as to whether the program should be continued.

Last year Congress voted more than $1 billion to begin the ABM deployment. That action came after former Defense Sec. Robert S. McNamara came around to supporting a "thin" missile defense — ostensibly against a threat from China in the 1970s.

Congressional "Doves" quickly began the attack on Sentinel, deploring its cost (at least $5 billion) and declaring that it would accelerate the arms race. They quickly won support from others in Congress who argued that deploying the unproven Sentinel could torpedo discussions with Russian leaders on limiting missile strength of the two super-powers.

Congress, with some firm advice from President Johnson, rejected those arguments. Then, in his final budget for the year beginning July 1. Johnson proposed spending another $1.7 billion on Sentinel.

WITH PRELIMINARY deployment steps now in progress, however, opponents are armed with potent, new argument against the ABM. Sites are being pinpointed for emplacement of radar arrays and batteries of nuclear-tipped missiles, and communities involved do not like that at all.

Never mind strategy or disarmament talks; now there is an argument that every congressman can understand: the folks back home don't want to live in the shadow of a nuclear weapons installation.

Candidate Nixon praised the decision to deploy the Sentinel in his presidential campaign. He said the Russians who have deployed an ABM around Moscow, have "forged ahead" of the United States in a vital field of defensive weaponry.

While the Pentagon has suspended Sentinel activity, pending a review by its experts, Defense Sec. Melvin Laird has stated that he would like to retain the ABM, in a deployment status, for the missile limitation talks with the Russians.

In the cloakrooms, however, there is a different assessment of the Sentinel's prospects. It appears, in the first place, that the Senate's 15 freshmen will mostly oppose the ABM deployment. Some of last-year's supporters are wavering too.

If the President tempers his enthusiasm for the deployment plan, it is quite clear that some congressional supporters of the Sentinel will reconsider their positions too.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Principle Lincoln Saw Remains True Today

Richard Nixon, on his election as President, promised to try to "bring us together." In his inaugural address, he urged that we "stop shouting at one another," and declared: "We are torn by division, wanting unity."

The divisiveness in the United States, troubling though it is, pales beside that which faced another man, born 160 years ago today in a backwoods cabin, on his election to the presidency.

THE ELECTION of Abraham Lincoln as the first Republican president tore apart the strained fabric of a nation in which South was pitted against North, slave against free.

It provided the impulse for the secession of seven states — South Carolina, Mississippi, Florida, Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, and Texas — all of which left the union between Lincoln's election and the following Feb. 1. He was indeed faced by a country "torn by division, wanting unity."

The line he took then, and from which he never deviated thereafter, has its lesson more than a century later.

Faced with the secession of seven states, Lincoln declared on Feb. 4, 1861 — one month before his inauguration:

"I should regard concession in the face of menace as the destruction of the government itself."

In his first inaugural address, he invited the seceded states to resume their ties with the union.

"We are not enemies, but friends," he said. "We must not be enemies. Though passion may have strained, it must not break our bonds of affection. The mystic chords of memory, stretching from every battlefield and every patriot grave to every living heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union when again touched, as surely they will be, by the better angels of our nature."

But he offered no concession.

HIS PLEA FELL on unhearing ears. Little more than a month later, Fort Sumter was fired on and the United States was plunged into war with the newly created Confederacy.

The mild, humane and kindly frontier lawyer was forced to preside over a nation in civil war, to send thousands of its young men to death.

Throughout that bitter conflict, Lincoln maintained that he could not, as President, recognize the right of secession. The United States must remain one nation. "My paramount object in this struggle is to save the Union, and is not either to save or to destroy slavery," he wrote Horace Greeley in August, 1862.

He saved the Union, at great cost. He freed the slaves to do it. He did it without concession.

CLEARLY HE SAW — this crude, ungainly, self-educated man — the truth that everyone in authority, from the White House down, needs to see today:

18,000 Strains Of Barley

As all Marinites who dabble in the garden know, cross-breeding has produced some wonderful new plants. Dr. Robert W. Allard of the University of California at Davis believes that more experimentation and a wider application of the principles of cross-breeding is needed for man to produce better food grains to meet his constantly expanding food requirements.

The possibilities here are tremendous. There are 18,000 genetic lines of barley in 150 places in the world. The mind boggles at the astronomical possibilities in cross-breeding barley alone, some of which may produce crops like miracle rice that will double or triple production per acre.

Exodus To Washington Brings Parade Of Special Elections

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — How much effect the exodus of high state officials to hop on the bandwagon of President Richard Nixon is going to have on the administration of Gov. Ronald Reagan remains to be seen.

But there is no doubt it will have some effect on that segment of Republicans in California which leans toward the Nixon philosophies of Republicanism, rather than to the more conservatice side of the party as espoused by the Reagan contingent.

STARTING with former Lt. Gov. Robert H. Finch, the governor is successively losing Assemblyman John G. Veneman, R-Modesto, and probably later, Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, who is rumored to be slated for a Washington assignment in the United States attorney general's office.

It has been learned also that Spencer Williams, the governor's health and welfare director, will soon step out of state government service to trek to Washington for a post under Finch.

Appointment of Ed Reinecke, a congressman, as lieutenant governor to succeed Finch, opens another problem for the governor, as two Republican assemblymen, Pat McGee and Newton R. Russell, of Los Angeles and Burbank, respectively, are seeking Reinecke's congressional set. If either wins, Reagan will be confronted with another special election to fill one of the Assembly seats.

All of which poses a peril to the Republican majority in the house.

THE SPECIAL election situation is becoming somewhat complicated. One is under way for a state senator to succeed the late George Miller of Contra Costa County, and another to name a new congressman in place of Reinecke.

A third later will involve Veneman's seat in the Assembly, and a fourth possibility is for a successor for Bagley in the event the Marin assemblyman leaves for Washington. The fifth would occur in the event either Russell or McGee is successful in obtaining the Reinecke seat in Congress.

It has been fairly well established that there is no love lost between Reagan and Nixon, and that therefore the president's forces have no compunctions about raiding Reagan of some of his key personnel, especially those whose departure might have the effect of splitting the Republicans right down the middle in California again, as they were split when Max Rafferty nosed out Sen. Tom Kuchel in the 1968 primary.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Several Readers Upset Over Killing Of Lion

What a heartsickening story that is, Feb. 5, in which we are shown the picture of huntress Margaret Bennett smiling down at the dead, Nevada mountain lion in her arms — a creature slowly killed by her inept archery. Of course, this proud destroyer of a rapidly diminishing species did not get this "beautiful cat" with its "gorgeous green eyes" by herself. She had a guide, a truck, and the help of three dogs. Even then, the killing amounted to butchery, for by her own admission it took four arrows to finish off the frightened beast who had sought refuge in a cave. . . .

Aside from her indifference to the need to protect such increasingly rare wild creatures as the mountain lion, it would seem something should be done about laws that permit bows and arrows to be used at all — or especially when the user, like Miss Bennett, is a novice. . . .

I was sick at heart reading on the sports page the article about Mrs. (Margaret) Bennett and your apparent justification and even glorification of her torture of that lion with her bow and arrow, her dogs and a pickup truck.

MRS. JOHN H. JOLLY
San Rafael

It was with deepest regret that I learned from a glib account in the Feb. 5 I-J of the recent death of a marvelous creature — a California mountain lion.

The desperate animal had retreated to its last sanctuary: the dark corner of a small, cold Northern California mountain cave. There, without provocation or need, it was brutally murdered.

A dramatic representation of a common event? Sadly, yes, but true none-the-less.

The instrument used for its death happened to be bow and arrow, but that is not important. What is important is that the killing serves as another example of man's nearly complete disregard for other forms on earth, animal or vegetable.

Today the cry for more compassionate and gentle treatment among men is strong; but what chance is there for its being answered when all life forms stem from such common origins, and yet so little concern is shown for the other inhabitants of this small planet.

Where To Send Aid In Animal Disaster

I have found recently that many people who are deeply concerned over the plight of the wildlife in such danger and distress from the effects of the oil on the Santa Barbara coast, are uncertain as to the best way to help.

The American Humane Societies maintain an emergency animal relief service, which operates like the Red Cross. Wherever there is disaster all the humane societies band together to help. They are in great need of funds for this last rescue operation. Will you ask your readers to be generous and send all they can spare? The address is: The American Humane Society, P.O. Bureaucracy Gets Taxes We Pay

It certainly was enlightening to read your editorial on Feb. 7 concerning the high cost of living and government in California. Particularly fortuitous was the placement of the last sentence which point out precious little service redounds to the benefit of the public from a number of tax-supported functions. Just two columns away appeared a sermonizing letter from a functionary who presumably feeds from one of those troughs.

That individual self-righteously has seen fit to lecture her employers on their mental health which, incidentally, used to be called insanity before that word became passe.

We hear repeatedly the major part of welfare and poverty funds are siphoned off by "administration," and only a few driblets percolate down to the intended beneficiaries. Collectively, I would image, a healthy chuck is devoured by the group this lady purports to represent. . .

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

School Board Elections Could Redress Imbalance

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Filing will close Feb. 20 for school board elections throughout California which could result in redressing an imbalance in control of the public schools — but probably won't.

Most of the 3,000-odd men and women who will be elected as district school trustees April 15 are likely to conform pretty much to this description given a few years ago by Dr. H. Thomas James, dean of the Stanford University school of education.

"The role of school board member is one of the last remaining opportunities in the political world for the 'gentleman in public office.' . . . 'Gentlemen in public office' have a marked distaste for controversy and public uproar. . . Therefore, some of the most consequential educational issues of our times, because they have been the most violently controversial, have too often been sidestepped by boards of education and so have had to be resolved in the less squeamish but more realistic arenas of partisan politics."

ONE REASON that school boards side-step consequential issues, in the belief of many who have studied the subject, is that they do not realize the extent of their authority. They have been told over and over again that all "educational decisions" should be left to the professional educators — which usually means the school administrators. And they have come to believe it.

Probably relatively few of them agree with Francis Keppel, former U.S. commissioner of education, that "education is too important to be left to the educators alone."

SCHOOL BOARDS now are in excellent position to assert the considerable authority that remains to them — despite its steady diminution by statutes which have been lobbied into law by the professional educators' efficient and powerful organizations.

The recognition that teachers have some collective bargaining rights through their organizations has forced school boards to deal directly with teachers much more than formerly.

The greater local control over curriculum granted by the George Miller Jr. Act has given boards an opportunity to reassert long-lost authority — though few have taken advantage of it.

Steadily increasing public interest in the schools has offered trustees the chance to seize initiative as the elected representatives of the people —though few have done so.

AS JAMES D. Koerner observes in his new book, "Who Controls American Education?":

"In theory school boards hire administrators to carry out the basic policies of the board and look after the details of running the schools, but in practice more often than not the administrators establish the policies and the boards worry about the details."

This is born out by recent Gallup Poll findings that "in most communities, school board members say they are overwhelmed by problems of immediate concern"; curriculum innovative practices "are left largely to the judgment of the superintendent, principals, and other members of the administrative staff."

KOERNER suggests that this is because school board members and public stand in needless awe of the administrators' pretense of vast expert knowledge. He declares:

"Whether it is a question of educational aims or philosophy, of what subjects should be studied and for how long, of whether and how schools or teaching should be evaluated, of whether and how students should be divided by ability . . . or of any other substantive matter that can be named, the expert's knowledge is not good enough for the rest of us to leave the policy decisions to him, not nearly good enough."

School board members have the legal authority to make decisions in such matters. Many voters imagine that they are electing them to do so.

Experimental College Of Marin To Open Again Wednesday

The Experimental College of Marin, dormant for about two years, will open again next Wednesday with a course called "You and Your Draft Board — Win, Lose or Draw."

The course, given by Joel Shawn, Corte Madera attorney, will start at 7:30 p.m. at the Student Center.

Other courses being scheduled include: "The Sexual Being in Nature and Society," to be taught by Mrs. Hilda Fourman, Mill Valley housewife; "Marxism-Introduction," by Ken Howard of Mill Valley, a former Harvard professor; "Are Jails Necessary?" by Richard Sloane, Lagunitas, former San Quentin counselor; "Pigs and Pigism," by Henry Duval Gregory IV, San Anselmo, San Francisco Theological Seminary; "Religion as Revolution," by Charles G. Robertson Jr., San Anselmo, and "U.S. Imperialism in Latin America," by Alex Georgiadis, Berkeley, Dominican College instructor.

The college was formerly called the Experimental College of the Associated Students of the College of Marin. Jaime R. Muniz, one of the student organizers, said.

"The new college," he continued, "is still sanctioned by the Associated Students but this time we're trying to get more community involvement and less dependence on the College of Marin institution itself."

He explained, "The college represents a lot of courses which can't get into the regular college because of lack of space, funds or credentials on the part of teachers."

Catalogues are expected to be out Feb. 21. Tentatively, courses are expected to cost $5 and no more than $10 for all courses a student may take. The draft course is free. Teachers receive no pay.

There will be 15 to 20 courses, most to be held at night. No credits will be given, Robertson said, "We're more concerned that some kind of learning take place in the courses themselves. One of the main emphases is that the teachers aren't teachers as such but facilitators. They are to get the participants to function."

Robertson, campus minister for the Marin County Council of Churches, is advising Muniz.

A special attempt is being made to get high school students, said Robertson. "We would like to see people 16 and people 66 sharing experiences of what they have read. In a sense, we don't believe the generation gap exists."

The experimental college steering committee, of which Muniz and Robertson are members, conceives of itself as a course in how to run an experimental college, commented Muniz.

He also noted that the college is unstructured in that if someone wants to come in and organize a course during the semester, the course could begin at any time.

Tax Rate May Be Hiked For Fire Protection

The tax rate for the Upper Lucas Valley County Service Area (for fire protection) will jump from this year's 54 cents to 68 cents next year, if the recommendation of the Marinwood Fire Commission is approved by the Marinwood Com- representing Upper Lucas munity Services District.

Fire commissioners decided Monday night that the cost of fire protection for Upper Lucas Valley will be $24,400 for 1969-70 fiscal year, which would mean a tax rate of 63 cents. Another five cents on the tax rate would be needed to make up for this year's cost, which was about $1,800 more than the $19,318 which Upper Lucas Valley is paying.

Commissioner Ron Marinoff, representing Upper Lucas Valley, objected to the extra five cents, contending that the $19,318 was the contracted price and should not be changed. The commissioners decided to leave that decision to the services district board.

The over-all fire protection budget for Marinwood and Upper Lucas Valley this year is $72,000. The over-all budget for next fiscal year is still to be set, said Larry D. Newman, chairman.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

School Board Elections Could Redress Imbalance

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Filing will close Feb. 20 for school board elections throughout California which could result in redressing an imbalance in control of the public schools — but probably won't.

Most of the 3,000-odd men and women who will be elected as district school trustees April 15 are likely to conform pretty much to this description given a few years ago by Dr. H. Thomas James, dean of the Stanford University school of education.

"The role of school board member is one of the last remaining opportunities in the political world for the 'gentleman in public office.' . . . 'Gentlemen in public office' have a marked distaste for controversy and public uproar. . . Therefore, some of the most consequential educational issues of our times, because they have been the most violently controversial, have too often been sidestepped by boards of education and so have had to be resolved in the less squeamish but more realistic arenas of partisan politics."

ONE REASON that school boards side-step consequential issues, in the belief of many who have studied the subject, is that they do not realize the extent of their authority. They have been told over and over again that all "educational decisions" should be left to the professional educators — which usually means the school administrators. And they have come to believe it.

Probably relatively few of them agree with Francis Keppel, former U.S. commissioner of education, that "education is too important to be left to the educators alone."

SCHOOL BOARDS now are in excellent position to assert the considerable authority that remains to them — despite its steady diminution by statutes which have been lobbied into law by the professional educators' efficient and powerful organizations.

The recognition that teachers have some collective bargaining rights through their organizations has forced school boards to deal directly with teachers much more than formerly.

The greater local control over curriculum granted by the George Miller Jr. Act has given boards an opportunity to reassert long-lost authority — though few have taken advantage of it.

Steadily increasing public interest in the schools has offered trustees the chance to seize initiative as the elected representatives of the people —though few have done so.

AS JAMES D. Koerner observes in his new book, "Who Controls American Education?":

"In theory school boards hire administrators to carry out the basic policies of the board and look after the details of running the schools, but in practice more often than not the administrators establish the policies and the boards worry about the details."

This is born out by recent Gallup Poll findings that "in most communities, school board members say they are overwhelmed by problems of immediate concern"; curriculum innovative practices "are left largely to the judgment of the superintendent, principals, and other members of the administrative staff."

KOERNER suggests that this is because school board members and public stand in needless awe of the administrators' pretense of vast expert knowledge. He declares:

"Whether it is a question of educational aims or philosophy, of what subjects should be studied and for how long, of whether and how schools or teaching should be evaluated, of whether and how students should be divided by ability . . . or of any other substantive matter that can be named, the expert's knowledge is not good enough for the rest of us to leave the policy decisions to him, not nearly good enough."

School board members have the legal authority to make decisions in such matters. Many voters imagine that they are electing them to do so.

Experimental College Of Marin To Open Again Wednesday

The Experimental College of Marin, dormant for about two years, will open again next Wednesday with a course called "You and Your Draft Board — Win, Lose or Draw."

The course, given by Joel Shawn, Corte Madera attorney, will start at 7:30 p.m. at the Student Center.

Other courses being scheduled include: "The Sexual Being in Nature and Society," to be taught by Mrs. Hilda Fourman, Mill Valley housewife; "Marxism-Introduction," by Ken Howard of Mill Valley, a former Harvard professor; "Are Jails Necessary?" by Richard Sloane, Lagunitas, former San Quentin counselor; "Pigs and Pigism," by Henry Duval Gregory IV, San Anselmo, San Francisco Theological Seminary; "Religion as Revolution," by Charles G. Robertson Jr., San Anselmo, and "U.S. Imperialism in Latin America," by Alex Georgiadis, Berkeley, Dominican College instructor.

The college was formerly called the Experimental College of the Associated Students of the College of Marin, Jaime R. Muniz, one of the student organizers, said.

"The new college," he continued, "is still sanctioned by the Associated Students but this time we're trying to get more community involvement and less dependence on the College of Marin institution itself."

He explained, "The college represents a lot of courses which can't get into the regular college because of lack of space, funds or credentials on the part of teachers."

Catalogues are expected to be out Feb. 21. Tentatively, courses are expected to cost $5 and no more than $10 for all courses a student may take. The draft course is free. Teachers receive no pay.

There will be 15 to 20 courses, most to be held at night. No credits will be given, Robertson said, "We're more concerned that some kind of learning take place in the courses themselves. One of the main emphases is that the teachers aren't teachers as such but facilitators. They are to get the participants to function."

Robertson, campus minister for the Marin County Council of Churches, is advising Muniz.

A special attempt is being made to get high school students, said Robertson. "We would like to see people 16 and people 66 sharing experiences of what they have read. In a sense, we don't believe the generation gap exists."

The experimental college steering committee, of which Muniz and Robertson are members, conceives of itself as a course in how to run an experimental college, commented Muniz.

He also noted that the college is unstructured in that if someone wants to come in and organize a course during the semester, the course could begin at any time.

Dominican To Hear Switchboard Founder

Al Rinker, the man who founded Switchboard, will speak to students of Dominican College, Tuesday, 10:30 a.m. in the Guzman Lecture Hall.

Switchboard, first established in San Fracisco as a link between parents and runaways in the Haight-Ashbury district, now has 20 branch offices including one in San Rafael.

The cardinal is the state bird of Ohio.

Tax Rate May Be Hiked For Fire Protection

The tax rate for the Upper Lucas Valley County Service Area (for fire protection) will jump from this year's 54 cents to 68 cents next year, if the recommendation of the Marinwood Fire Commission is approved by the Marinwood Community Services District.

Fire commissioners decided Monday night that the cost of fire protection for Upper Lucas Valley will be $24,400 for 1969-70 fiscal year, which would mean a tax rate of 63 cents. Another five cents on the tax rate would be needed to make up for this year's cost, which was about $1,800 more than the $19,318 which Upper Lucas Valley is paying.

Commissioner Ron Marinoff, representing Upper Lucas Valley, objected to the extra five cents, contending that the $19,318 was the contracted price and should not be changed. The commissioners decided to leave that decision to the services district board.

The over-all fire protection budget for Marinwood and Upper Lucas Valley this year is $72,000. The over-all budget for next fiscal year is still to be set, said Larry D. Newman, chairman.

Council Grants Sign To Override Planners

Argument on signs between the Novato City Council and the Novato Planning Commission flared again last night at the city council meeting.

The council reversed the planning commission's denial and granted Walter Keickhefer a free standing sign with a reader board for the Pacheco Plaza Shopping Center on Ignacio Boulevard.

The sign had been allowed last July by the planning commission, but its decision was appealed by William Jonas, owner of the nearby Roger Wilco market. The commission subsequently denied the Keickhefer sign.

Keickhefer's appeal to the council passed by 4-0 vote with Councilman Douglas M. Merrill absent.

In another sign action, the council referred a request for a sign from Schuman Travel Center back to the planning commission. The commission had denied it because the sign listed campers, trailers and motor homes. The commission felt this was product advertising which is against the sign ordinance. The council took the position that product advertising had to refer to specific brand names.

The Novato City Council Also:

AIRPORT — Recommended to the state Public Utilities Commission that it deny an application from the airport limousine service in Sausalito for service from Novato to the San Francisco Airport.

DOWNTOWN — Appointed Planning Commissioners Lee C. Wise, George C. Quesada Eugene D. McGillicuddy and Dr. Daniel J. Aughney, to the downtown study committee, and authorizing the committee to name subcommittees to study various aspects of the downtown area.

IMPROVEMENTS — Approved an agreement with Gulf Oil Co. for a cash bond to cover cost of improvements on 342 feet of Olive Avenue between the Gulf Station on Highway 101 to an 80 foot lot which will be improved for a grocery store. This deposit will be used for the street improvements.

MOBILE HOMES — Passed an ordinance setting up standards for mobile home parks.

TRAFFIC ENFORCEMENT — Approved police enforcement of traffic laws on Ridge Road, Half Moon Road, Cypress Avenue and Romar Court, all private streets. The council also approved putting in a 60-foot bus stop on Highway 101 north of Lamont Avenue and a yield sign on DeLong Avenue on the east side of Reichert Avenue.

LIGHTING — Approved deleting four lots on Arbor Circle and all of the recent annexations on Wilson Avenue from the lighting district eliminating double taxation.

GRANT AVENUE — Approved $9,600 as a share in lengthening the northbound left turn lane on Highway 101 at Grant Avenue and improving the lighting signationazation.

BEAUTIFICATION — Denied a request from the beautification committee to send a representative to Washington D.C. to attend a nationwide beautification conference.

ANNEXATIONS — Annexed 890 acres on Highway 37 and 62 acres on Highway 101, and introduced an ordinance to annex four acres south of Center Road at Eucalyptus Avenue.

SIGNS — Introduced an amendment to the sign ordinance to allow signs in shopping centers and setting standards for in-window signs.

BUDGET — Approved use $1,500 in building funds to handle the legal costs of nuisance abatements.

TREES — Approved the tree list for park planting.

FEES — Approved a change in fees charged by the public works department. This lowers by one-half per cent the fees for encroachment permits and raises by one-half per cent the map and plan checking fees.

AUDIT — Requested City Mgr. Charles A. Brown to get more quotations from auditors on making the annual city audit.

LIBRARY — Heard a report and saw sketches of the proposed Novato branch of the Marin County Library.

TRIBUTE — Passed a resolution of tribute to Fire Chief George J. Cavallero, who died Feb. 2 en route to the Burdell Mansion fire at Rancho Olompali and set for action Feb. 25 a recommendation by the Novato Garden Club that the small park at Highway 101 and Grant Avenue be named in Cavallero's memory.

Legislative Action List Is Approved

Many proposals for a legislative program were approved last night by the Novato City Council.

These are to be forwarded to State Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The council had received a list of proposals from the city staff at its Jan. 28 meeting and last night made recommendations to the Legislature.

The council favored legislation to establish responsibility for drainage; lowering bond election requirements from 66⅔ per cent to 60 per cent permitting cities to absorb islands within their borders without an election; requiring school districts to come under local zoning ordinances; using federal funds for highway safety inside cities; prohibiting county governments from performing city functions without establishing service districts; defining the authority of adult school crossing guards; state adoption of federal gun control legislation; serving municipal warrants at all times, not only during daylight hours; keeping the law forbidding smoking on school ground, and providing expulsion from school for selling narcotics on public property.

Lady Bird Asks Stock Transfer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lady Bird Johnson has applied for the transfer of 313 shares of Texas Broadcast Corp. to herself from a trust set up when her husband was President.

The stock represents 52.8 per cent of the firm which controls four broadcasting stations in Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana and holds substantial interest in two others.

The Federal Communications Commission said it had no estimate of the value of the stock. Mrs. Johnson's two daughters own 15.45 per cent each of Texas Broadcasting.

Meeting Canceled

A meeting scheduled yesterday of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District board's joint finance and rules and policy committee to discuss a policy on sick leave credits for district employees was canceled for lack of a quorum, reported district secretary Helen Jack.

Freeway Signs To Be Changed For Businesses

The "Roadside Business" signs along California freeways will be changed this spring to identify what combination of gasoline, food or lodging is available, the state Department of Public Works announced today.

The new signs will be posted in rural areas, near freeway exits to bypassed communities or where several motels are grouped together, the department reported.

Signs are expected to be installed on major highways by late May.

Gasoline service stations, unless in a bypassed community, must be within a half-mile of the highway and open for business at least 16 hours a day, and a restaurant must serve breakfast, lunch and dinner to rate a sign.

Lodging facilities will be rated by the number of rooms with private baths and other amenities.

Marin City Session

The Marin City Council will meet at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Manzanita Center, Marin City. No agenda has been reported.

Reinecke Criticized For Reply To Census

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke was embroiled in controversy today over his strong criticism of an outgoing state assemblyman and for saying he gave incorrect answers to census-takers.

The former congressman, who took state office less than a month ago, appeared to back off slightly from his harsh words for Assemblyman John G. Veneman, R-Modesto.

He had said in San Francisco Monday that he felt Veneman showed "a high degree of disloyalty" to the state party in accepting a position as undersecretary of health, education and welfare.

"I don't think I used those exact words," he told Los Angeles newsmen. He said the phrase was a "bit of a misstatement" and that "it was not my intention" to use it while discussing the risk of the GOP losing control in the Assembly due to Veneman's departure and upcoming special elections.

Veneman will be chief aide to HEW Secretary Robert H. Finch whom Reinecke replaced.

But Democrats immediately leaped to Veneman's defense. Assemblyman George Zenovich, D - Fresno, caucus chairman, said he was "appalled" at the statement.

"The more I hear from our new lieutenant governor, the more he sounds like Ronald Reagan's own Spiro T. Agnew," Zenovich said. "Reinecke obviously puts party loyalty ahead of service to the nation."

Meanwhile, another Reinecke statement in San Francisco Monday came under attack from Joe Holsinger, Burlingame Northern California Democratic state chairman.

He issued a news release charging Reinecke had violated federal law by deliberately reporting erroneous figures to the U. S. Census Bureau.

He noted that Reinecke had told a San Francisco audience he declined to answer Census Bureau questions until he received a subpoena, then sent answers that "had no relationship to the facts."

"How can we expect students and other members of the society to take seriously the laws of our land when a former congressman and our lieutenant governor openly boasts that he has violated the law?" Holsinger said. "The issue, clearly, is law and order."

Unwanted Old Fairgrounds Might Become State Park

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The abandoned state fairgrounds adjoining a run-down Sacramento neighborhood is being considered for conversion into a unique state park, it was disclosed today.

State Parks and Recreation Director William Penn Mott Jr. reported inspecting the 150-acre site, abandoned in 1967 when the 114-year-old state fair was abolished and replaced by the new California Exposition at a location across Sacramento near the American River.

The state tried to sell the 150-acre fair site to private developers but no one bid. The land is worth roughly $2 million. Some prospective buyers complained about the nearby shabby neighborhood.

"We have a lot of people in congested metropolitan areas that cannot get to state parks," Mott said. "Maybe we have a responsibility of building state parks in our cities."

Purchase by Mott's department of the site also would help provide funds needed to complete the sagging Cal Expo —a project a southern California lawmaker proposed selling and returning the proceeds to the state general fund.

Assemblyman Kenneth Cory, D-Garden Grove, criticized the deficit - plagued Expo as a "second-rate Disneyland" and an "obvious failure." He introduced a bill proposing to sell the $36 million attraction which lost $1.5 million last summer and returning the assets to the general fund.

In a separate development, general services director Andrew R. Lolli, Reagan's man in charge of assuring success of Cal Expo on a pay-as-you-go basis, said he favored returning as "soon as possible" to the private enterprise concept of operating Expo.

"The state's got no business in the carnival business," he said.

Tiburon's Sign Plan Due Hearing

The Tiburon Planning Commission last night reviewed the city's proposed sign ordinance and set a public hearing for 8 p.m. March 3.

The commission also agreed to send a letter to the city council opposing an economic study of the downtown plan. The commission felt enough studies have been made already, Joseph C. Marshall, chairman, said.

College Fund Survives Test

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An Assembly-passed $2 million emergency measure to meet unexpected overenrollment at state colleges tis spring survived two attempted cutbacks yesterday was finally approved by the Senate Education Committee.

The bill, which now goes before the Senate Finance Committee, would give at least 3,875 qualified students, primarily junior college transfers, a chance to enter state colleges this spring.

Sen. Walter W. Stiern, D-Bakersfield sought to cut the funds to $1.3 million but failed by one vote. Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, thn tried to educe the figure to $575,000—but that proposal was soundly defeated in a voice vote.

Stiern said the colleges wouldn't need more than $1.3 million to take care of the extra enrollment. But Assemblyman Pete Wilson, R-San Diego, author of the bill, noted that spring registration was already over on many campuses and said efforts to change the $2 million figure "could imperil the bill and may delay it unnecessarily."

Manwhile, Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles, introduced a bill which he said "would prevent a repetition of the present deplorable situation."

The bill set up a $3 million fund in the state Finance Department in case state colleges face similar problems in the future.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Rheumatic Fever Now Rare; Treatment Ideas Changed

VAN DELLEN

The incidence of rheumatic fever (RF) is half what it was in 1943. Furthermore, the death rate has fallen from 16.8 per 100,000 in 1910 to 0.4 in 1960. In addition, the condition is less serious than before.

We are happy about this because rheumatic fever has been a common cause of heart disease among young people.

Group A streptococci trigger the infection in susceptible individuals. These microbes have not changed over the years and consequently can take no credit for lessening the incidence of RF.

IMPROVED LIVING conditions and diet may have contributed because these fatcors help to reduce the number of strep infections. The antibiotics also have been helpful in preventing recurrences. Everyone who has had a bona fide attack should take a prophylactic such as penicillin.

Treatment also has changed. In the past, it was customary to keep a child in bed when there was evidence of heart involvement. Resting mainly slowed the rate of the heart.

Theoretically this is sound, but enforced bedrest is another story. The child fidgets and the minute the nurse or mother leaves the room, he jumps up and down or scampers about.

There is less wear and tear on the heart by letting the child go to the bathroom and enjoy a little activity.

PROLONGED BED REST has many disadvantages, including severe muscle wasting and weakness, stiff joints, fatigue, and lethargy. When the child finally is allowed up, joint and muscle pain ensue along with an increase in pulse rate. These manifestations were frequently mistaken for a flare-up of acute RF and the tyke was sent back to bed.

Aspirin and the steroids, such as cortison, also are given to lessen the rheumatic activity. In most instances, the salicylate is just as effective as the steroids. The latter is said to minimize heart damage, but this has been questioned. Serious forms of the disease respond to the steroids.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

SALES TALK

A reader writes: A salesman has been pestering me to throw away my aluminum utensils and buy his stainless steel pots. He says it is dangerous to eat foods cooked in aluminum. But I have used these pots for 21 years and my family never has had any stomach trouble. What would you advise?

REPLY

Pitch out this pitchman who is using scare tactics to sell his wares. That aluminum myth was exploded years ago.

BURNT HAMBURGER

Mrs. T. N. writes: Both my daughter and I like hamburger burned to charcoal. Is this a symptom of some hidden disease?

REPLY

No, not even a half-baked disease. Tastes vary considerably. Some prefer their meat bleeding; others, such as you and your daughter, like the charcoal flavor.

PREGNANCY AND WALKING

A reader writes: If a woman walks a lot during pregnancy, does she have an easier labor?

REPLY

No, but exercise improves muscular tone and circulation, which, in turn, improves the general condition of the mother-to-be.

A BAD COMBINATION

A reader writes: Why is it dangerous to combine alcohol and certain medicines?

REPLY

Because strange reactions may occur when one drug intensifies the bad effects of the other.

Today's Health Hint —

Committee Lauds Random Vehicle Safety Checkups

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Governor's Committee on Traffic Safety says the California Highway Patrol's random motor vehicle inspection program has caused a marked reduction in vehicle equipment violations.

The Committee reported to Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday that the current inspection program is apparently working and should be replaced by a mandatory periodic vehicle inspection.

The committee's report—the result of a two-year study by six subcommittee task groups appointed by Reagan in 1967 — said the California program is equally effective and in some instances more effective than the mandatory periodic inspections required in most other states.

Gordon C. Luce, secretary of business and transportation, told Reagan that the random inspection of the more than 9 million passenger vehicles in California is reaching about 1.5 million vehicles a year. Another 1.25 million are inspected as vehicles are stopped for moving violations.

Ross To Discuss Stop Sign Needs

The Ross Town Council will discuss tomorrow at 8 p.m. the placing of stop signs at the intersection of Chestnut Avenue and Bridge Road and at Willow and Madrona avenues.

The council, which will meet in the town hall, will also discuss the drainage problem at Woodside Way and the city's recent flooding problems.

Council Grants Sign To Override Planners

Argument on signs between the Novato City Council and the Novato Planning Commission flared again last night at the city council meeting.

The council reversed the planning commission's denial and granted Walter Keickhefer a free standing sign with a reader board for the Pacheco Plaza Shopping Center on Ignacio Boulevard.

The sign had been allowed last July by the planning commission, but its decision was appealed by William Jonas, owner of the nearby Roger Wilco market. The commission subsequently denied the Keickhefer sign.

Keickhefer's appeal to the council passed by 4-0 vote with Councilman Douglas M. Merrill absent.

In another sign action, the council referred a request for a sign from Schuman Travel Center back to the planning commission. The commission had denied it because the sign listed campers, trailers and motor homes. The commission felt this was product advertising which is against the sign ordinance. The council took the position that product advertising had to refer to specific brand names.

The Novato City Council Also:

AIRPORT — Recommended to the state Public Utilities Commission that it deny an application from the airport limousine service in Sausalito for service from Novato to the San Francisco Airport.

DOWNTOWN — Appointed Planning Commissioners Lee C. Wise, George C. Quesada Eugene D. McGillicuddy and Dr. Daniel J. Aughney, to the downtown study committee, and authorizing the committee to name subcommittees to study various aspects of the downtown area.

IMPROVEMENTS — Approved an agreement with Gulf Oil Co. for a cash bond to cover cost of improvements on 342 feet of Olive Avenue between the Gulf Station on Highway 101 to an 80 foot lot which will be improved for a grocery store. This deposit will be used for the street improvements.

MOBILE HOMES — Passed an ordinance setting up standards for mobile home parks.

TRAFFIC ENFORCEMENT — Approved police enforcement of traffic laws on Ridge Road, Half Moon Road, Cypress Avenue and Romar Court, all private streets. The council also approved putting in a 60-foot bus stop on Highway 101 north of Lamont Avenue and a yield sign on DeLong Avenue on the east side of Reichert Avenue.

LIGHTING — Approved deleting four lots on Arbor Circle and all of the recent annexations on Wilson Avenue from the lighting district eliminating double taxation.

GRANT AVENUE — Approved $9.600 as a share in lengthening the northbound left turn lane on Highway 101 at Grant Avenue and improving the lighting signationazation.

BEAUTIFICATION — Denied a request from the beautification committee to send a representative to Washington D.C. to attend a nationwide beautification conference.

ANNEXATIONS — Annexed 890 acres on Highway 37 and 62 acres on Highway 101, and introduced an ordinance to annex four acres south of Center Road at Eucalyptus Avenue.

BUDGET — Approved use $1.500 in building funds to handle the legal costs of nuisance abatements.

AUDIT — Requested City Mgr. Charles A. Brown to get more quotations from auditors on making the annual city audit.

LIBRARY — Heard a report and saw sketches of the proposed Novato branch of the Marin County Library.

TRIBUTE — Passed a resolution of tribute to Fire Chief George J. Cavallero, who died Feb. 2 en route to the Burdell Mansion fire at Rancho Olompali and set for action Feb. 25 a recommendation by the Novato Garden Club that the small park at Highway 101 and Grant Avenue be named in Cavallero's memory.

Legislative Action List Is Approved

Many proposals for a legislative program were approved last night by the Novato City Council.

These are to be forwarded to State Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The council had received a list of proposals from the city staff at its Jan. 28 meeting and last night made recommendations to the Legislature.

The council favored legislation to establish responsibility for drainage; lowering bond election requirements from 66⅔ per cent to 60 per cent permitting cities to absorb islands within their borders without an election; requiring school districts to come under local zoning ordinances; using federal funds for highway safety inside cities; prohibiting county governments from performing city functions without establishing service districts; defining the authority of adult school crossing guards; state adoption of federal gun control legislation; serving municipal warrants at all times, not only during daylight hours; keeping the law forbidding smoking on school ground, and providing expulsion from school for selling narcotics on public property.

Lady Bird Asks Stock Transfer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lady Bird Johnson has applied for the transfer of 313 shares of Texas Broadcast Corp. to herself from a trust set up when her husband was President.

The stock represents 52.8 per cent of the firm which controls four broadcasting stations in Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana and holds substantial interest in two others.

The Federal Communications Commission said it had no estimate of the value of the stock. Mrs. Johnson's two daughters own 15.45 per cent each of Texas Broadcasting.

Meeting Canceled

A meeting scheduled yesterday of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District board's joint finance and rules and policy committee to discuss a policy on sick leave credits for district employees was canceled for lack of a quorum, reported district secretary Helen Jack.

Freeway Signs To Be Changed For Businesses

The "Roadside Business" signs along California freeways will be changed this spring to identify what combination of gasoline, food or lodging is available, the state Department of Public Works announced today.

The new signs will be posted in rural areas, near freeway exits to bypassed communities or where several motels are grouped together, the department reported.

Signs are expected to be installed on major highways by late May.

Gasoline service stations, unless in a bypassed community, must be within a half-mile of the highway and open for business at least 16 hours a day, and a restaurant must serve breakfast, lunch and dinner to rate a sign.

Lodging facilities will be rated by the number of rooms with private baths and other amenities.

Marin City Session

The Marin City Council will meet at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Manzanita Center, Marin City. No agenda has been reported.

Reinecke Criticized For Reply To Census

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke was embroiled in controversy today over his strong criticism of an outgoing state assemblyman and for saying he gave incorrect answers to census-takers.

The former congressman, who took state office less than a month ago, appeared to back off slightly from his harsh words for Assemblyman John G. Veneman, R-Modesto.

He had said in San Francisco Monday that he felt Veneman showed "a high degree of disloyalty" to the state party in accepting a position as undersecretary of health, education and welfare.

"I don't think I used those exact words," he told Los Angeles newsmen. He said the phrase was a "bit of a misstatement" and that "it was not my intention" to use it while discussing the risk of the GOP losing control in the Assembly due to Veneman's departure and upcoming special elections.

Veneman will be chief aide to HEW Secretary Robert H. Finch whom Reinecke replaced.

But Democrats immediately leaped to Veneman's defense. Assemblyman George Zenovich, D - Fresno, caucus chairman, said he was "appalled" at the statement.

"The more I hear from our new lieutenant governor, the more he sounds like Ronald Reagan's own Spiro T. Agnew," Zenovich said. "Reinecke obviously puts party loyalty ahead of service to the nation."

Meanwhile, another Reinecke statement in San Francisco Monday came under attack from Joe Holsinger, Burlingame Northern California Democratic state chairman.

He issued a news release charging Reinecke had violated federal law by deliberately reporting erroneous figures to the U. S. Census Bureau.

He noted that Reinecke had told a San Francisco audience he declined to answer Census Bureau questions until he received a subpoena, then sent answers that "had no relationship to the facts."

"How can we expect students and other members of the society to take seriously the laws of our land when a former congressman and our lieutenant governor openly boasts that he has violated the law?" Holsinger said. "The issue, clearly, is law and order."

Unwanted Old Fairgrounds Might Become State Park

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The abandoned state fairgrounds adjoining a run-down Sacramento neighborhood is being considered for conversion into a unique state park, it was disclosed today.

State Parks and Recreation Director William Penn Mott Jr. reported inspecting the 150-acre site, abandoned in 1967 when the 114-year-old state fair was abolished and replaced by the new California Exposition at a location across Sacramento near the American River.

The state tried to sell the 150-acre fair site to private developers but no one bid. The land is worth roughly $2 million. Some prospective buyers complained about the nearby shabby neighborhood.

"We have a lot of people in congested metropolitan areas that cannot get to state parks," Mott said. "Maybe we have a responsibility of building state parks in our cities."

Purchase by Mott's department of the site also would help provide funds needed to complete the sagging Cal Expo —a project a southern California lawmaker proposed selling and returning the proceeds to the state general fund.

Assemblyman Kenneth Cory, D-Garden Grove, criticized the deficit - plagued Expo as a "second-rate Disneyland" and an "obvious failure." He introduced a bill proposing to sell the $36 million attraction which lost $1.5 million last summer and returning the assets to the general fund.

In a separate development, general services director Andrew R. Lolli, Reagan's man in charge of assuring success of Cal Expo on a pay-as-you-go basis, said he favored returning as "soon as possible" to the private enterprise concept of operating Expo.

"The state's got no business in the carnival business," he said.

College Fund Survives Test

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An Assembly-passed $2 million emergency measure to meet unexpected overenrollment at state colleges tis spring survived two attempted cutbacks yesterday was finally approved by the Senate Education Committee.

The bill, which now goes before the Senate Finance Committee, would give at least 3,875 qualified students, primarily junior college transfers, a chance to enter state colleges this spring.

Sen. Walter W. Stiern, D-Bakersfield sought to cut the funds to $1.3 million but failed by one vote. Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, thn tried to educe the figure to $575,000—but that proposal was soundly defeated in a voice vote.

Stiern said the colleges wouldn't need more than $1.3 million to take care of the extra enrollment. But Assemblyman Pete Wilson, R-San Diego, author of the bill, noted that spring registration was already over on many campuses and said efforts to change the $2 million figure "could imperil the bill and may delay it unnecessarily."

Manwhile, Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles, introduced a bill which he said "would prevent a repetition of the present deplorable situation."

The bill set up a $3 million fund in the state Finance Department in case state colleges face similar problems in the future.

Tiburon's Sign Plan Due Hearing

The Tiburon Planning Commission last night reviewed the city's proposed sign ordinance and set a public hearing for 8 p.m. March 3.

The commission also agreed to send a letter to the city council opposing an economic study of the downtown plan. The commission felt enough studies have been made already, Joseph C. Marshall, chairman, said.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Rheumatic Fever Now Rare; Treatment Ideas Changed

VAN DELLEN

The incidence of rheumatic fever (RF) is half what it was in 1943. Furthermore, the death rate has fallen from 16.8 per 100,000 in 1910 to 0.4 in 1960. In addition, the condition is less serious than before.

We are happy about this because rheumatic fever has been a common cause of heart disease among young people.

Group A streptococci trigger the infection in susceptible individuals. These microbes have not changed over the years and consequently can take no credit for lessening the incidence of RF.

IMPROVED LIVING conditions and diet may have contributed because these fatcors help to reduce the number of strep infections. The antibiotics also have been helpful in preventing recurrences. Everyone who has had a bona fide attack should take a prophylactic such as penicillin.

Treatment also has changed. In the past, it was customary to keep a child in bed when there was evidence of heart involvement. Resting mainly slowed the rate of the heart.

Theoretically this is sound, but enforced bedrest is another story. The child fidgets and the minute the nurse or mother leaves the room, he jumps up and down or scampers about.

There is less wear and tear on the heart by letting the child go to the bathroom and enjoy a little activity.

PROLONGED BED REST has many disadvantages, including severe muscle wasting and weakness, stiff joints, fatigue, and lethargy. When the child finally is allowed up, joint and muscle pain ensue along with an increase in pulse rate. These manifestations were frequently mistaken for a flare-up of acute RF and the tyke was sent back to bed.

Aspirin and the steroids, such as cortison, also are given to lessen the rheumatic activity. In most instances, the salicylate is just as effective as the steroids. The latter is said to minimize heart damage, but this has been questioned. Serious forms of the disease respond to the steroids.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

SALES TALK

A reader writes: A salesman has been pestering me to throw away my aluminum utensils and buy his stainless steel pots. He says it is dangerous to eat foods cooked in aluminum. But I have used these pots for 21 years and my family never has had any stomach trouble. What would you advise?

REPLY

Pitch out this pitchman who is using scare tactics to sell his wares. That aluminum myth was exploded years ago.

BURNT HAMBURGER

Mrs. T. N. writes: Both my daughter and I like hamburger burned to charcoal. Is this a symptom of some hidden disease?

REPLY

No, not even a half-baked disease. Tastes vary considerably. Some prefer their meat bleeding; others, such as you and your daughter, like the charcoal flavor.

PREGNANCY AND WALKING

A reader writes: If a woman walks a lot during pregnancy, does she have an easier labor?

REPLY

No, but exercise improves muscular tone and circulation, which, in turn, improves the general condition of the mother-to-be.

A BAD COMBINATION

A reader writes: Why is it dangerous to combine alcohol and certain medicines?

REPLY

Because strange reactions may occur when one drug intensifies the bad effects of the other.

Today's Health Hint —

Shoes that do not fit ruin the feet and the disposition, too.

Committee Lauds Random Vehicle Safety Checkups

SACRAMENTO TAP) — The Governor's Committee on Traffic Safety says the California Highway Patrol's random motor vehicle inspection program has caused a marked reduction in vehicle equipment violations.

The Committee reported to Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday that the current inspection program is apparently working and should be replaced by a mandatory periodic vehicle inspection.

The committee's report—the result of a two-year study by six subcommittee task groups appointed by Reagan in 1967 — said the California program is equally effective and in some instances more effective than the mandatory periodic inspections required in most other states.

Gordon C. Luce, secretary of business and transportation, told Reagan that the random inspection of the more than 9 million passenger vehicles in California is reaching about 1.5 million vehicles a year. Another 1.25 million are inspected as vehicles are stopped for moving violations.

Ross To Discuss Stop Sign Needs

The Ross Town Council will discuss tomorrow at 8 p.m. the placing of stop signs at the intersection of Chestnut Avenue and Bridge Road and at Willow and Madrona avenues.

The council, which will meet in the town hall, will also discuss the drainage problem at Woodside Way and the city's recent flooding problems.

Planners Say Sign Guides Necessary

After a brief but lively bout of verbal jousting between City Planner Herbert G. Hotchner and Commissioner Jorgen V. Lunding, the San Rafael Planning Commission last night decided the city needs an overall plan for signs.

The commission set next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. as the date for a discussion session to hammer out a master plan for signs in the city.

The flurry began when several commissioners chided the planner for not giving enough direction in his staff report on the matter of an illuminated projecting sign for a sewing center at 912 C Street.

As Commissioner Jorgen V. Lunding fired questions at the planner, Hotchner, usually very calm, became somewhat flustered and fired back: "Nothing is bothering me — what is bothering you?"

Lunding answered: "We get into this type of thing every time a sign matter comes up. Let's sit down and get some guidelines."

Commissioner John A. Adams joined in, saying the sign program "should come from the staff."

Hotchner told the commission: "I am trying as a professional person to avoid putting my thoughts on you." He added that it was up to the commission to decide "what is good or not good" about a sign.

Lunding urged the planning commission to get "down to the nitty-gritty" of the matter and meet to "set broad outlines so we can have a starting point."

The sign for the sewing center, owned by Leonard Fisher, won the commission's approval without further debate.

Earlier, the Switchboard of Marin proposed at 1017 D Street, won approval. The center will offer referrals help to persons needing medical aid, a lawyer, ambulance or housing. Open 24 hours daily, the center's telephone operators also will counsel persons contemplating suicide.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

SUBDIVISION SIGN — Granted use permit for renewal of a directional sign for Twelveoak Hill Unit 1, at Lucas Valley Road and Las Gallinas Avenue.

RETAIL CENTER — Approved final plan of a retail commercial store at 825 E Street, owned by A. F. Schmitz.

ADDITION — Approved a proposed addition of 500 square feet to Burton I. Capel's surplus store at 49 Simms Street.

OFFICE — Approved an office and contractor's yard for Marin County Roofing Co., 753 Second Street, owned by J. B. Rice Co.

BOAT PAVILION — Approved a revised plan for the Boat Sales Pavilion. The new location is at 175 Loch Lomond Drive, at Harbor Way.

ANIMAL HOSPITAL SIGN— Allowed a freestanding nonilluminated wood sign for the Northgate Animal Hospital, 4140 Redwood Highway.

ADVERTISING SIGN — Approved a freestanding wood sign advertising homesites for Galli Construction Co. at Main and Knight drives.

Kramer Files

Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. filed yesterday to retain his seat on the San Rafael Board of Education. A management consultant, Kramer is the first to file for one of two vacancies to be filled in the April 15 election.

Planners Say Sign Guides Necessary

After a brief but lively bout of verbal jousting between City Planner Herbert G. Hotchner and Commissioner Jorgen V. Lunding, the San Rafael Planning Commission last night decided the city needs an overall plan for signs.

The commission set next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. as the date for a discussion session to hammer out a master plan for signs in the city.

The flurry began when several commissioners chided the planner for not giving enough direction in his staff report on the matter of an illuminated projecting sign for a sewing center at 912 C Street.

As Commissioner Jorgen V. Lunding fired questions at the planner, Hotchner, usually very calm, became somewhat flustered and fired back: "Nothing is bothering me — what is bothering you?"

Lunding answered: "We get into this type of thing every time a sign matter comes up. Let's sit down and get some guidelines."

Commissioner John A. Adams joined in, saying the sign program "should come from the staff."

Hotchner told the commission: "I am trying as a professional person to avoid putting my thoughts on you." He added that it was up to the commission to decide "what is good or not good" about a sign.

Lunding urged the planning commission to get "down to the nitty-gritty" of the matter and meet to "set broad outlines so we can have a starting point."

The sign for the sewing center, owned by Leonard Fisher, won the commission's approval without further debate.

Earlier, the Switchboard of Marin proposed at 1017 D Street, won approval. The center will offer referrals help to persons needing medical aid, a lawyer, ambulance or housing. Open 24 hours daily, the center's telephone operators also will counsel persons contemplating suicide.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

SUBDIVISION SIGN — Granted use permit for renewal of a directional sign for Twelveoak Hill Unit 1, at Lucas Valley Road and Las Gallinas Avenue.

RETAIL CENTER — Approved final plan of a retail commercial store at 825 E Street, owned by A. F. Schmitz.

ADDITION — Approved a proposed addition of 500 square feet to Burton I. Capel's surplus store at 49 Simms Street.

OFFICE — Approved an office and contractor's yard for Marin County Roofing Co., 753 Second Street, owned by J. B. Rice Co.

BOAT PAVILION — Approved a revised plan for the Boat Sales Pavilion. The new location is at 175 Loch Lomond Drive, at Harbor Way.

ANIMAL HOSPITAL SIGN— Allowed a freestanding nonilluminated wood sign for the Northgate Animal Hospital, 4140 Redwood Highway.

ADVERTISING SIGN — Approved a freestanding wood sign advertising homesites for Galli Construction Co. at Main and Knight drives.

Kramer Files

Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. filed yesterday to retain his seat on the San Rafael Board of Education. A management consultant, Kramer is the first to file for one of two vacancies to be filled in the April 15 election.

San Marin Cagers Pull Stunner In New Gym

By GARY TISCHLER

A very hungry basketball team from San Marin High School stole the show from a $516,060 new, beautiful building in Novato last night.

The Mustangs, losers of eight straight Marin County Athletic League contests, stunned Marin Catholic High 69-64 to put a gaudy, wild twist into inauguration night for their new gymnasium.

It was a victory that some people had said wouldn't come until at least 1970.

Here's how the inauguration went:

Young Mike Kassenbrock, a junior varsity Mustang, was actually the first player to whip up the new nets, as he put through a jump shot in the preliminary.

But the varsity contest made things official. Here's a record of firsts and who did what:

Jim Thompson of San Marin took the first shot in the new gym, but it was Tim Hanrahan of Marin Catholic who sank the first fielder, while Roger Offenbach, also of the Wildcats, committed the first foul. San Marin's super-star Gary Howard topped that feat later by becoming the first player to get nailed with a technical foul when he protested an official's call.

Thompson made the first free throw of the game and Howard made the first San Marin basket.

Thompson's free-throw put the Mustangs ahead, 3-2, and they never trailed again.

Marin Catholic started with its second team, the same bunch who helped carry a 54-53 upset win over Tamalpais last Friday. They got mauled.

With Howard scoring repeatedly on his jump shots, and hitting enough free throws, with Thompson breaking way for layups and bespectacled Phil Adams driving underneath, the Mustangs led, 14-9, after a quarter.

That was close, but not unusual. The 25-point bombing by the Mustangs in the second quarter was the stunner and it left the dazed Wildcats behind 39-23 at the half. They never recovered, despite the insertion of ace Mike Murray.

Murray got the Wildcats going, but too late. Trailing by 56-39 going into the final period, they cut the San Marin lead, to 67-64 with less than 30 seconds left.

But Howard, who scored 27 points for the evening, calmly sank two free throws with five

Giants Boosters Club Turning Into Real Giant

BASEBALL BUGS — It started a year ago as more of a lark than anything else but, like the proverbial snowball and prairie fire — look out!

I refer to the Northern California Boosters Club for the San Francisco Giants which was organized here in Marin County a year ago by a young sports-minded bachelor named Allan Barrett Murray.

When Murray suggested an organized tour to Arizona to watch a baseball team in training last March many people questioned his sanity. Watching spring training, some argued, was comparable in excitement to watching grass grow. "Worse than than," Murray smiled, "it's like watching paint dry."

The paint, in this case, turned out to be a Rembrandt because Murray induced more than 100 fans to join his tour. The dyed-in-the-wool baseball fan will scale the Matterhorn to watch a Willie Mays blow his nose, so the Arizona trip was easy to promote and proved a fantastic success.

'The Giants were simply great to us," said Murray, "and we had such a ball that people asked for more trips."

Then Off To Houston

Later in the year Murray shepherded a couple of hundred fans to a series in Houston where they marveled at the Astrodome and other side trips that included a special tour of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

'More, more!" the growing Boosters Club cried.

"Well, it has snowballed on me," said the 35-year-old Murray, who is an insurance agent when he finds the time. "Would you believe that today we have more than 900 members in our Boosters Club? I've been working on it 16 yours a day, but it's great because I love baseball, enjoy travel and associating with people."

That the seed planted a year ago has germinated into immense proportions is exemplified by Murray's 1969 schedule, to wit: Three (3) tours to spring training in Arizona, with 100 persons per tour; 125 already signed up for a trip to the Giants' opening series in Atlanta; about 200 registered for an exotic junket to Montreal and New York in late May; and about 300 signed up for another safari into darkest Houston on Sept. .4

Two Hot Stove Banquets

To keep his Boosters baseball-minded during the dull winter months, Murray has staged two banquets, both of which were oversubscribed. "We had to eat in two shifts — sort of doubleheaders," he quipped.

The Boosters Club's membership roll, which includes about 100 Marin residents, ranges from 6-year-old Andrew Smith of Greenbrae to 96-year-old Max Carrington of Santa Rosa.

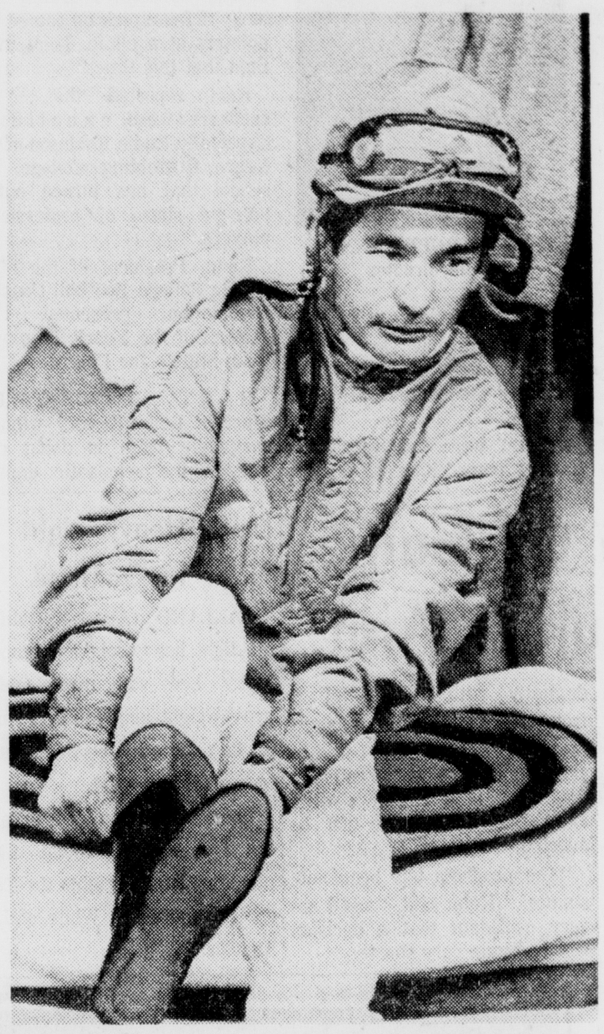

"We have men and women of all ages, all walks of life — ranging from a Mission District bartender to former U. S. Ambassador to Italy, Harold Zellerbach," Murray said. "We even have a member named O'Shea who is a mortician on Jersalem Street in the Bronx, New York. He's coming to spring training with us."

To what does he attribute the success of his club? Replied Murray, a former Tamalpais High School, College of Marin and University of Oregon basketball star: "Well, people are sick and tired of reading about all the violence in the world today. They want to get out to enjoy a good clean sport, meet new friends, let their hair down and relax. That's our selling point.

And The Price Is Right

"Besides, we've come up with an economical package that a lot of people can afford. For example, round trip, first class air transportation between San Francisco and Atlanta alone will cost you $323.40. We offer our members the air transportation, accommodations in the best hotel, box seats to three games in the season-opening series, a cocktail party and coffee klatch with Giants players and executives, all baggage handling and some sightseeing for $275."

Methinks Murray has injected some oomph back into the struggling national pastime. Said Russ Hodges, voice of the Giants: "He (Murray) has done a fantastic job generating enthusiasm among his Boosters; it's just what baseball needs and other big league clubs should take notice."

BACK IN THE SADDLE — Jockey Bill Shoemaker puts his riding boots back on in dressing room at Santa Anita after a year's absence due to a fractured thigh. Shoemaker didn't miss a step as he rode three winners in three tries. (UPI Telephoto)

Shoemaker Makes Great Comeback

ARCADIA (AP) — Jockey Bill Shoemaker was quite correct when he said, "I guess I couldn't have written a script any better than the way it turned out."

The once-silent Shoe could not have written it any better and the way it turned out was that after an absence of almost 13 months from the racetrack to let a broken leg mend, Shoemaker accepted three mounts at Santa Anita track and won all three races. Each was the second choice of the betting public.

Shoemaker has long since established himself as one of the great riders in turf history. But for high drama, for the almost incredible, this performance must rate high.

He started the cloudy afternoon with a 2 length victory in the sixth race on Princess Endeavour. It was his first start since the spill that sidelined him at Santa Anita Jan. 23, 1968.

"Sure," the Shoe admitted, "I was a little on edge going into the gate, but that's natural, I think."

Came the eighth, the feature race. It was Shoemaker and Racing Room by 1¼ lengths. And for an added touch Racing Room equaled the track record of 1:15 flat for 6½ furlongs set in 1965 by Wil Rad—ridden by Bill Shoemaker.

Two straight in the comeback. Few thought he could make it a triple. But it was Jay's Double, Shoemaker up, by three-quarters of a length in the ninth.

Princess Endeavour paid $7.80, Racing Room $5 and Jay's Double $8.20.

After the sixth race. the winner's circle was crowded with news cameramen, all on hand hoping that something good would happen.

Also, there were President Paul Strub of Santa Anita and a happy Mary Elizabeth Toppet, who owns both Endeavour and Racing Room.

Shoemaker was cheered and, in typical track fashion, booed.

"The leg felt fine, no problems at all," said Shoemaker. "I felt a little wobbly but it's just a matter of getting fit. My timing was off a little bit but that will come, too."

Maybe the timing was off but Shoemaker won the first race after dropping his filly off the pace. He won the eighth race after trailing dead last. And he won the ninth race wire to wire.

He has now ridden 5,781 winners, second only to retired Johnny Longden's 6,032. But ride number 23,255 on Endeavour has a place in Shoemaker's memory.

Warriors Top Hawks, Continue Road Streak

ATLANTA (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors can't make anybody's fans happy these days.

They keep losing in front of their own home fans and winning in front of everybody else's.

They continued their fine road play last night by nipping archrival Atlanta 92-87. San Francisco led by 13 points after three quarters, blew the lead, and then recouped to win going away.

Paul Silas and Don Ohl had 22 and 20 for the losers.

Redwood Extends Streak

Novato, San Rafael Also Win

While the earth shook around San Marin High School in Novato, things were more or less sane in the rest of the Marin County Athletic League basketball race yesterday.

Redwood continued unruffled and awesome in its search for the league title, disposing of Tamalpais, 65-50, in Mill Valley; Novato panted hot on the Giants' trail with a come-from-behind win over Terra Linda, 74-65, at Novato, and San Rafael whacked Drake, 68-53, to stay two games back, at San Rafael. The big upset was San Marin's 69-64 victory over Marin Catholic.

FEATURES

The unusual features in the games were three-fold: Redwood's help from untapped sources, a prep season-high performance by Novato's Ed Herrnberger, and all but the final fadeout of Terra Linda.

Redwood got a combined total of 15 points out of the usually potent trio of Jerry Piro, John Boro and 6 foot 6 sophomore Bill Challender, but still won easily, leading 28-15 at the half and by 55-35 midway in the third quarter.

The reasons were 6 foot 6 transfer Pete Webb, steady senior Jim Peters and sub Art Carewe as well as a generally hot (51 per cent) night from the field and a good defensive job.

7 OF 11

Webb scored 15 points, hit on 7 of 11 fielders and grabbed 15 rebounds. Peters scored 11 points, got ten rebounds and held Tamalpais regular Don Mackin to a single free throw. Carewe came off the bench to score 10 points and hit on five out of seven field goal attempts.

Piro was switched to a guard position when regular Skip Corsini couldn't play because of a sprained ankle.

Ken Gommeringer topped Tamalpais with 14 points. Redwood has now won eight

End In Sight For Baseball Wrangling

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball owners and players are moving toward a settlement of the pension dispute, according to John Gaherin, the owners' representative in the negotiations.

After meeting for about an hour yesterday with Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, Gaherin said:

"It was a continuation of our discussions. The last few meetings we've had have produced some real progress.

"We're working as quickly as possible toward a solution. We could have an agreement tomorrow; we could have one next week. We're both working hard."

The players, insistent that television revenue be included in the new pension plan, have voted to boycott spring training camps until an agreement is reached. They contend they've always shared in the television proceeds.

The owners have said there should be no relation between the revenue and their pension contribution.

The first spring training camps are due to open Friday, but Gaherin said he wasn't trying for a settlement by any particular day.

"That has not entered our minds," he said.

Miller was not available for comment.

Bowie Kuhn, baseball's newly elected commissioner, told a Boston baseball writer's luncheon that he is sure the dispute will be settled before the start of spring training.

Kuhn said he is "even more confident than I was a week ago" that the threatened player strike would not develop.

Back From Snow, Seals, Rangers Vie In Oakland

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Seals and the New York Rangers both escaped the snowbound East Coast and play a National Hockey League game in the arena tonight at 8 o'clock.

It is the last meeting of the year between the two clubs and the surging Seals will try to erase the jinx that has made them unable to beat the Rangers since entering the NHL two years ago.

The Rangers' plane out of New York was canceled yesterday afternoon but they were able to make connections on another flight. The Seals were stuck an extra day in Boston before finally getting back home.

The Seals, 20-27-8, are second in the West Division, four points ahead of Los Angeles. New York is third in the East with a 29-20-5 mark.

Bratkowski To Coach For Packers

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Zeke Bratkowski, the Green Bay Packers' backup quarterback, was signed today as an assistant coach of the National Football League club.

Head coach Phil Bengtson, who made the announcement, did not say whether Bratkowski would continue as a player as well as a coach.

The 37-year-old veteran reportedly has been considering retiring as a player. He saw considerable action during the 1968 season because Bart Starr was frequently sidelined by injuries.

Bratkowski is a former Georgia star and a 13-year veteran in pro ball.

Redwood 'B' Quint Stays Undefeated

Redwood High's Class B basketball team remained undefeated in Marin County Athletic League play yesterday after downing Tamalpais, 46-25, at Mill Valley.

The Giants are now 9-0 in league play and 6-1 on the season.

St. Vincent's Loses

St. Vincent's High School of Petaluma lost its 13th basketball game of the season last night, bowing to John O'Connell High School in San Francisco, 80-50. Steve Johnson led the losers with 11 points.

Raiders Hire New Assistant

OAKLAND (AP) — John Madden, new coach of the Oakland Raiders and described by his bosses as "a real take-charge guy," apparently is marshaling a staff of his own liking.

The appointment of Sid Hall as assistant coach in charge of linebackers was announced today by the American Football League club.

When Madden left San Diego State to join the Raiders, Hall took over his job as defensive coordinator.

Hall, 42, married and the father of four, played his college football at University of Pacific.

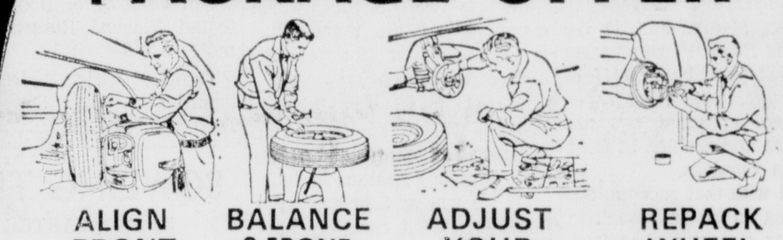

Tar Frosh Cagers Lose To Inmates

College of Marin's freshman basketball team lost to San Quentin Prison inmates, 92-82, at San Quentin yesterday.

Paul Leete scored 23 points for the College of Marin and grabbed 13 rebounds. Bill Hoge got 21 points and 11 rebounds as the Tars lost their sixth game in 15 outings.

San Marin Cagers Pull Stunner In New Gym

By GARY TISCHLER

A very hungry basketball team from San Marin High School stole the show from a $516,060 new, beautiful building in Novato last night.

The Mustangs, losers of eight straight Marin County Athletic League contests, stunned Marin Catholic High 69-64 to put a gaudy, wild twist into inauguration night for their new gymnasium.

It was a victory that some people had said wouldn't come until at least 1970.

Here's how the inauguration went:

Young Mike Kassenbrock, a junior varsity Mustang, was actually the first player to whip up the new nets, as he put through a jump shot in the preliminary.

But the varsity contest made things official. Here's a record of firsts and who did what:

Jim Thompson of San Marin took the first shot in the new gym, but it was Tim Hanrahan of Marin Catholic who sank the first fielder, while Roger Offenbach, also of the Wildcats, committed the first foul. San Marin's super-star Gary Howard topped that feat later by becoming the first player to get nailed with a technical foul when he protested an official's call.

Thompson made the first free throw of the game and Howard made the first San Marin basket.

Thompson's free-throw put the Mustangs ahead, 3-2, and they never trailed again.

Marin Catholic started with its second team, the same bunch who helped carry a 54-53 upset win over Tamalpais last Friday. They got mauled.

With Howard scoring repeatedly on his jump shots, and hitting enough free throws, with Thompson breaking way for layups and bespectacled Phil Adams driving underneath, the Mustangs led, 14-9, after a quarter.

That was close, but not unusual. The 25-point bombing by the Mustangs in the second quarter was the stunner and it left the dazed Wildcats behind 39-23 at the half. They never recovered, despite the insertion of ace Mike Murray.

Murray got the Wildcats going, but too late. Trailing by 56-39 going into the final period, they cut the San Marin lead, to 67-64 with less than 30 seconds left.

But Howard, who scored 27 points for the evening, calmly sank two free throws with five

Giants Boosters Club Turning Into Real Giant

BASEBALL BUGS — It started a year ago as more of a lark than anything else but, like the proverbial snowball and prairie fire — look out!

I refer to the Northern California Boosters Club for the San Francisco Giants which was organized here in Marin County a year ago by a young sports-minded bachelor named Allan Barrett Murray.

When Murray suggested an organized tour to Arizona to watch a baseball team in training last March many people questioned his sanity. Watching spring training, some argued, was comparable in excitement to watching grass grow. "Worse than than," Murray smiled, "it's like watching paint dry."

The paint, in this case, turned out to be a Rembrandt because Murray induced more than 100 fans to join his tour. The dyed-in-the-wool baseball fan will scale the Matterhorn to watch a Willie Mays blow his nose, so the Arizona trip was easy to promote and proved a fantastic success.

"The Giants were simply great to us," said Murray, "and we had such a ball that people asked for more trips."

Then Off To Houston

Later in the year Murray shepherded a couple of hundred fans to a series in Houston where they marveled at the Astrodome and other side trips that included a special tour of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

"More, more!" the growing Boosters Club cried.

"Well, it has snowballed on me," said the 35-year-old Murray, who is an insurance agent when he finds the time. "Would you believe that today we have more than 900 members in our Boosters Club? I've been working on it 16 yours a day, but it's great because I love baseball, enjoy travel and associating with people."

That the seed planted a year ago has germinated into immense proportions is exemplified by Murray's 1969 schedule, to wit: Three (3) tours to spring training in Arizona, with 100 persons per tour; 125 already signed up for a trip to the Giants' opening series in Atlanta; about 200 registered for an exotic junket to Montreal and New York in late May; and about 300 signed up for another safari into darkest Houston on Sept. 4

Two Hot Stove Banquets

To keep his Boosters baseball-minded during the dull winter months, Murray has staged two banquets, both of which were oversubscribed. "We had to eat in two shifts — sort of doubleheaders," he quipped.

The Boosters Club's membership roll, which includes about 100 Marin residents, ranges from 6-year-old Andrew Smith of Greenbrae to 96-year-old Max Carrington of Santa Rosa.

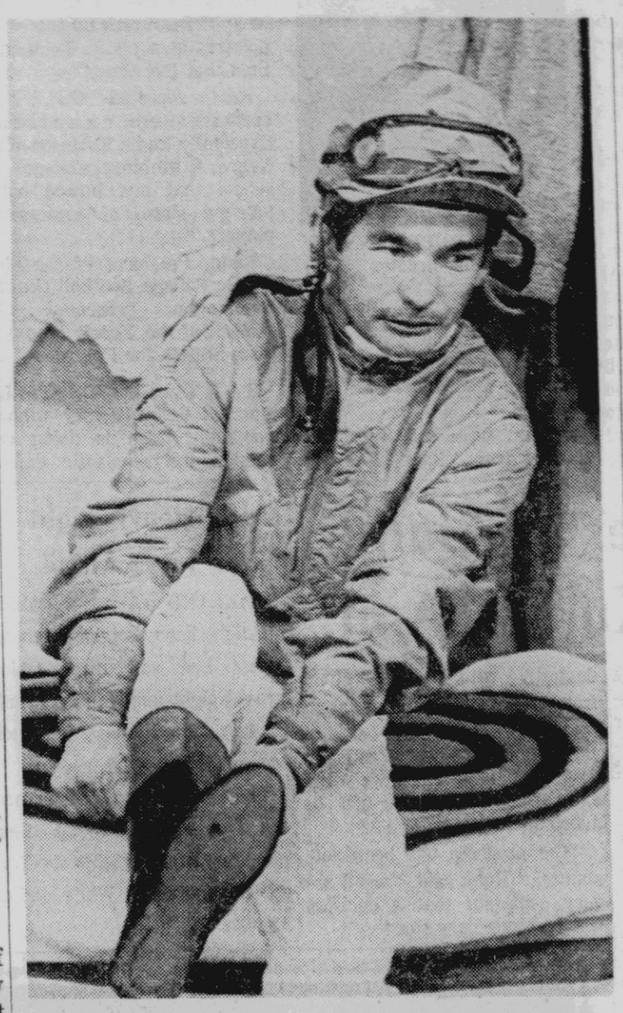

"We have men and women of all ages, all walks of life — ranging from a Mission District bartender to former U. S. Ambassador to Italy, Harold Zellerbach," Murray said. "We even have a member named O'Shea who is a mortician on Jersalem Street in the Bronx, New York. He's coming to spring training with us."

To what does he attribute the success of his club? Replied Murray, a former Tamalpais High School, College of Marin and University of Oregon basketball star: "Well, people are sick and tired of reading about all the violence in the world today. They want to get out to enjoy a good clean sport, meet new friends, let their hair down and relax. That's our selling point.

And The Price Is Right

"Besides, we've come up with an economical package that a lot of people can afford. For example, round trip, first class air transportation between San Francisco and Atlanta alone will cost you $323.40. We offer our members the air transportation, accommodations in the best hotel, box seats to three games in the season-opening series, a cocktail party and coffee klatch with Giants players and executives, all baggage handling and some sightseeing for $275."

Methinks Murray has injected some oomph back into the struggling national pastime. Said Russ Hodges, voice of the Giants: "He (Murray) has done a fantastic job generating enthusiasm among his Boosters; it's just what baseball needs and other big league clubs should take notice."

BACK IN THE SADDLE — Jockey Bill Shoemaker puts his riding boots back on in dressing room at Santa Anita after a year's absence due to a fractured thigh. Shoemaker didn't miss a step as he rode three winners in three tries. (UPI Telephoto)

Shoemaker Makes Great Comeback

ARCADIA (AP) — Jockey Bill Shoemaker was quite correct when he said, "I guess I couldn't have written a script any better than the way it turned out."

The once-silent Shoe could not have written it any better and the way it turned out was that after an absence of almost 13 months from the racetrack to let a broken leg mend, Shoemaker accepted three mounts at Santa Anita track and won all three races. Each was the second choice of the betting public.

Shoemaker has long since established himself as one of the great riders in turf history. But for high drama, for the almost incredible, this performance must rate high.

He started the cloudy afternoon with a 2 length victory in the sixth race on Princess Endeavour. It was his first start since the spill that sidelined him at Santa Anita Jan. 23, 1968.

"Sure," the Shoe admitted. "I was a little on edge going into the gate, but that's natural, I think."

Came the eighth, the feature race. It was Shoemaker and Racing Room by 1¼ lengths. And for an added touch Racing Room equaled the track record of 1:15 flat for 6½ furlongs set in 1965 by Wil Rad—ridden by Bill Shoemaker.

Two straight in the comeback. Few thought he could make it a triple. But it was Jay's Double, Shoemaker up, by three-quarters of a length in the ninth.

Princess Endeavour paid $7.80, Racing Room $5 and Jay's Double $8.20.

After the sixth race. the winner's circle was crowded with news cameramen, all on hand hoping that something good would happen.

Also, there were President Paul Strub of Santa Anita and a happy Mary Elizabeth Toppet, who owns both Endeavour and Racing Room.

Shoemaker was cheered and, in typical track fashion, booed.

"The leg felt fine, no problems at all," said Shoemaker. "I felt a little wobbly but it's just a matter of getting fit. My timing was off a little bit but that will come, too."

Maybe the timing was off but Shoemaker won the first race after dropping his filly off the pace. He won the eighth race after trailing dead last. And he won the ninth race wire to wire.

He has now ridden 5,781 winners, second only to retired Johnny Longden's 6,032. But ride number 23,255 on Endeavour has a place in Shoemaker's memory.

Millionaire Mieuli Smiles Through Tears

This hasn't been a happy basketball season for Franklin Mieuli, president of the Warriors. Nevertheless, Mieuli manages to smile.

This season, seventh in the west for the Warriors since Mieuli purchased them (with limited partners), for $850,000 in 1962, could be described as the year of Warrior Walking Wounded. Still, they probably will limp their way into the National Basketball Association playoffs next month.

On those rare occasions when they have been able to put their front five on the court, the Warriors have been brilliant. Last week in Los Angeles they beat the Lakers in three overtimes. But those flashes of brilliance have been infrequent.

SOME WARRIOR performances this season have been so shoddy that their former coach, Alex Hannum, said: "We beat them, the way I've seen the Warriors play lately."

Hannum, now coach of the Oakland Oaks of the American Basketball Association, meant that the Oaks could beat the Warriors. That statement was intended to needle Mieuli who declined to dignify it with an answer.

ANOTHER STATEMENT attributed this season to Hannum predicted a merger ultimately between the ABA and NBA. Mieuli was overheard telling a friend a merger only would take place "over my dead body."

Still, a third statement was attributed to Hannum this year: "I made Mieuli a millionaire once while I was coaching for him and whether he likes it or not I probably will again." (A reference to an ABA-NBA merger.).

IT IS TRUE that the Warrior franchise in the NBA for which Mieuli paid $850,000 in 1962 now is worth between $2 million and $3 million but Hannum hardly can claim credit for that. His brilliant coaching did help make the Warriors a solid club but didn't make Mieuli a millionaire.

Mieuli, in fact, was a millionaire when he bought the Warriors. His assets certainly were worth a million, particularly his 10 per cent ownership of the 49er football team.

MILLIONAIRES ARE not inclined to engage in quibbling debates over precisely how many millions they have. In any event, Mieuli let Hannum's third statement of the season aimed at him pass unanswered.

Mieuli is doing all of his talking to the Oaks now in court. Still on appeal is Mieuli's whopping legal action against the Oaks for luring Rick Barry away from the Warriors.

MIEULI WANTS a return of Barry's unique services, $365,000 actual damages and $4.5 million punitive damages.

With Barry, the Oaks are flying high. Without him, the Warriors are deeply distressed.

Richey Upset; Belvedere Netter Loses

SALISBURY, Md. (AP) — The first two major upsets of the 66th U.S. National Indoor Tennis Championships were recorded yesterday when defending champ Cliff Richey and New Zealand's Brian Frailie were eliminated.

Ismael El Shafel of the United Arab Republic took a 6-1, 6-4 victory over Richey, the No. 4 domestic seed from San Angelo, Tex.

(Mike Machette of Belvedere lost to Zeljko Franulovic of Yugoslavia 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.)

Favorite Clark Graebner of New York, top-ranked American since the withdrawal of Arthur Ashe, beat Herb Fitz-Gibbon of Garden City, N.Y., in another second-round match.

SMITH WINS

The other remaining U.S. seeded player, Stan Smith of Pasadena, the No. 3 domestic seed, defeated Pancho Guzman of Equador 12-10, 6-3.

Jan Kodes, a Czech teammate of Kukal, advanced to the third round with a 7-5, 6-4 victory over Mike Estep of Dallas.

Two British netters, champion Mark Cox and Bobby Wilson, took second-round victories. Cox upended Yugoslavia's Nikola Spear 6-3, 6-4. Wilson defeated Dick Stockton of Garden City, N.Y., 6-3, 6-3.

Thomas Koch of Brazil defeated Zan Guerry of Chattanooga, Tenn., 6-1, 7-5. Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico ousted Peter Curtis of England 6-4, 6-1.

One other European joined the third-round competitors. Ove Bengston of Sweden beat Tom Gorman of Seattle, Wash., 6-4, 6-4.

QUICK ONE

Ron Holmberg of Highland Falls, N.Y., took only 29 minutes to whip Roy Barth of San Diego, 6-0, 6-4.

Tom Edelfsen of Fort Walton Beach, Fla., downed Mexican national champion Joiquin Loyo-Mayo 6-3, 6-4.

Jim Osborne of Honolulu defeated Richard Russell of Jamaica 6-3, 6-3.

Torben Ulrich, Denmark, topped Tom Mozur, Sweetwater, Tenn., 6-3, 6-3.

Marin Coaches At Grid Clinic

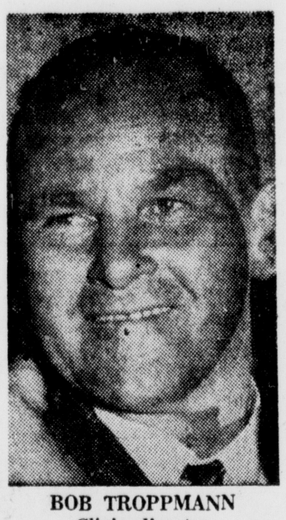

By GARY TISCHLER

The Football Coaches Association's Coach of the Year Clinic in San Francisco Saturday and Sunday must have been a big success. Ask anybody who attended.

The whole show was under the able direction of Redwood High School grid coach Bob Troppmann, with some local help from Redwood cage mentor Dick Hart.

A flock of Marin County coaches were among the 1,200 coaches on hand.

The Marin County list included Dick Read, John Panagakis, Pete Limm and Ed Grimm from College of Marin, Troppmann, Hart, Wes Price, Denis Ragan, Phil Roark, Bob Sargent, Al Endriss, and Gary Shaw from Redwood; Marlin Olsen, Ron Tocchini, and Cliff Vattuone from Marin Catholic High School; Al Scott, Tom Barrie and Jerry Colletto from Novato High; Bob Muster, Dr. Edward Cook, Gay Quandt, Don Rodrigo and David Wylie from San Rafael High and Don Lucas, Hank Yamagata, Jess Payan and Fred Goodwin from Terra Linda.

BOB TROPPMANN
Clinic director

There were no representatives from either Drake or Tamalpais on the registration list.

Scott, who had a share of the Marin County Athletic League grid title last season, reported, "Everyone concerned did an excellent job. The talks were a lot more detailed than before, covering some little things not usually covered. I usually feel lucky if I can pick up one or two pointers at a clinic. I got more than that this time."

Hart reported that. "The speakers were excellent. Especially Eddie Robinson of all-Negro Grambling College, the school that has turned out a large share of professional players."

Read, President of the State Junior College Football Coaches Association, presented the "Coach of the Year" Trophy to Penn State's Joe Paterno.

HART, INCIDENTALLY, reported that his very winning basketball team is doing real well in the scholastic department, too, averaging 3.2 as a team.

AL SCOTT
Learned a lot

THE SLEEPER success, sportswise, this year was probably Novato High School's annual boxing night, last week which saw some 2,000 fans turn out in a driving rain and windstorm to watch teen boxers slug it out.

There's a lot more than meets the eye to this annual slugfest; quite a bit of preparation on the part of the youngsters and adults goes into this one-night stand.

Al Scott, who coaches the youngsters and makes sure that they're physically ready, conducts daily practice sessions, beginning at 6:30 a.m. from six to seven weeks prior to the actual fight night.

The boys must have a physical exams, parents' permission and private insurance. They work out like any other boxer — with weights, medicine balls, jumping ropes, body bags and speed punching bags.

There are some elimination bouts prior to the big night, since anywhere from 30 to 50 boys go out for a sport in the finals.

That's a lot of dedication and enthusiasm for a one-night affair. Wally Campbell, the only three-time champ in the five year history of the fight night, worked out in addition to be a member of Novato's highly successful wrestling team and found time to earn a spot in the upcoming North Coast Section grappling meet.

Restructure Of Game Is Bowie Kuhn's Aim

BOSTON (AP) — Bowie Kuhn, baseball's new commissioner, says one of the major objectives during his term in office will be the restructuring of major league baseball.

Kuhn, speaking at a baseball writers luncheon yesterday at Fenway Park, said he is hopeful for a consolidation of administration.

"There'll always be an American League and a National League," Kuhn said, "but in the future they will have less impact on the game as separate entities."

Kuhn, a tall and articulate New York attorney, said the game itself has been under quite a bit of criticism lately, and this, too, will come under his restructuring program.

"But," he added, "baseball is more apple pie than apple pie. It still has a stronghold in this country and I don't think it is anything less than a sensational part of the American scene."

As to the threatened players strike, Kuhn said he is confident owners and players will come to terms before spring training begins. He said he has "no intention of being a compulsory arbitrator" in the dispute.

He said he has spoken confidentially with representatives from the players and management since becoming commissioner, and is "even more confidant now than I was a week ago" that the strike will be averted.

"The progress has been substantial," Kuhn said, "and I am very confidant that a decision will be made very shortly."

Busy Slate Planned For Mark Donohue

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Round-faced, crew cut Mark Donohue could become the most overworked man in auto racing this year—if, indeed, he isn't already.

The 30-year-old driver-engineer from Media, Pa., is the star of the Roger Penske racing team. Last year he won 17 of the 25 professional road races he entered, garnered two national titles and counted at least $100,000 in winnings.

Flushed with that success, the team plans an all-out assault in four major divisions of motorsports this season. By winning the recent 24-Hours of Daytona the team already has taken a giant step that could bring Penske his first World Manufacturer's Championship.

Penske, a wealthy Pennsylvanian and former driver, has hooked up with Lola Cars, Ltd., of Britain for the 1969 campaign and his ambitious program includes:

A new four-wheel drive Lola-Chevrolet for the Indianapolis 500 and half a dozen USAC championship road races.

—A new Group 4 Lola coupe. The car won the 24-Hours of Daytona and is entered next in the 12-hours of Sebring in March —the only two U.S. races which count toward the manufacturer's trophy won last year by Ford of Britain.

If the car wins at Sebring, Penske will have to decide whether he'll campaign in Europe, including LeMans in June.

"If we win at Sebring," says Donohue, "we'll certainly have to consider the European events."

A new Lola Group 7 unlimited sports-racer for the $1 million Canadian-American Challenge Cup series, dominated since its inauguration three years ago by European cars and drivers.

A T-142 Formula A Lola that will compete in the Sports Car Club of America's new professional formula series for open cockpit cars. This series is only a step away from the world Grand Prix circuit.

Penske, who retired from the cockpit several years ago after becoming one of America's most publicized non-Indianapolis drivers, will have the advice of cagy Eric Broadley, a retiring Englishman whose fragile Lolas long have been among the exotics of motor racing.

The Penske-Donohue combination will be joined this season by Ron Bucknum as co-driver. Bucknum probably will be used in the Formula A Series and in the Indianapolis-type events.

Neither Penske nor Donohue will outline their connection with General Motors, the biggest of the auto makers and the only one which ostensibly does not underwrite motor sports competition.

But those in the business point out that that the Penske-Donohue team has stuck strictly to Chevrolet power to become one of the most successful operations in auto racing.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

Firing the ball too far out on the lane can be almost as harmful as dropping it behind the foul line. Such a ball will probably not develop the roll that is necessary for good pin action. A bowler who lofts the ball too much may have too high a backswing. Hold the ball lower at address and shorten your swing.

Millionaire Mieuli Smiles Through Tears

This hasn't been a happy basketball season for Franklin Mieuli, president of the Warriors. Nevertheless, Mieuli manages to smile.

This season, seventh in the west for the Warriors since Mieuli purchased them (with limited partners), for $850,000 in 1962, could be described as the year of Warrior Walking Wounded. Still, they probably will limp their way into the National Basketball Association playoffs next month.

On those rare occasions when they have been able to put their front five on the court, the Warriors have been brilliant. Last week in Los Angeles they beat the Lakers in three overtimes. But those flashes of brilliance have been infrequent.

SOME WARRIOR performances this season have been so shoddy that their former coach, Alex Hannum, said: "We beat them, the way I've seen the Warriors play lately."

Hannum, now coach of the Oakland Oaks of the American Basketball Association, meant that the Oaks could beat the Warriors. That statement was intended to needle Mieuli who declined to dignify it with an answer.

ANOTHER STATEMENT attributed this season to Hannum predicted a merger ultimately between the ABA and NBA. Mieuli was overheard telling a friend a merger only would take place "over my dead body."

Still, a third statement was attributed to Hannum this year: "I made Mieuli a millionaire once while I was coaching for him and whether he likes it or not I probably will again." (A reference to an ABA-NBA merger.).

IT IS TRUE that the Warrior franchise in the NBA for which Mieuli paid $850,000 in 1962 now is worth between $2 million and $3 million but Hannum hardly can claim credit for that. His brilliant coaching did help make the Warriors a solid club but didn't make Mieuli a millionaire.

Mieuli, in fact, was a millionaire when he bought the Warriors. His assets certainly were worth a million, particularly his 10 per cent ownership of the 49er football team.

MILLIONAIRES ARE not inclined to engage in quibbling debates over precisely how many millions they have. In any event, Mieuli let Hannum's third statement of the season aimed at him pass unanswered.

Mieuli is doing all of his talking to the Oaks now in court. Still on appeal is Mieuli's whopping legal action against the Oaks for luring Rick Barry away from the Warriors.

MIEULI WANTS a return of Barry's unique services, $365,000 actual damages and $4.5 million punitive damages.

With Barry, the Oaks are flying high. Without him, the Warriors are deeply distressed.

Richey Upset; Belvedere Netter Loses

SALISBURY, Md. (AP) — The first two major upsets of the 66th U.S. National Indoor Tennis Championships were recorded yesterday when defending champ Cliff Richey and New Zealand's Brian Frailie were eliminated.

Ismael El Shafel of the United Arab Republic took a 6-1, 6-4 victory over Richey, the No. 4 domestic seed from San Angelo, Tex.

(Mike Machette of Belvedere lost to Zeljko Franulovic of Yugoslavia 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.)

In one of the most contested matches of the week-long meet, Czech national champion Jan Kukal ousted Frailie, third foreign seed, 18-16, 7-5.

Favorite Clark Graebner of New York, top-ranked American since the withdrawal of Arthur Ashe, beat Herb Fitz-Gibbon of Garden City, N.Y., in another second-round match.

SMITH WINS

The other remaining U.S. seeded player, Stan Smith of Pasadena, the No. 3 domestic seed, defeated Pancho Guzman of Equador 12-10, 6-3.

Jan Kodes, a Czech teammate of Kukal, advanced to the third round with a 7-5, 6-4 victory over Mike Estep of Dallas.

Two British netters, champion Mark Cox and Bobby Wilson, took second-round victories. Cox upended Yugoslavia's Nikola Spear 6-3, 6-4. Wilson defeated Dick Stockton of Garden City, N.Y., 6-3, 6-3.

Thomas Koch of Brazil defeated Zan Guerry of Chattanooga, Tenn., 6-1, 7-5. Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico ousted Peter Curtis of England 6-4, 6-1.

One other European joined the third-round competitors. Ove Bengston of Sweden beat Tom Gorman of Seattle, Wash., 6-4, 6-4.

QUICK ONE

Ron Holmberg of Highland Falls, N.Y., took only 29 minutes to whip Roy Barth of San Diego, 6-0, 6-4.

Tom Edelfsen of Fort Walton Beach, Fla., downed Mexican national champion Joiquin Loyo-Mayo 6-3, 6-4.

Jim Osborne of Honolulu defeated Richard Russell of Jamaica 6-3, 6-3.

Torben Ulrich, Denmark, topped Tom Mozur, Sweetwater, Tenn., 6-3, 6-3.

The whole game was played minus a clock as some 700 fans watched from the comfort of folding chairs.

Hanrahan had 24 points for the Wildcats. Murray 12, all in the second half. Thompson scored 17. Adams 18 for San Marin in giving Howard the help he's been missing all season.

The Drake-San Rafael fray was clean-cut with few fouls called. It was also a clean-cut verdict for the Bulldogs, who double-figure performances out of Ray Taylor (16), Roger Thomas (13) and Bruce Nave (10).

Clark Jamison, off form somewhat, topped Drake with 13 points.

Williams Thinks Conigliaro Okay

BOSTON (AP) — Red Sox Manager Dick Williams says he is confident Tony Conigliaro will be able to make a comeback this year, and that he will let him "call his own shots" as far as getting into shape during spring training.

Williams, speaking informally at a baseball writers luncheon at Fenway Park yesterday, said he saw Conigliaro play in the Instructional League in Florida.

"From what I saw," Williams said, "he was following the ball very well. Those pitchers may not be the best, but a lot of them can throw hard and break off a curve."

The 24-year-old outfielder suffered an eye injury when hit by a pitch in August, 1967, and has not played since.

Petaluma Quint Cuts Down Vallejo

Despite having two starters out with flu, Petaluma High School's go-go basketball team cut down Vallejo High 87-52 in Petaluma last night.

Guard Pete Daggett was the big gun again, pumping in 33 points with help from Ross Goree with 14 points and Larry Riis, 15.

Petaluma, with two games to play, is 15-6 on the season.

Last season the 26-year-old Cuban stole 62 bases in 84 attempts.

Diane Rides Again, Gets Her License

MIAMI (AP) — Diane Crump, the slender, 20-year-old blonde who broke the sex barrier in thoroughbread horse racing, asked for her Florida jockey license today—and she got it.

After Miss Crump brought a 24-1 longshot, Bridle 'N Bit, home fifth in a 12-horse field at Hialeah yesterday, steward Keene Daingerfield said she would be issued a license as soon as she asked for it. He was right.

Jockeys must ride twice to qualify for a license and Miss Crump handled her horse nicely yesterday in her second outing. She rode Bridle 'N Bit, then a 48-1 outsider, to 10th place in a field of 12 last Friday in a woman's first competition against men on a major American track.

An attempt by 19-year-old Barbara Jo Rubin to become the first girl rider was blocked by a male jockey boycott earlier at Tropical Park. And six riders canceled their mounts when Miss Crump was named as a rider last Friday.

But Diane apparently broke down the last resistance from the men yesterday. Some grudgingly complimented her.

"They had to tell her to weigh in (after the race) but she did all right," said Angel Cordero Jr., the nation's leading rider.

Miss Grump broke Bridle 'N Bit alertly, stayed on the rail all the way, and whipped left-handed through the stretch run. Her mount was fourth going into the first turn, dropped back to seventh on the back side, then closed ground in the home stretch.

John McKay To Coach For West

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Assuming he doesn't have a date at Pasadena next New Year's, John McKay of Southern California will be head coach for the West in the 45th annual Shrine East-West Football game Dec. 27.

Ted Balliet, general manager of the Shrine charity game, made the disclosure yesterday at a press luncheon.

Tom Cahill of Army, who was an assistant at the 44th game, is to be head coach of the East.

McKay's acceptance, of course, is dependent on whether his team can make a repeat appearance in the Rose Bowl.

Assistant coaches will be nominated later in the year.

Elvin C. Stendell, potentate of Islam Temple, which sponsors the game, said the event again will be held at Candlestick Park, where additional seating is under discussion.

Pitt Announces Assistant Coach

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Serafino Fazio was named defensive line coach of the Pitt football team yesterday.

Fazio, 29, who has been defensive line coach at Harvard, is the third assistant named by new head coach, Carl DePasqua. A Pitt spokesman said four more aides will be named.

The new coach was a regular starting center and defensive linebacker for the Pitt Panthers in 1958 and 1959. He served as head coach at Coraopolis High School in 1965 and 1966, when his team racked up a 13-4-1 record.

The whole game was played minus a clock as some 700 fans watched from the comfort of folding chairs.

Hanrahan had 24 points for the Wildcats, Murray 12, all in the second half. Thompson scored 17. Adams 18 for San Marin in giving Howard the help he's been missing all season.

The Drake-San Rafael fray was clean-cut with few fouls called. It was also a clean-cut verdict for the Bulldogs, who double-figure performances out of Ray Taylor (16), Roger Thomas (13) and Bruce Nave (10).

Clark Jamison, off form somewhat, topped Drake with 13 points.

Williams Thinks Conigliaro Okay

BOSTON (AP) — Red Sox Manager Dick Williams says he is confident Tony Conigliaro will be able to make a comeback this year, and that he will let him "call his own shots" as far as getting into shape during spring training.

Williams, speaking informally at a baseball writers luncheon at Fenway Park yesterday, said he saw Conigliaro play in the Instructional League in Florida.

"From what I saw," Williams said, "he was following the ball very well. Those pitchers may not be the best, but a lot of them can throw hard and break off a curve."

The 24-year-old outfielder suffered an eye injury when hit by a pitch in August, 1967, and has not played since.

Despite having two starters out with flu, Petaluma High School's go-go basketball team cut down Vallejo High 87-52 in Petaluma last night.

It struck twice in Oakland where Houston made it two consecutive American Basketball Association squeaker victories over the Oakland Oaks last night with a 101-100 win.

Oakland led 100-96 with 41 seconds to go last night when Bob Verga made a three-point play and Tony Jackson tipped one in with nine seconds to go to give Houston another upset win.

Diane Rides Again, Gets Her License

MIAMI (AP) — Diane Crump, the slender, 20-year-old blonde who broke the sex barrier in thoroughbread horse racing, asked for her Florida jockey license today—and she got it.

After Miss Crump brought a 24-1 longshot, Bridle 'N Bit, home fifth in a 12-horse field at Hialeah yesterday, steward Keene Daingerfield said she would be issued a license as soon as she asked for it. He was right,

Jockeys must ride twice to qualify for a license and Miss Crump handled her horse nicely yesterday in her second outing. She rode Bridle 'N Bit, then a 48-1 outsider, to 10th place in a field of 12 last Friday in a woman's first competition against men on a major American track.

An attempt by 19-year-old Barbara Jo Rubin to become the first girl rider was blocked by a male jockey boycott earlier at Tropical Park. And six riders canceled their mounts when Miss Crump was named as a rider last Friday.

But Diane apparently broke down the last resistance from the men yesterday. Some grudgingly complimented her.

"They had to tell her to weigh in (after the race) but she did all right," said Angel Cordero Jr., the nation's leading rider.

Miss Grump broke Bridle 'N Bit alertly, stayed on the rail all the way, and whipped left-handed through the stretch run. Her mount was fourth going into the first turn, dropped back to seventh on the back side, then closed ground in the home stretch.

John McKay To Coach For West

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Assuming he doesn't have a date at Pasadena next New Year's, John McKay of Southern California will be head coach for the West in the 45th annual Shrine East-West Football game Dec. 27.

Ted Balliet, general manager of the Shrine charity game, made the disclosure yesterday at a press luncheon.

Tom Cahill of Army, who was an assistant at the 44th game, is to be head coach of the East.

McKay's acceptance, of course, is dependent on whether his team can make a repeat appearance in the Rose Bowl.

Assistant coaches will be nominated later in the year.

Elvin C. Stendell, potentate of Islam Temple, which sponsors the game, said the event again will be held at Candlestick Park, where additional seating is under discussion.

Pitt Announces Assistant Coach

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Serafino Fazio was named defensive line coach of the Pitt football team yesterday.

Fazio, 29, who has been defensive line coach at Harvard, is the third assistant named by new head coach, Carl DePasqua. A Pitt spokesman said four more aides will be named.

The new coach was a regular starting center and defensive linebacker for the Pitt Panthers in 1958 and 1959. He served as head coach at Coraopolis High School in 1965 and 1966, when his team racked up a 13-4-1 record.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, Feb. 12, the 43rd day of 1969 with 322 to follow. This is Lincoln's birthday.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1912 China became a republic when the Manchu Dynasty was overthrown.

In 1942 the German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau escaped from Brest into the North Sea.

In 1953 Russia broke off diplomatic relations with Israel after terrorists bombed the Soviet delegation in Tel Aviv.

In 1963 a jetliner crashed in the Florida Everglades, killing 43 persons.

A thought for the day: President Lincoln said, "There is no grievance that is fit object of redress by mob law."

TIME AND TIDE

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Keeping Line Open To The Hand Important For Making Hard Bid

Since the inexperienced bridge player cannot tell the difference between his own hand and the dummy, it's useless to give him learned advice about leading from the correct hand for a finesse. Our hero should draw trumps as quickly as possible on every hand because sometimes that will be the right thing to do and the rest of the time he will at least make his mistake quickly and painlessly.

BEGINNER'S WAY

In today's hand the beginner takes the ace of spades and immediately draws three rounds of trumps. Then he tries a finesse with dummy's queen of diamonds.

When this finesse succeeds, our inexperienced friend leads dummy's last trump to his own hand and leads another diamond to finesse with the jack.

This likewise succeeds, but declarer cannot get to his hand for a third diamond finesse. If South leads the ace of diamonds, West's king does not drop; and if declarer leads a club or a spade from dummy the defenders speedily take a spade and three clubs to defeat the contract.

KNOWS DIFFERENCE

The experienced player knows the difference between his own hand and the dummy and also knows that he must lead diamonds three times from his own hand to get the most out of dummy's long suit. How does he get to his own hand three times for these three finesses? Only by way of the trump suit.

After winning the first trick with the ace of spades declarer leads the six of trumps to his own seven. Then he tries a diamond finesse.

DIAMOND FINESSE

When this succeeds, declarer takes the jack and king of trumps, followed by a second diamond finesse. Next he leads dummy's last trump to his own ace in order to take a third diamond finesse.

Declarer can finally cash dummy's ace of diamonds to discard his losing spade. He can lead a club from dummy, and his contract is safe even though he must lose three club tricks because of the unlucky location of the ace of clubs.

BEGINNER'S WAY

In today's hand the beginner takes the ace of spades and immediately draws three rounds of trumps. Then he tries a finesse with dummy's queen of diamonds.

When this finesse succeeds, our inexperienced friend leads dummy's last trump to his own hand and leads another diamond to finesse with the jack.

This likewise succeeds, but declarer cannot get to his hand for a third diamond finesse. If South leads the ace of diamonds, West's king does not drop; and if declarer leads a club or a spade from dummy the defenders speedily take a spade and three clubs to defeat the contract.

KNOWS DIFFERENCE

The experienced player knows the difference between his own hand and the dummy and also knows that he must lead diamonds three times from his own hand to get the most out of dummy's long suit. How does he get to his own hand three times for these three finesses? Only by way of the trump suit.

After winning the first trick with the ace of spades declarer leads the six of trumps to his own seven. Then he tries a diamond finesse.

DIAMOND FINESSE

When this succeeds, declarer takes the jack and king of trumps, followed by a second diamond finesse. Next he leads dummy's last trump to his own ace in order to take a third diamond finesse.

Declarer can finally cash dummy's ace of diamonds to discard his losing spade. He can lead a club from dummy, and his contract is safe even though he must lose three club tricks because of the unlucky location of the ace of clubs.

The first bicycle with variable-speed gears was made around 1889.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ — K Q 7 3
♥ — 5 4 2
♦ — 7 5
♣ — Q J 10 9

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades. You have maximum value for a raise, so that you will accept an invitation to game if partner can bid again.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, Feb. 12, the 43rd day of 1969 with 322 to follow. This is Lincoln's birthday.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1912 China became a republic when the Manchu Dynasty was overthrown.

In 1942 the German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau escaped from Brest into the North Sea.

In 1953 Russia broke off diplomatic relations with Israel after terrorists bombed the Soviet delegation in Tel Aviv.

In 1963 a jetliner crashed in the Florida Everglades, killing 43 persons.

A thought for the day: President Lincoln said, "There is no grievance that is fit object of redress by mob law."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Lightface type indicates a.m. times; bold-face type indicates p.m. times.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Takeover Technique Confuses A Reader

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I've read how companies worry about takeover. How can a company be swallowed? My Amphenol was taken over by Bunker-Ramo; I also owned Montgomery Ward and Sinclair. Although I've bought stock for 35 years, today's takeovers confuse me. — J. G.

A. You're not alone in your confusion. The U. S. Justice Department isn't always sure a takeover — or merger — is permissible. Financial analysts often disagree on the effects of some corporate combinations, and professional accountants are trying mightily to establish new practices to give the public meaningful earnings comparisons following takeovers. The men, who for years may have directed companies that attract takeover scouts, must be worried by the latter's techniques.

Mergers and acquisitions, though, are not always "bad business." In the cases of Montgomery Ward and Container Corp. and Atlantic Richfield and Sinclair, anticipated operational advantages are evident. Similarly, the purchase by a large company of a smaller one, for cash or stock, may be clearly advantageous to both. I'm sure some small companies hope their progress will attract purchasers.

Stockholders generally get full value from the takeover, although initially they may not feel easy with a new convertible preferred or a complex product mix difficult to assess for its net profitability.

Your Amphenol acquired Bunker-Ramo — adopting that name — and contributed 71 per cent of combined revenues. Assuming full conversion of preferred and exercise of options and warrants, Amphenol shareholders would control 51 per cent of the new Bunker-Ramo. Continue to hold it along with Marco and Sinclair.

Market Closes Low In Active Day Of Trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — The market finished lower today in active trading.

After getting off to a good start on encouraging economic news, the list took on an easier tone in the second half of the session in light of the uncertainty surrounding the resumption of Vietnam peace talks. Round four is scheduled to get under way in Paris tomorrow amid indications the North Vietnamese may be planning a major offensive aimed at strengthening their position at the bargaining table.

Prospects of another hike in trucking rates, the third in less than two years, bright corporate financial developments, and a Labor Department report showing the nation's jobless rate held steady last month provided initial support.

Scientific Data was in retreat after zooming 17¼ in the previous session. Late last Friday, Xerox, also easier, tentatively agreed to acquire the computer manufacturer.

Steels also worked lower despite recent favorable production reports. Chemicals lacked direction, while motors traded in narrow ranges. Oils showed scattered strength, with Sinclair, trading ex-dividend, and Cities Service, each up more than a point after three hours of trading.

Rails were narrowly irregular, as were airlines. Aircrafts, too, moved in uncertain fashion.

Armour turned lower after gaining more than 4 in the previous session. Greyhound and General Host, both trading narrowly are seeking Armour's shares.

Takeover Technique Confuses A Reader

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I've read how companies worry about takeover. How can a company be swallowed? My Amphenol was taken over by Bunker-Ramo; I also owned Montgomery Ward and Sinclair. Although I've bought stock for 35 years, today's takeovers confuse me. — J. G.

A. You're not alone in your confusion. The U. S. Justice Department isn't always sure a takeover — or merger — is permissible. Financial analysts often disagree on the effects of some corporate combinations, and professional accountants are trying mightily to establish new practices to give the public meaningful earnings comparisons following takeovers. The men, who for years may have directed companies that attract takeover scouts, must be worried by the latter's techniques.

Mergers and acquisitions, though, are not always "bad business." In the cases of Montgomery Ward and Container Corp. and Atlantic Richfield and Sinclair, anticipated operational advantages are evident. Similarly, the purchase by a large company of a smaller one, for cash or stock, may be clearly advantageous to both. I'm sure some small companies hope their progress will attract purchasers.

Stockholders generally get full value from the takeover, although initially they may not feel easy with a new convertible preferred or a complex product mix difficult to assess for its net profitability.

Your Amphenol acquired Bunker-Ramo — adopting that name — and contributed 71 per cent of combined revenues. Assuming full conversion of preferred and exercise of options and warrants, Amphenol shareholders would control 51 per cent of the new Bunker-Ramo. Continue to hold it along with Marco and Sinclair.

Market Closes Low In Active Day Of Trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — The market finished lower today in active trading.

After getting off to a good start on encouraging economic news, the list took on an easier tone in the second half of the session in light of the uncertainty surrounding the resumption of Vietnam peace talks. Round four is scheduled to get under way in Paris tomorrow amid indications the North Vietnamese may be planning a major offensive aimed at strengthening their position at the bargaining table.

Prospects of another hike in trucking rates, the third in less than two years, bright corporate financial developments, and a Labor Department report showing the nation's jobless rate held steady last month provided initial support.

Scientific Data was in retreat after zooming 17¼ in the previous session. Late last Friday, Xerox, also easier, tentatively agreed to acquire the computer manufacturer.

Steels also worked lower despite recent favorable production reports. Chemicals lacked direction, while motors traded in narrow ranges. Oils showed scattered strength, with Sinclair, trading ex-dividend, and Cities Service, each up more than a point after three hours of trading.

Rails were narrowly irregular, as were airlines. Aircrafts, too, moved in uncertain fashion.

Armour turned lower after gaining more than 4 in the previous session. Greyhound and General Host, both trading narrowly are seeking Armour's shares.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER JAMES WIKEL, CPA

Nearly Any Item Deductible If Prescribed By A Doctor

Wikel

Medical expenses are deductible to the extent that they exceed 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income.

If you or your spouse are over 65 years old, the 3 per cent provision now applies to you.

You can deduct any sums that you spent for " . . . the diagnosis, cure, mitigation, treatment or prevention of disease, or for the purpose of affecting any structure or function of the body (including amounts paid for accident or health insurance), or for transportation primarily for and essential to medical care . . . "

Your costs for drugs and medicines count to the extent that they exceed 1 per cent of your adjusted gross income. This now applies even if you are over 65.

NOT OVER $150

You can deduct one-half of the premiums you paid for medical care and hospitalization insurance, including but not more than $150. This is done on page 2, Part IV, line 1 of Form 1040.

This applies only to prepaid medical care insurance such as Blue Cross, Blue Shield, etc., and not to ordinary accident and health insurance where you collect a flat daily, weekly or monthly benefit.

The balance of your medical care insurance is added to your other medical expenses and is subject to the 3 per cent limitation.

MANY ITEMS

Almost anything is deductible as a medical expense if your doctor prescribed it.

The birth pill if prescribed by a doctor and is necessary for the preservation of the wife's health.

Wig, prescribed for mental health of a lady who had lost her hair.

Swimming pool, prescribed for a polio patient.

Seeing eye dogs and their upkeep.

Monthly life care fee paid to a retirement home, that part for medical care if it can be proven how much that part is.

Autoette or wheelchair, where used for the alleviation of sickness or disability and not for commuting to work.

Clarinet and lessons, prescribed for a tooth defect. It is also possible to get two deductions for one expenditure via the medical expense deduction.

RECOVERY ITEMS

Suppose you are laid up for a long time, you purchase a motorized hospital bed, a wheel chair, etc., and they cost $500. You deduct the cost as a medical expense.

Then you recover. Give them to a charity and deduct the fair market value as a contribution. Be sure to see IRS Publication 561, Value of Donated Property.

In any of these areas be sure to carefully check the rules to be sure they apply to your situation before you take the deduction.

Costs of travel, transportation, rental of special sickroom equipment, etc., as well as doctor bills, nurses, hospital costs and other expenses directly connected with your illness or accident are deductible.

DEPENDENTS, TOO

Deductible medical expenses can be for yourself or any of your dependents.

A dependent must have been your dependent either at the time the costs were incurred or at the time they are paid. You can deduct medical costs you paid for a dependent even though you may not be able to claim the dependent as a tax exemption.

For instance: you help support your mother who worked part time and made over $600. Because she made over $600 you cannot claim her as a dependent. However, if you furnished over one-half of her support, you can still deduct the medical costs you paid for her.

FOR MEDICAL TRIPS

Under Revenue Procedure 64-15, you can deduct 5 cents a mile for the use of your car for transportation to secure medical care, plus parking, bridge tolls, etc.

Use Form 2948, Medical and Dental Expense Statement, and attach it to your tax return.

It does not matter when these costs were incurred. They are deductible in the year paid. You cannot deduct costs that you owe. They must be paid to get deduction.

If part of your medical costs were reimbursed, that is, if your insurance company paid a part of them, then you can deduct only the part you actually paid and that was not reimbursed to you.

California rules are now the same as the federal.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER JAMES WIKEL, CPA

Nearly Any Item Deductible If Prescribed By A Doctor

Wikel

Medical expenses are deductible to the extent that they exceed 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income.

If you or your spouse are over 65 years old, the 3 per cent provision now applies to you.

You can deduct any sums that you spent for " . . . the diagnosis, cure, mitigation, treatment or prevention of disease, or for the purpose of affecting any structure or function of the body (including amounts paid for accident or health insurance), or for transportation primarily for and essential to medical care . . . "

Your costs for drugs and medicines count to the extent that they exceed 1 per cent of your adjusted gross income. This now applies even if you are over 65.

NOT OVER $150

You can deduct one-half of the premiums you paid for medical care and hospitalization insurance, including but not more than $150. This is done on page 2, Part IV, line 1 of Form 1040.

This applies only to prepaid medical care insurance such as Blue Cross, Blue Shield, etc., and not to ordinary accident and health insurance where you collect a flat daily, weekly or monthly benefit.

The balance of your medical care insurance is added to your other medical expenses and is subject to the 3 per cent limitation.

MANY ITEMS

Almost anything is deductible as a medical expense if your doctor prescribed it.

The birth pill if prescribed by a doctor and is necessary for the preservation of the wife's health.

Wig, prescribed for mental health of a lady who had lost her hair.

Swimming pool, prescribed for a polio patient.

Seeing eye dogs and their upkeep.

Monthly life care fee paid to a retirement home, that part for medical care if it can be proven how much that part is.

Autoette or wheelchair, where used for the alleviation of sickness or disability and not for commuting to work.

Clarinet and lessons, prescribed for a tooth defect. It is also possible to get two deductions for one expenditure via the medical expense deduction.

RECOVERY ITEMS

Suppose you are laid up for a long time, you purchase a motorized hospital bed, a wheel chair, etc., and they cost $500. You deduct the cost as a medical expense.

Then you recover. Give them to a charity and deduct the fair market value as a contribution. Be sure to see IRS Publication 561, Value of Donated Property.

In any of these areas be sure to carefully check the rules to be sure they apply to your situation before you take the deduction.

Costs of travel, transportation, rental of special sickroom equipment, etc., as well as doctor bills, nurses, hospital costs and other expenses directly connected with your illness or accident are deductible.

DEPENDENTS, TOO

Deductible medical expenses can be for yourself or any of your dependents.

A dependent must have been your dependent either at the time the costs were incurred or at the time they are paid. You can deduct medical costs you paid for a dependent even though you may not be able to claim the dependent as a tax exemption.

For instance: you help support your mother who worked part time and made over $600. Because she made over $600 you cannot claim her as a dependent. However, if you furnished over one-half of her support, you can still deduct the medical costs you paid for her.

FOR MEDICAL TRIPS

Under Revenue Procedure 64-15, you can deduct 5 cents a mile for the use of your car for transportation to secure medical care, plus parking, bridge tolls, etc.

Use Form 2948, Medical and Dental Expense Statement, and attach it to your tax return.

It does not matter when these costs were incurred. They are deductible in the year paid. You cannot deduct costs that you owe. They must be paid to get deduction.

If part of your medical costs were reimbursed, that is, if your insurance company paid a part of them, then you can deduct only the part you actually paid and that was not reimbursed to you.

California rules are now the same as the federal.

Proposal To Register Rentals Is Explored

A plan to require that all rental units in San Anselmo be registered so they could be inspected annually was outlined last night for the city council.

Councilman Robert M. Scott, reporting he has become concerned about shacks full of people around the city, asked that his proposal be investigated by the city attorney.

"They seem to be inhabited by people from another world, or somewhere," said Scott. "I have an idea there are health problems."

He said he would like to see all rental units registered, including single family dwellings, and a small fee paid to cover annual inspections for fire, health, structural and other hazards.

The council asked City Administrator-Controller Alfred C. Kaeppel to work with the city attorney to draw up a plan for consideration Feb. 25 at 8 p.m.

Also to be discussed at the next meeting is the revamping of the Hub intersection. The council approved changing the intersection, but a group of "concerned San Anselmo citizens" asked that it be reconsidered.

All-English Horse Show On March 16

The Liberty 4-H Light Horse Show Group of Petaluma will sponsor an all-English open and junior horse show on March 16 at 8:30 a.m. at the Chris Beck Arena at the Sonoma County Fairgrounds, Santa Rosa.

The show is approved by the California State Horsemen's Association and will include eight junior point classes and 10 open classes, the sponsors said.

Originally planned for last November, the show was rained out, leading this time to selection of April 15 at the Atherton Stables in Novato as an alternate date and site in the event of rain March 16, according to Mrs. Hugh Stroupe, project leader.

Judging will be done by Sandra McKeon of Concord.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Offutt of Petaluma have announced they will give a junior English high point trophy of a Steuben saddle to the junior English rider who accumulates the most points in Region One shows between March 1969 and March 1970. Mrs. Stroupe said riders can begin gathering points for the prize at the March 16 show.

Information and entry blanks can be received from Marsha Stroupe, 185 Queens Lane, Petaluma, the show secretary. Entries will close on March 10.

Yoga Lecture Set

Yoga expert, Kriyananda, will give a lecture on "self-awareness through yoga" Friday, 8 p.m. at Browns Hall, 390 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley.

Arts Quartet To Play On Sunday

The Marin Arts Quartet will present the second concert of its current season Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Outdoor Art Club, Mill Valley.

The program will feature the string bass with string quartet. Bassist Carl Modell of the San Francisco Symphony and Opera orchestras, will join the quartet in quintets of Milhaud and Dvorak. Completing the program will be the Quartet, Opus 76, No. 2, of Haydn.

Members of the quartet are violinists Charles Meacham and Michael Gerling, violist Elizabeth Bell and cellist Jean Mitchell.

Hub Council Fears Improvements Of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard

Fearing their town would become a corridor to the seashore, San Anselmo City councilmen last night decided to leave Sir Francis Drake Boulevard the way it is.

The council voted 4-1 against a county proposal to fix curbs and gutters along one side of Drake from El Cerrito Avenue to Butterfield Road, a measure the council believed would prompt an additional lane of westbound traffic during peak evening hours.

Councilman Woodrow V. Capurro, who dissented, said, "We can't sit here and be a bottleneck." Capurro maintained the action would create a freeway on Center Boulevard which parallels Drake through the city.

"If we make it too easy to get through we would be solving the state's problem," contended Councilman James F. Reed who agreed with the council majority that it was up to the state to provide a highway bypass to the shore.

John F. West, planning commission chairman, reported his group had voted against prohibiting parking in the curb lane for westbound traffic altnough Charles R. Leitzell, public works director said it would be "a more efficient use of the existing street."

West said he believes a good rapid transit system, a freeway bypass and improved side streets, such as Butterfield Road, were essential before widening Drake.

"We are in the position of being bulldozed by the county," said Mayor Duane C. Reagan, calling the short extra lane "an interim measure at best."

The council did not specifically take action against prohibiting parking, indicating their refusal to have curbs and gutters repaired automatically eliminated the proposal.

Councilmen did agree to leave in an application for county urban thoroughfare funds to improve signalization on Drake. The council has asked $25,000 to upgrade existing lights and install a new system at Sir Francis Drake High School.

The San Anselmo City Council also:

ZONING — Adopted a policy that rezoning on individual lots not be granted without consideration of whether it meets the minimum requirements of the new zone, instead of merely on a basis of general planning of the area.

CLAIM — Denied and referred to the insurance carrier a claim from Mrs. Gloria Ann Yates who said she fell on a poor sidewalk. She asked a total of about $70 for doctor bills, a lost day of work, shoes and nylons.

BURNING — Agreed to investigate ways to revamp trash pickup when the load increases due to the new Bay Area burning ban.

LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM — Approved a six-point program of possible state legislation, including using gas tax funds for mass transit, tax revision and a multi-purpose limited regional government. The suggestions will be sent to Marin legislators.

REZONING — Approved an ordinance rezoning property at 84 Madrone Avenue from single family to planned development as asked by Emily Merriman for a 22-unit apartment project.

Proposal To Register Rentals Is Explored

A plan to require that all rental units in San Anselmo be registered so they could be inspected annually was outlined last night for the city council.

Councilman Robert M. Scott, reporting he has become concerned about shacks full of people around the city, asked that his proposal be investigated by the city attorney.

"They seem to be inhabited by people from another world, or somewhere," said Scott. "I have an idea there are health problems."

He said he would like to see all rental units registered, including single family dwellings, and a small fee paid to cover annual inspections for fire, health, structural and other hazards.

The council asked City Administrator-Controller Alfred C. Kaeppel to work with the city attorney to draw up a plan for consideration Feb. 25 at 8 p.m.

Also to be discussed at the next meeting is the revamping of the Hub intersection. The council approved changing the intersection, but a group of "concerned San Anselmo citizens" asked that it be reconsidered.

The Liberty 4-H Light Horse Show Group of Petaluma will sponsor an all-English open and junior horse show on March 16 at 8:30 a.m. at the Chris Beck Arena at the Sonoma County Fairgrounds, Santa Rosa.

The show is approved by the California State Horsemen's Association and will include eight junior point classes and 10 open classes, the sponsors said.

Originally planned for last November, the show was rained out, leading this time to selection of April 15 at the Atherton Stables in Novato as an alternate date and site in the event of rain March 16, according to Mrs. Hugh Stroupe, project leader.

Judging will be done by Sandra McKeon of Concord.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Offutt of Petaluma have announced they will give a junior English high point trophy of a Steuben saddle to the junior English rider who accumulates the most points in Region One shows between March 1969 and March 1970. Mrs. Stroupe said riders can begin gathering points for the prize at the March 16 show.

Information and entry blanks can be received from Marsha Stroupe, 185 Queens Lane, Petaluma, the show secretary. Entries will close on March 10.

Hub Council Fears Improvements Of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard

Fearing their town would become a corridor to the seashore, San Anselmo City councilmen last night decided to leave Sir Francis Drake Boulevard the way it is.

The council voted 4-1 against a county proposal to fix curbs and gutters along one side of Drake from El Cerrito Avenue to Butterfield Road, a measure the council believed would prompt an additional lane of westbound traffic during peak evening hours.

Councilman Woodrow V. Capurro, who dissented, said, "We can't sit here and be a bottleneck." Capurro maintained the action would create a freeway on Center Boulevard which parallels Drake through the city.

"If we make it too easy to get through we would be solving the state's problem," contended Councilman James F. Reed who agreed with the council majority that it was up to the state to provide a highway bypass to the shore.
